College Gridiron Elevens Now Are Playing Football With Their Heads Instead of Feet

OTHER TEAMS LIKELY TO COP TRICK PLAY USED BY REX WRAY

"Hip Ball." Sprung Against Dartmouth by Penn Captain. Too Good to Be Left in Dressing Room. Pitt May Stage Comeback

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

FOOTBALL is getting to be a game which is played more with the head than the feet. Instead of outkicking the opponents, as was once the case to the dim and distant past, the modern teams attempt to outguese and outfains the other side. And in this they have been quite successful

Describin plays an important part in the game. Double and triple passes take kicks, bidden-ball tricks and things like that are used constantly, with very good results. Harvard and Penn State use the hidden hall or the old aplit play, the Navy has a take forward pass. Princeton uses the split formation and the pass threat, Partmouth has the shift-but it remained for Penn to pull something entirely new this senson.

Against Dardmouth last Saturday, Rex Wear, the little captain who was reported to possess a few cracked ribs, sprang a surprise when he made a long gain on a play which can be called the "hip ball." This should be popular. ecause that part of the anatomy is used to carry other things besides foot balls and it is a well-known place of concealment.

The idea is to fool the other side, and Wray does it. He gots the ball, fakes it to one of the backs and then holds it with one hand on his htp. The hip furthest away from the opponents always as used, and when he runs around the end with one arm swinging it is impossible to tell who has the ball. Cup'n Rex almost got away for a touchdown on Saturday and made a long run before he was downed. This play is new to college cordes. Noboliv has had the nerve to try before, because only one hand is used and there is a great danger of fumbling Wray, however, took a chance, and the results were so satisfactory that the "hip bail" will be used by a majority of the Eastern colleges next year. It is

Up the State the his ball has been very popular. So far as I know, used first by Kaufman, who played with Frankford and later conched Shenandeah. He taught it to Bash, the Shenandeah fullback, and he used the play in the big games last year. He also scored a touchdown against Gilberton at Cressons three weeks age. The coul-miners hold the ball differently. They bold it against the leg instead of the bip, and this seems to be the better way.

IN THE Cornell game the Point cheering or time will be a will be with a shown thin hip! Wrap! Wray!! Wray!

Pitt on Short End

COLONEL JOE THOMPSON, hend of the Pennsulsania American Legion and former count of the Pritishargh football fram, stepped into the office pesterday to inform us that Pitt should not be counted out as yet and there atill was a good chance to bear Pons State in the game on Thanksgiving Day "Pitr has been trimmed three times this year," said the colonel. that means nothing. They will come back stronger than ever before and State will have a tough game on her hands. It is strange and anusual to see a Panther eleven enter a game on the short end of the beiting, and this will spur the players on to greater efforts.

"The Lafayette game was early to the wesen, but the Nebraska battle was different. Those corn-huskers had a wonderful team and deserved to win. They had the best charging line I ever have seen, and it reminded me of the eld days to see those crimson-lerseyed forwards charge shoulder to shoulder sweeping everything before them. Fred Dawson has a great eleven, and I don't believe many tenms could have beaten them on that day

Pitt has a good team this year, especially when all of the regulars are in the line-up. Against Syracuse the men of Warner played together beautifully, and I look for them to do the same thing against State. If they play like that next Thursday. Bezdek will have a very hard time in winning. Just watch our smoke

Pitt bas had a tough season-the toughest since Grenn Warner took charge in 1915. The wonder coach's record, however, is so no way impaired. He put football on the map out there, turned out great teams year after year and always was in the front rank

This year more games have been lost to colleges than in the other six seasons Warner has been on the job. In all, five college games have been lest. State and Syracuse secred victories a couple of years age, and this year Lafayette, Nebraska and Washington and Jefferson took them into camp. The first game lost by Pitt was in 1918, when the Cleveland Naval Reserves won a post-senson zome
