CORNELL'S THRUSTS STICK GREEN BUBBLE Dartmouth Rout by Ithaca's Worst in History of New England Team—State Proves Power With 28-7 Win Over Georgia Tech

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK CENTER'S knitting of Harvard's upset in a field here form was also an... The Green bubble which floated victoriously over Norwich, Middlebury, New Hampshire, Tennessee and Columbia broke at Ithaca when Cornell black-jacked Jim Robertson and his Dartmouth playmates, 50-7; Penn State breezed through the Golden Tornado in a surprising fashion; Muhlenberg poked out Swarthmore when Johnny Egan failed to kick the goal after touch-down; Washington and Jefferson gave Syracuse its second straight defeat; Chicago smothered Colorado; Lehigh took a fall out of West Virginia; Brown scored at Yale, but later received a severe thrashing; Virginia expected to hold the Tigers to a low score, but instead was smothered under 24 points; Rutgers found Lafayette more powerful than Georgia Tech and lost, 23-0, and Penn failed to live up to expectations when the Quakers permitted Pitt to run away with a 28-0 win.

Interference Real The interference looked like real interference and seldom failed to snare back and second defenses. The backs followed it well and broke away at the opportune instant. Kicks, with one exception, were run back as they should be—straight up the field. The one exception was when Beck Egan kicked a little excited and tried to outrun an end across the gridiron.

Stinson Makes Good Bob Stinson showed himself to be a good line-cutting back. He carried the ball more like a carrier than any man on the squad. Head up he picks up openings well and goes through without any thought of stepping when through. He has a good whirl and fights with his legs. Most of his work is done in the waist, giving him terrific drive.

State is off the Penn schedule this year, but Philadelphia will have a chance to see the great Bezik machine in action on Franklin Field, any day. On November 12, the day Penn and Dartmouth settle their arguments at Polo Grounds, Bezik will be here to engage Bob Fowlie's fighting middles, Navy and State.

CAPT. DALE LOST TO YELLOW JACKETS Out of Game With Holmesburg on Saturday, Due to Injuries in Riverside Clash

BRICKLEY TO PLAY HERE Out of Saturday's football games comes the announcement of injuries to a number of players on the various teams, but the most serious is the one from the Frankford Yellowjackets which will keep the services of their captain, Frank Dale, in the big clash with Holmesburg on Saturday. Dale may be missing from the line-up for the rest of the season.

Holmesburg Swamps Roth Holmesburg (tuned up for the Frankford fray by taking the Roth A. C. into camp on Oct. 21.) The East Olney boys at times surprised their heavier opponents and offered stubborn resistance in both the second and fourth periods. In the second period, Holmesburg was held to a field goal by Charlie McGuckin and did not count in the final fifteen minutes of play.

Quakers' Seant Victory The Philadelphia Quakers emerged a winner by a scant 2 to 0 over Fort Lee and the up-starters proved their merit in the clash with Leo Conway's Quakers, their sole score coming from a safety in the fourth quarter. The game was hard fought with most of the playing being in the center of the field. The Quakers made six first downs to five for Fort Lee, but were outscored 2-0.

PITT ATTACK BRINGS PRAISE FROM HEISMAN "Not in Thirty Years Have I Seen Such Speed, Starting or Power as Panthers Exhibited," Says Penn Coach.

Visitors Think Miller a Great Back "We have another hard week ahead of us, but, believe me, we have learned a lot that will enable us to prepare for Lafayette." A Penn coach did the talking about the prospects against the Maroons here next Saturday.

Miller's performance against the Maroons here next Saturday... Lafayette has a wonderful team, I should say remarkable team, when it defeated such a team as Pittsburgh, which looked up Saturday afternoon. However, we have shown that we can stop the rushes once the plays are sized up. I won't take us as long next Saturday as it did last, and he chuckled.

Fought Hard—Heisman "The boys fought brilliantly in that second half, and I cannot praise them too much. We need more tackling and more defensive practice, and then many of our boys will be ready to meet the remaining game."

A Great Eleven "There was nothing but praise for Pittsburgh among the Penn players and coaches this morning. They were a unit in saying that Warren had a great eleven; that the drive of the Panthers was terrific in the first half, but that after Penn got its sense of direction at the start of the second half that the great attack was not so brilliant."

Stinson's performance against the Maroons here next Saturday... The load of the game I walked to the center and told them not to play, but they deliberately defied my orders and proceeded to oppose the Colts.

The steady user knows that this year's ATLANTIC is a BETTER GASOLINE

Long-period test is the truest measure of a gasoline's quality. It is the kind of test Atlantic Gasoline invites. For it is then Atlantic can prove that this year's product is better, not merely "in spots," but consistently better—more thoroughly dependable—more absolutely uniform than any other gasoline on the market today.

Atlantic Gasoline is refined to a definitely fixed standard, in refineries that are among the largest and most modern in the world. It is a better gasoline because it is not only higher in the number of calorific units, but because it is a more finely balanced combination of quick-acting volatility and power-producing stability.

ROPER WATCHES HARVARD By JACK QUATRICK Former Princeton Quarterback

At last it has come! The co-ordination which Roper and his charges have striven so hard to attain at Princeton has arrived. Although Virginia offered no serious resistance, the showing of the Tigers Saturday was most impressive. The power was there and working all at once. The line charged as a line and tore large alleys in all Virginia had to offer.
