"Come in When You Will, to Look or to Show Your Friends the Sights"

The Simple, Unpretentious Service of Yesterday

in obedience to the President's call, and to meet the expectation of the noble American Legion, gave great pleasure to all who participated in it.

The greatest of all known organs tolled its bells. Those great bells! Whoever heard the bells of France—the chimes of Normandy—always wanted to hear them again.

Welcome as the numbers were, there was something much greater. It was the "at homeness" of everybody who made up the great family, deeply interested in the building that they had built, and dedicated to their service by the President of the United States.

The writer of this gave a little interview to the reporter of The Philadelphia Record, which will probably be found in their news columns.

Today and every day we are all here for service. Come when you will, to look or to show your friends the sights of the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

[Signed]

John Wanamaker

A Diamond Best Stands the Test of Time

And so in a peculiar and beautiful way it typifies an eternal friendship between the giver and the recipient.

In anticipation of the nearby Christmas season, the Jewelry Store has added very greatly to its fine large collection of diamond jewelry, particularly of beautiful diamond rings in platinum mountings.

Rings with solitaire diamonds in exquisite openwork settings, some being mounted with small diamonds, $150 to $2900.

Three-stone diamond rings, some with rubies, sapphires or emeralds, in addition to diamonds, from $140 to $2600.

Platinum wedding or guard rings, set with diamonds, $100 to $325.

Women's Sturdy Fur Coats for Hard Outdoor Service

Young women especially choose these hardy raccoon and natural muskrat coats for general winter service. They are ideal coats to wear to the game, or wherever else one is exposed to the weather.

We have an unusually fine collection of these coats. The skins are of the best quality obtainable, worked up in a fashion that makes for beauty as well as utility.

Natural muskrat coats in 36 to 45 inch lengths, from $175 up.

Raccoon coats in the same lengths, from $225 up.

Coats of leopard, marmot and civet approximate the others in style, service and reasonable price.

150 Women's Wool Sweaters Reduced to $10 Each

Women who need good warm sweaters to wear under their coats in cold weather, or those who want sweaters for skating or golf, would do well to look over some of these here.

They are odds and ends of all kinds of knitted wool, mohair, alpaca and brushed-wool sweaters, coat styles mostly, but a few slip-ons. One or two of a kind only, but all good colors. Some have been three times as much.

Dainty Dimity Blouses Seem Meant for a Sports Suit

Or for one of the new sleeveless dresses which are of sports type.

In three very pretty styles at $4.50 and $5, women will find both striped and plaid dimity blouses, Peter Pan collars in eye-let embroidery and others that are simple rolled affairs with perhaps a touch of hand embroidery and a picot edging.

These are among the most popular lingerie blouses at the present time and there is a good reason for it.

(Third Floor)

Breakfast Coats of Satin

Pink, light blue, Copenhagen and lavender, made with pockets and self-quilting; price very moderate—$7.85.

(Third Floor)

The Best $1.50 Serge We've Had This Year

It is every thread wool, 48 inches wide, and it is the fine "French" weave which is so much in demand for Winter dresses, pleated skirts and for children's clothes.

Besides navy and midnight blue, there is a very pretty seal brown and also black.

(First Floor)

Two Good Lots of Women's Silk Stocking "Seconds"

$1.50 a pair for full-fashioned silk stockings in black, white and colors with cotton tops and soles.

$2.25 a pair for full-fashioned ingrain all-silk stockings in black with extra reinforced soles, heels and toes.

(West Aisle)

Two Yards of This New Lace Makes a Dress

It is simply a lace flouncing of very unusual width—a width sufficient to reach from neck to foot, the upper part of it a cobweb pattern and the lower showing a Spanish lace design. Two yards of it are sufficient for the dress. The neck and armholes or short sleeves can be finished with beads or in any other way one pleases, and the whole is worn over a silk sheath or slip. Colors are gray, brown, black, dahlia and tan, and the price is $6.75 a yard.

Here Are the Fine Evening Gowns for Women Prices $60 to $200

Gowns for dinner wear, for the theatre and for the opera—a few of the simpler can even be used for afternoon. They are made of the very richest fabrics, usually imported chiffons, Georgettes, brocades and chiffon velvets, in the loveliest and richest of flower colors—hyacinth or hydrangea blue, jade, mauve, orchid and cherry and rust, besides the white, which is in such high favor this season. No two of them are alike.

One exquisite thing of white velvet brocaded chiffon has edges of softest white curly fur.

A gown of orchid-colored Georgette has velvet-petaled flowers with crystal beads for its sole ornamentation.

A gold-embroidered green chiffon has a train and a fascinating garniture of heavy green beads.

A jade green velvet brocaded chiffon has crystal trimming and black monkey fur edging its sides.

A rust chiffon and lace has kimono sleeves.

A golden brocade gown is trimmed with flying squirrel.

Prices run from $60 for a simple cherry-colored chiffon velvet to $200 for a fuchsia-colored gown which is covered with a lovely frost-work of tiny sequins. And it is worth while remembering that these are the new low prices.

The Loveliest New Hats Are Trimmed With Squirrel Fur

How very decorative it is you may see in a black satin hat of graceful lines, with a band of soft gray squirrel encircling the crown and ending in the darker tails at each side.

On a large black satin hat, with brim of silver lace, the garniture of gray squirrel is charming.

Here it is again on a little tricorn of black satin and the silvery fur; and again combined with seal.

Not only squirrel and seal, but mole and beaver are most effectively used on some of these delightful new hats, in which black satin and lace play the other two parts with great success.

These and other effective new hats will appear in the Millinery Salons Monday morning.

Something Newer and Better in All-Wool Blankets at $10

In a glass showcase in the Blanket and Quilt Store you will see the wool that is used in these blankets.

You will see it as it is at various stages from the time it comes from the washery to the condition of wool thread ready for weaving.

This is Cape Colony wool, and Cape Colony wool is superior.

The weave is the old-fashioned open-looking kind, but we have never seen blankets of such substantial construction that were as dainty and attractive in appearance.

Not in many years have we had as good at the price—$10 each.

They are woven 102 inches wide and then shrunk to 72 inches.

In plaids and solid colors—blue, rose and tan.

Satin bindings match the prevailing shade in the blanket. Each blanket weighs 4 pounds.

New Camee Candy Boxes From Paris

If anything could make the delicious Camee chocolates taste better it would be to find them tucked away in one of these fascinatingly pretty boxes.

They are exquisite affairs; one is exactly in the shape of a high-handle workbasket, beautifully decorated in taffeta silk, gold lace and ribbon flowers. Others, after the candy is out, would do nicely for handkerchief, veil or glove boxes. Many have no duplicates.

The prices start as low as 75c for the smallest size and go up to $35. Camee chocolates are $1.50 a pound.

At Such Prices These Dinner Sets Are "Tempting Dishes"

Owing to conditions over which nobody has control, dinnerware prices at the potteries have yielded little or none.

In spite of this, we have a number of French, English and American sets, which in the adjustment of our own stocks, have been considerably lowered.

These are standard sets in the best and fullest sense—in the shape, decoration, character and number of pieces, and they are anywhere from one-third to one-half less than prevailing prices for such goods.

French china dinner sets of 107 pieces, conventional decoration of blue and tan, with cluster of pink roses—$85.

French china dinner set of 106 pieces, floral border patterns, gold edges and coin-gold handles—$75 a set.

Bavarian china dinner sets, in two attractive patterns, border designs with floral embellishments—$75 a set.

(Fourth Floor)

English semi-porcelain dinner sets of 106 pieces, border patterns, with gold edges and gold traced hand'g—$38 a set. Other, equally attractive and unusual a $43.

Three groups of American semi-porcelain dinner sets, all in exceptionally good patterns—border designs with gold handles and edges, now marked $17, $22 and $28 for sets of 106 pieces.

Very good opportunities with the Thanksgiving feast so near.

Madeira Embroidered Linens New and Lovely as You Please

As fresh and snowy and bewitching as ever the critical eye of a tasteful woman lighted upon!

The excellence of Madeira embroidery and scalloping and the fine quality of this pure flax linen make a very attractive combination—no wonder these goods are popular.

Scarfs, 19x36 inches, $5 to $10.75 each.

19x45 inches, $6.50 to $12.75 each.

19x54 inches, $8 to $15.75 each.

Tea napkins, $9.75 to $33 a dozen.

Table Covers

44 inches in diameter, $10.50 to $20 each.

33 inches in diameter, $20 to $30 each.

79 inches in diameter, $33 each.
