By EDWIN J. POLLOCK

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 22.—Down in the hollow of Palmer Stadium today two varieties of the great college game of football will pass into the fire of competition.

Neither will escape without a scorching, but if close, compact charging, intermingled with a few aerial shots, survives, the East will spread its supremacy over the country.

On the other hand, if tricky, widespread formations and numerous forward passes arise triumphant from the flames, the banners of the West will go soaring to the skies.

In the most important intersectional clash of the season, Princeton's athletes, exponents of the game as played in the East, will endeavor to cope with the Western open game as taught by Alonzo Stagg to University of Chicago stalwarts. The game will start probably at 2:30.

The teams will exhibit systems as far apart as the two institutions. The Tigers do not mass their play like the elevens of old, but their game is compact, as compared with the wide, open football on which the Westerners will depend for victory.

Many Trick Plays

Alonzo Stagg, for twenty-eight years coach of successful Maroon teams, is unique among football tutors. He is known as a gridiron inventor and has originated more plays than any mentor in the country. Every season he uncovers brand-new formations that startle the football world and are copied all over the States.

"The Chicago game will surprise Eastern spectators," said a Chicago critic who came here for the contest. "They will see something they never have seen on a gridiron before. Stagg teaches a very open style and the players spread all over the place. More trick plays will be sprung than ever have been tried in any previous game, for Chicago is out to win. I believe they would rather beat Princeton than take the Conference title."

Stagg, an old Yale man, probably would give his right eye and his left, too, if he could gain a victory, but he is not at all confident.

"We have a good team here," said the squatty, gray-haired coach, who years ago used to snare Princeton plays when they were thrust at his end of the Yale line, "but it is not a great team. Other Chicago elevens have been far superior, but one thing about this squad is that I have plenty of good substitutes. In fact there are two and in some cases three men of almost equal ability for the various positions. This is convenient, because in case of injuries a substitute is just as good, as the shopkeeper says."

Chicago Line-up Uncertain

"It is on account of this abundance of material that I cannot name eleven men at this late hour and say definitely that they will start the game. King will be the center and Captain Maguire will play right tackle. There I have to stop and puzzle over two or three players for every other post."

Stagg pointed out that the ends would be chosen from Strohmeier, Crisler and Holladay, with chances favoring the first two. Crisler captained the Chicago basketball team last season and Holladay is captain-elect of this year's team. Their experience at this indoor game has made them very adept at catching forward passes.

Lewis is likely to be the left tackle at the start, although Fletcher also is being seriously considered. Miller, Rohrke and Dawson are the left guards and Redmon, Proudfoot and Leatherman the right guards.

Either Romney or Totge will call the signals from the quarterback position. The halfbacks will be picked from Cole, Pyott, Neff, Bryant, Hurlbart and Moecher, while Timney, Zorn and Hermes are the leading fullback candidates. It is probable that the backfield will consist of Romney, Cole, Bryant and Zorn.

It was the first intersectional battle for the Tigers since they turned back Michigan with a defeat in 1881.

Tiger Mass-Meeting

The entire undergraduate body of old Nassau held a big mass-meeting in Alexander Hall last night to arouse enthusiasm to the highest possible degree. Samuel White, famous for his runs in 1911, and Dean Howard McClenahan addressed the gathering.

The Chicago squad arrived here from Trenton about 1 o'clock and the players went direct to the stadium. They will depart immediately after the game.

The Westerners brought with them a big cheering section and have taken nearly three thousand seats in the west side of the big concrete horseshoe.

The Tigers entered the contest minus the services of several stars. Don Lourie, Hank Garrity and Dick Newby, all are out with injuries. Baker, Maccabee and Gray all of whom started in the Navy game last week, watched the fray from the side lines, their places being taken by Von Schilling, Enwer and Tyson respectively.

Cadets Will Give Penn Hard Fight

Sprohan thinks that the trick plays his team has up its sleeves will surprise Penn again this year and make the game as interesting as the 1920 struggle.

Virginia Military Institute boasts of a student population of 550, as compared with the 6000 active students at Penn. Of that number, sixty reported for football this year, quite a number of whom never played the gridiron sport before. Out of this number the coach has been able to weld together a football machine that is the pride of Virginia.

Team a Veteran One

With few exceptions this year's team is a veteran one. In Summers, of Alexandria (Va.) High, Clarkson has one of the best tackles in the South. Last year he demonstrated his ability to the delectation of the V. M. I. rooters against Penn. He is twenty-two years of age, stands six feet three inches in his stocking feet and weighs 210 pounds. He will face Sutherland, Penn's giant Idaho tackle, who played guard until the injury to Johnny Thurman.

stars as Wescott, a former Atlantic City High School star, at left guard, six feet two inches and weighing 186 pounds; Harrison, a 218-pounder, at right guard; Hunt at right tackle and Ridgley at right end, all veterans.

In the backfield he will have Bunting, who played havoc with Penn's line last year, and Venable, who saw action against the Red and Blue last year. According to Tom McNamara, who scouted the Cadets this season, Venable and Bunting are two of the best light backs he has seen this season.

"They are exceptionally fast," said Tom this morning, "and in addition have the knack of hitting the line like rifle bullets." Farley, the quarterback, weighs the same as Rex Wray, 136 pounds. According to our authority on the other two backs, Farley is capable of running back punts with the best in the land and a born general with a team. Costolo, the other back, is a former Lynchburg star. He weighs 155 pounds.

Penn Outweighed

V. M. I. will outweigh Penn in the line from end to end by three pounds, while the backfield average of the Southerners is 152 pounds and of Penn 157 pounds. The weights for the two teams in their entirety is about 175 pounds, Penn having a slight advantage of about half a pound.

The Penn coaches this morning were undecided about the backfield to start the game. Rex Wray was a certainty at quarterback, they said, and Fox Miller at one of the halves. The last named has entirely recovered from his sore throat and is ready for a grueling game.

Mike Whitehill will not start the game, according to one of the coaches this morning. It is said that the former Rutgers lad is not in the best of shape for a grueling game. Mike thinks that he is in shape to play a game, but will see the start of the game, at least, from the sidelines.

Biben and Langdon to Start

In place of Mike, Tommy Langdon, the Scranton lad, who distinguished himself against Franklin and Marshall and won a varsity jersey for himself, will start at right halfback. The up-State lad is light, but can hit a line with all the power of a much heavier man.

Joe Biben, the former Central High School lad, will start at fullback in place of Johnny Lukas. The Shamokin lad limped around this morning so perceptibly that the coaches gave up all idea of having him enter the game. Biben has been tearing the scrub line to tatters in scrimmage drills, and should come through this afternoon with some excellent line plunging. Originally a tackle, Biben has developed into a clever line bucker. He is short in stature and weighs about 165 pounds.

Chance for Dern

There is a chance that Johnny Dern, the Salt Lake City High School star of last year, will get into the game at the start at center. Hap Day, the regular pivot man, is suffering from a badly injured left leg, and the coaches, if possible, want to save him until next week. Dern has been on the sidelines for a month as the result of injuries. He suffered a fractured collarbone early in the season, and last week suffered a bruised knee. Dern worked out with the varsity in signal drills yesterday and looked fast.

For his substitutes Heisman has Wittmer, Staullins, Krall, McAnally, Grove and Maher. It is not thought likely that Al Vogelin, the Central High School lad, will see action this afternoon.

PITT-ORANGE TILT TOPS CARD TODAY

Syracuse and Panther Clash Heads Important Games. State Engages Harvard

YALE WILL BATTLE ARMY

Football schedules now are narrowing down to the point where the decision means success or failure in the season. There are four games in the big time college circuit that stand out prominently in today's card, but there also are a number of smaller tilts that will send thrills down the spines of thousands.

At the top of the list is that pink tea which will be served with war clubs at Pittsburgh when the Panthers clash with Syracuse. This contest, together with the battle that will be waged at Cambridge between Harvard and Penn State will have a very definite bearing on the final acounting of championship merit in the East.

The big intersectional clash between Princeton and Chicago at Tigertown will not mean anything unless the Maroons rise up and spank Roper's athletes. Then the superiority of the West will stick out all over the East, for the Windy City team is not rated as the leading eleven in the Big Ten Conference. In fact, there are three teams in the Western circuit reputed to be better than Stagg's eleven. However, if Princeton wins, it will be as it should, for the Tigers do rate among the topnotchers in this section despite the defeat suffered at Annapolis last Saturday.

Yale Battles Army

Yale will face its first real test of the season when the Army is engaged at New Haven. The Cadets have a strong eleven despite the early season reverse handed down by New Hampshire State in one of the double-headers staged at West Point. Yale is the favorite, but it is likely that the Bulldog will have to show more than straight football to win.

These are the real big games of the day. The other tilts have lots of local attraction, but are not very important to the general fotoball public unless the dope is upset and the favorite dropped for the count.

Aside from the Princeton-Chicago affair, there are two other intersectional clashes. Penn takes on Virginia Military Institute at Franklin Field, and Rutgers will go to Atlanta to engage Georgia Tech. Foster Sanford's eleven nosed out Washington and Lee last Saturday by a rally in the last half, but are not likely to be so successful in the South. Last year, the Virginia cadets hung it on Penn and the Quakers are out for revenge. There are no Leeches in the Southerners' backfield this year, and the Red and Blue is the favorite.

There are four games remaining on the Penn schedule. They are with Pittsburgh, Lafayette, Darthmouth and Cornell, and come in the order named. These teams will be watched closely by the Quaker supporters. As has been mentioned the Panthers oppose Syracuse, but the other three teams have supposedly easy contests.

Dartmouth Engages Columbia

Dartmouth will line up against Columbia at Hanover a two to one favorite. Colgate should not bother Cornell to any great extent and Joe Dumoe's Fordham team is not figured to give Lafayette much trouble.

There are a number of interesting battles among the little fellows in football. The fur will fly at Swarthmore where the Garnet and Franklin and Marshall are due to clash. The Lancaster collegians have improved considerably since their defeat by Penn and last week took over Ursinus, 55-0. The Garnet will not have it easy.

Up at Bethlehem, Lehigh battles Washington and Jefferson. The Presidents have not been scored upon this season and have trimmed Bethany. Bucknell, West Virginia Wesleyan and Carnegie Tech by impressive scores. Lehigh lost to Penn State, 28-7, but is not as bad as that score indicates. Frank Glick has his eleven working smoothly and the Presidents are in for a tough afternoon.

There are two important Catholic games booked. Holy Cross, the team that held Harvard to 3-0, faces Georgetown at Worceser, and at the Nation's capital, Catholic University will engage Villanova. The suburban eleven has not lost a game this season and according to Dave Ward, the former Villanova quarterback, Allie's Miller's team has an even chance of beating the Washington aggregation.

Boston College Battles Detroit

Frank Cavanaugh's Boston College team puts on an inter-sectional battle against Detroit at the Hub City. The Beanenters have three victories to their credit, having won over Boston University, Providence and Baylor.

West Virginia is sure to take Bucknell seriously in the game at Morgantown. The Lewistown collegians frightened Lafayette by scoring in the second period and leading the Eastonians 7-0 at half time last Saturday. Tubby Spears, the West Virginia coach, will send his battlers after Bucknell from the first whistle.

There will be four games within easy reach of local fans aside from the Penn and Swarthmore frays. At the Strawbridge & Clothier field Drexel Institute will line up aginst George Washington College, at Haverford Delaware will battle Haverford, Ursinus and Dickinson will go to the mat at Collegeville and at Chester the Pennsylvania Military College Cadets will engage Washington.

In the West two Conference battles hold the attention. They are between Michigan and Ohio State at Ann Arbor and Illinois and Wisconsin at Urbana. Notre Dame-Nebraska and California-Oregon are two other big contests.

TRIO OF QUAKER CITY GRID STARS

WASHINGTON BOYS PLAY HERE TODAY

Eastern High Will Meet Catholic High on Cahill Field This Afternoon

By PAUL PREP

A big intercity football game will be played on Cahill Field, Twenty-ninth and Cambria streets, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Catholic High School, of this city, will entertain Eastern High, of Washington, D. C., runner-up in the Washington Public High School Football League last season and a strong contender for the title this year.

The Eastern squad arrived at West Philadelphia station at 10:30 A. M. The team was accompanied by "Warhoop" Guyon, their coach, and Charles H. Hart, the principal of the capital institute. They were met by the Alumni Association of Catholic High School and taken on a sightseeing tour of the city.

When asked about the prospects for today Coach Guyon replied, "We will give our best and should make a good showing." Weitzell, the big fullback, and Herzog, the tackle, were both left at the capitol. Weitzell is under the weather and the latter has a broken ankle. O'Dea, the center, will replace Herzog.

The coming of Eastern High to this city will mark the second time that an "outside" eleven has invaded Philadelphia in recent years. Brooklyn Prep is the only other aggregation from a distant city that will appear here this season. The Brooklyn boys come over annually to battle the Crimson and Gray of St. Joseph's Prep.

The "Senators" have lost only one game this season. After taking three straight from a trio of the best scholastic elevens down below the Mason-Dixon line, the Capitol Hill team was stopped last week by the Washington Central High squad, 6 to 3. Central's victory was the result of a penalty and a fumble, which put it in an easy position to score.

Captain Prender, of the Eastern High eleven, was the individual star in all of his team's games this season. He was the big noise in the game with Central also, even though his aggregation was walloped. An account of his exploits in the Central game was printed in a Washington newspaper the next day, as follows:

"Little Arthur Prender, captain and quarterback of Eastern High School's football team, carved his name deep into the history of scholastic football yesterday. Although he failed to register a touchdown for Eastern, it was his remarkable generalship and broken field running that forced the powerful Central steam roller to extend itself to the limit to win.

"The midget Prender found the strong Central line much to his liking. He had no difficulty in making substantial gains off tackle and around the ends, but he was given little assistance by his running mates. He rammed center, bit off tackle and skirted the ends without once failing to make a substantial gain. But when he called on his backfield men for aid, in the shadow of Central's goal posts, he found the punch lacking.

"The petit leader deserved to win, and had The other backs given him the right kind of support he would have done so easily."

Coach Jack Greer, of Catholic High's team, has his boys all set to stem the visitors' onrush. Greer's eleven is made up of green material. With the exception of about two boys, the youngsters all are playing their first year of varsity football.

The Rev. Dr. John Bonner, vice rector of the Catholic High School and head of the athletic association of the institution, has made elaborate preparations for the game. Programs have been printed with the statistics of the players with their numbers. The stands that were used by the Shanahan Club during the baseball season, at Forty-sixth and Brown streets, have been brought to Cahill Field.

STRONG CHESTER ELEVEN TO PLAY CONSHOHOCKEN

Larkin, Former Swarthmore Captain, at Head of Visiting Aggregation

The Chester A. C., which held Coatsdale to a single touchdown last Sunday, will be the opponent of the Conshohocken this afternoon at Conshohocken. The Chesterites have the strongest team in many years and have an experienced squad of former college stars, foremost of which is Larkin, captain of Swarthmore last year.

Bert Yeabsley is the latest addition to the Conshy eleven. He makes his first appearance today, and he should fit in nicely with such other players as Lukens, Rosetsky and Mackert. The Chester eleven is a heavy one, averaging 180 pounds, and they will endeavor to put a stop to Conshy's winning streak.

Their schedule is the hardest of any team in the State, as they will meet Coatdale, Frankford, Heinie Miller's Quakers and Phoenixville in a row. The date for the Coatdale clash has been set as November 5 at Conshohocken. The line-up for this afternoon's game follows:

Conshohocken		Chester

The Northwestern eleven, which handed East Falls a 14-7 defeat last Saturday, takes on the Quaker City Pros this afternoon at Stenton Field Club grounds, Chew and Pleasant streets.

Coach Boyce is decidedly pleased with the work of his team and expects to have no trouble in annexing the championship of Germantown. He will start his line-up intact this afternoon, but has several new men who may get into the fray before it is over.

ENGLISH HOCKEYISTS PLAY

Girl Invaders Tackle 1920 Philadelphia Overseas Team Today

The all-English women's field hockey team plays its second game today since reaching these shores. The invaders will play the 1920 Philadelphia overseas team at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, St. Martins.

In the first game Thursday the all-English team smothered the all-Philadelphia team of last year under a shower of 16 goals to 1. The Britons will meet stouter opposition today, however.

Opposed to the Philadelphians will be the star of the English team, Miss Holderdale. The fair visitor lived up to her reputation as the greatest exponent of the game in England, for in the game on Thursday she scored nine of the sixteen goals.

The English team has a splendid attack and it will be a question, perhaps, of how well the Philadelphians can withstand the drive. Mrs. B. Fraley will be goal tender for the Philadelphians and she may be forced to show her best tactics in goal guarding to thwart the efforts of the invaders.

HOLMESBURG AND EWING TO CLASH

Gridiron Rivals to Meet on Crystal Field First Time in Five Years

AT WASHINGTON TOMORROW

Holmesburg		Ewing A. A.
Potts	left guard	LeBline
Lynch	center	Lehman
Godfrey	right guard	Shamleton
Oliver	right tackle	Gardner
Emanuel	right end	Byrne
Selgie	quarterback	Doucherty
McGuckin	right halfback	Moore
Caskey	fullback	Hugo

Ewing A. A. and Holmesburg will clash on the gridiron at Crystal Field, Rhawn street east of Frankford avenue, for the first time in five years this afternoon, and the largest crowd of the season is expected by the suburban football management.

Ewing last Saturday held Union, of Phoenixville, to three first downs and the two touchdowns made by Union came in the first five minutes on two costly fumbles. Ewing is being coached by George Ruthrauff, of the University of Iowa. He says he has the makings of one of the best teams in his present squad.

Holmesburg has been given a severe shaking up the last week; several players have been dropped and newcomers have been added. The most important of the newcomers is Larry Oliver, who will hold down one of the tackle positions. Oliver was a former member of the Masillion Tigers. Kurtz, who was a member of the team for seven years, has returned.

"Buck" Sweetland will also start in tomorrow's clash and there is a possibility of several other stars being on hand in time for the game. Leo Lynch, the former Villanova star, will captain Holmesburg this afternoon, having been elected to that position after last Saturday's clash. Holmesburg plays in Washington tomorrow.

DREXEL ALL SET

Local Team Will Tackle George Washington University Today

Coach McAvoy has his Drexel Institute team on edge for their big game with George Washington University this afternoon on Strawbridge & Clothier field. The last scrimmage was held Wednesday when he kept the first and second teams at hard work until 6 o'clock. Thursday and last night he gave them signal drill.

The visiting team is coming to Philadelphia with an exceptionally heavy team, but Coach McAvoy expects to put one on the field to equal it. The visiting line averages 180 pounds, while Drexel's line averages 181 pounds. Then Drexel has three backs who weigh over 200 in Reed, Buckman and Hoffman who might see service. The visiting backfield averages 173 pounds against 158 for Drexel, but it is expected the speed of Greenwood and Belcher will make up for this.

The line-ups are as follows:

No.	Drexel		Geo. Wash.	Unit
20	H. Miller	left tackle		Campbell
5	Mason	left guard		Jarvis
4	McQuarrie	center		Hamlin
6	Connell	right guard		Mallahan
10	Tevking	right tackle		Wilson
10	Myers	right end		Allen
9	Belcher	quarterback		Arrigo
8	Greenwood	left halfback		Speakman
7	W. D. Miller	right halfback		Magnano
3	Crichton	fullback		Lovelace

Referee—Bemis, Penn. Umpire—Neil, Temple. Head linesman—Sell, Williamson.

Hobart to Play Logan

Hop Stengle's Hobart eleven will clash with Logan Beds-Kerts on Logan Field, Eighteenth and Rockland streets, Kickoff 3 P. M. A large crowd is expected, as both teams will have their full strength out for their annual battle. Line-up:

Gerardy	center	Gilmore
Lukens	right guard	Lehrman

FORTIETH WARD AT DARBY

West Philadelphia Eleven Meets Fire Fighters in Grid Game

The West Philadelphia Fortieth Ward eleven will oppose the Darby firemen's team in a football game at Darby this afternoon. The local boys are all set and anticipate a victory.

Coach Stanley Hunt, of Radnor Hall, has the suburban lads on ends and tackles, looks for a scoring game. The game starts at 2 o'clock.

SHENANDOAH HERE TO PLAY QUAKERS

Champions of Coal Region Assist Conway's Stars in Opening Pro Grid Season

The pro football season will be ushered in this afternoon at 2:30 P. M. at the Phillies' Ball Park, Broad and Huntingdon streets, when Leo Conway's Philadelphia Quakers clash with Shenandoah, champions of the coal region.

Shenandoah arrived here last night in the pink of condition. Manager Joe Separsky stated that his eleven has been working out every day during the last week after having gotten over the effects of their victorious battle with Lancaster. The Shenandoah backfield will be composed of Bush, fullback; Writis and Donovan, halfbacks, and Honis, quarterback. This eleven is particularly strong on the wings, with Cynbal and C. Shapple. Both of these men are fast, heavy and receive forward passes in Heinie Miller style. In the line will be G. Shapple at center; Hayes and Racis, guards, and Sanders and Kawatzko, tackles.

Captain Heinie Miller led one of the greatest arrays of talent ever gotten together under one flag. Miller, of course, will be on one end and Duke Dussosoit, the famous Dartmouth end and captain of the big Green team, will be on the other wing. Leo Little, of Penn, will be in one tackle position and Bill Lowe, Lafayette, will be at the other.

The guard stations will be taken care of by two equally famous players—Joe Spagna, of Lehigh, and Swede Youngstrum, another product of Dartmouth. Lud Wray, all-American center of the University of Pennsylvania, will do the tossing back.

Miller's team will be directed by Johnny Scott, one of the greatest players in the East, who received his college football experience at Lafayette. Stan Cofall, formerly of Notre Dame, another all-American selection, will be at fullback and he will be flanked by Carence Beck, Penn State, and Sam Webb, of Lehigh, at the halfback post.

The Quakers are well fortified in second-string material. A big bunch of substitutes will be on this afternoon. Among them will be Johnny Maguire, formerly of Villanova and last year's fullback on the Second City Troop team that played indoor football at night in the cavalry armory at Thirty-second street and Lancaster avenue. Another crack sub is Monahan, who is now a student at the University of Pennsylvania. He is not eligible for Heisman's team because he played three years at Penn. However, he has been working out with the scrubs on Franklin Field all season.

Only Half Dozen Favorites Run True to Form on Scholastic Gridirons

WEST CATHOLIC DEFEATED

Of the many scholastic favorites, only six came through with victories on the various gridirons yesterday afternoon. St. Joseph's Prep, Frankford High, Germantown Friends, Bryn Athyn Academy, Radnor High and Germantown Academy were the teams that ran true to form. They defeated West Catholic High, Central High, Episcopal Academy, West Philadelphia High, Tredyffrin-Easttown High and Chestnut Hill Academy, respectively.

Giblin's failure to kick the goal after touchdown and add the extra point cost West Catholic High a victory in the game with St. Joseph's Prep by the score of 7 to 6 at the P. R. R. Y. M. C. A. grounds. It was the first Catholic League game of the season. St. Joseph captured the championship last year, and their win yesterday put them in a great position to cop again this season.

The Crimson and Gray score was the result of a well-thrown and received forward pass from the hands of Captain Breslin to Dineen. The ball was hurled from the West Catholic 18-yard mark. Previous to this score Bierling, the Blue and White back, committed one of the costliest fumbles of the year. The oval got away from him on his own 35-yard mark, and when he finally fell on it he was resting on his own 5-yard mark.

Ninety-Yard Touchdown Run

The Blue and White tally came in the third period, and was made on a spectacular 90-yard run by the same player that committed the costly fumble—Bierling. With the ball on West Catholic's 18-yard mark and in their opponents' possession, Breslin hurled a forward pass, which was intended for Dineen. Before the ball dropped in the latter's waiting hands, Bierling leaped into the air, speared the ball and, with a clear field in front of him, raced almost the entire length of the field for the touchdown. Then came the deciding point of the game, when Giblin, nervous and shaking, booted the ball under the bar instead of over it.

Frankford disposed of its foremost rival in the interscholastic championship by taking the measure of Dr. O'Brien's Central eleven on their home field by the score of 13 to 0.

St. Luke's Triumphs

St. Luke's prospects for capturing the interacademic title received a severe jolt when it was taken into camp by Haverford School, the new addition to the league this season, by a score of 33 to 14.
