

BROADWAY BANDITS GET BIG MAIL HAUL

Rob U. S. Truck of Sum Estimated Between $100,000 and $1,000,000

ESCAPE IN AUTOMOBILE

By the Associated Press
New York, Oct. 25.—Three automobile bandits who held up a United States mail truck in Lower Broadway late last night, escaping with four pouches of registered mail, were being sought by police and postoffice inspectors today.

Postal authorities said they were unable yet to fix the value of the stolen mail, much of which had originated in the Wall Street district. One of the inspectors on the case, however, was reported to have told city detectives the pouches contained about $1,000,000 in money and negotiable paper. Other estimates fixed the value of the haul around $100,000.

Frank Havranek, driver of the truck, was detained by the police to look over suspects expected to be brought in as the result of a city-wide alarm, sounded a half hour after the hold-up.

Havranek told the police he had proceeded only a few blocks on his run from the City Hall station to the General Postoffice opposite the Pennsylvania Terminal, when a green touring car bearing three men overtook him. Two men stood on the running board with pistols, which they leveled at him, the others climbed inside the truck, selected four pouches from the load of seventeen, and threw them into the touring car.

Then the trio tumbled into the car and sped away, first warning Havranek not to follow. As soon as they had turned a corner Havranek started his truck in pursuit, but the green car had disappeared and Havranek reported the hold-up to the police.

This is an Age When Forty Can Look Twenty-five

And often does—if she guards her health and begins early to give skin and hair a little correct daily care.

Gimbels Beauty Salons can tell you of a new “French paste” for the face that keeps that birth-date from settling there. Or a new hot oil treatment that gives “tired hair” the “aliveness” of twenty.

Or of new coiffures that become—and youthen. Every accessory to smart hair-dressing. And often the cost is trivial. Why not talk it over?
