

MEMORIAL PLANS WILL BE RUSHED

Overwhelming Majority at Polls for Structure on Parkway Was Expected

TAX MAY BE LEVIED

A memorial to the soldiers and sailors of all wars of the United States will be erected on the Parkway as a result of the decision of the people at the polls yesterday.

The vote on the proposed memorial was as follows: For, 150,946; against, 19,221.

The overwhelming majority in favor there will be no delay in carrying out the wishes of the citizens.

The memorial will take the form of an elaborate hall built along majestic and artistic lines which will be used for conventions and large gatherings of all kinds.

The vote on the memorial is in harmony with action taken at the last Legislature, which authorized every county of the State to hold a referendum on the question.

County Commissioner George Holmes said today no time would be lost in carrying out the wishes of the voters.

"Under provisions of the bill which authorized counties to take a referendum on the memorial," said Mr. Holmes, "the proposed structure is to be erected under the supervision of the County Commissioners, who have authority to levy a tax not exceeding two mills in any one year in fee."

"A two-mill tax in one year in Philadelphia would produce $4,000,000. Although the bill authorizes the county to collect such a tax for ten years, the Commissioners consider the act to mean it shall be collected in only one year."

In order that everything may be harmonious the project will be taken up with Council and Mayor Moore. We will confer also with representatives of the American Legion, Post No. 195, and all other who may give advice which will expedite the project.

Asked if an additional tax would be required to raise the cost of the memorial, Mr. Holmes said the Council

CAESAR WOULDN'T BE WARY OF JAPANESE DELEGATES

Neither Tokugawa Nor Shidehara Is Any Kin of "Lean and Hungry Cassius"

Washington, Nov. 9.—They're saying in Washington that Congress will soon adjourn. And there's a reason: With the international conference ready to begin its work, Congress is being crowded off the front page. That is a fate from which even the hard-boiled legislator shrinks. When they can get headlines they talk. When they can't get them they quit.

They will be back again in December and stay on the job more or less steadily, if less oratorically than usual, most of the winter. There seems no way out of that. But the capital hopes fervently that when Congress does return it will work more and talk less than during the extra session. It can't be called more than a hope.

It is to be the "City of Washington," hereafter on all official documents. With the sanction of President Harding, acting largely on the suggestion of local cycle-holders and other local interests, the Government is to use this designation know what is meant) are finding satisfaction in the physiognomy of two of the Japanese delegates, Prince Iyasato Tokugawa and Ambassador Shidehara, because their faces are round. Caesar (observing Cassius), was quoted as saying: "Let me have men about me that are fat. You Cassius hath a lean and hungry look; he thinks too much." He added something to the general effect that such individuals are good for nothing but "schemes, stratagems and spoils." Looking over the Prince and the Ambassador, American observers have been pleased to note a well-fed appearance and a certain geniality of manner. They say plump people are easier to get along with, more open to reason and less inclined to plottings. In which they agree with Shakespeare.

It's all wrong. Official Washington had its top hats ironed, its spats nicely cleaned and smelling of gasoline. Its shoes half soled and shined and its morning coats freshly pressed at the little Italian tailor shop and was all ready to go when Aristide Briand arrived. He wore a sack suit that needed pressing and a derby hat tilted jaegerly over one eye. It was disastrous to the morale of the Diplomatic Corps. How can armaments be reduced if prime ministers are to dress like that?

Strollers are always on the lookout for visiting dignitaries and their families. Today a big, powerful car with

PHILA. TO RALLY FOR LIMIT OF ARMS

Town Meeting Called to Place Citizens Squarely Behind the President

TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Confidence in the outcome of the disarmament conference will be expressed at a town meeting to be held in the Academy of Music Friday night. At that time Philadelphia will place itself squarely behind President Harding in his fight for progressive limitation of armaments.

The call follows:

"We believe that the citizens of Philadelphia hail the conference assembling at Washington at the call of the President as a great step toward the progressive limitation of armaments.

"We believe that they are ready, in the spirit of brotherly love from which our city takes its name, to pledge support to all measures agreed upon at the conference for the promotion of international justice and good will.

"To give public expression to Philadelphia's support of the President and confidence in the outcome of the conference, we invite our fellow citizens to a town meeting to be held at the Academy of Music on Friday evening, November 11."

PROTEST AGAINST THEFTS

Porches and Vestibules Looted in Woodland Avenue

Woodland avenue residents are making a protest against petty thieving in the neighborhood of the Sixty-fifth street and Woodland avenue station.

Two thieves are reaping a rich harvest from the back yard clotheslines they say. Recently they have adopted another means of snatching articles waiting at the front of physician's offices and stealing umbrellas left on the porches or vestibules. In some instances the hallways of physicians' homes have been entered and articles stolen.

Fire Destroys Automobile

Fire destroyed the automobile of Samuel Morris, 2403 North Thirty-first street, at Thirtieth and Dauphin streets at 1 o'clock this morning. The car was valued at $2000.
