

REFUSES TO MODIFY GRAIN RATE CUT

I. C. C. Disregards Compromise Proposed by Railroads—First Decision Made Mandatory

TARIFFS EFFECTIVE DEC. 27

By the Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 21.—A positive order was issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission today holding that the 10 per cent decrease in hay and grain rates into effect on or before next December 27.

The order follows up the decision given October 20 by the commission, which declared grain and hay rates from the Mississippi Valley to the Pacific Coast unreasonably high, but did not carry compulsory orders.

The October decision instructed the railroads to make the reduction by November 20, which was not done, because the railroads opened negotiations with the commission suggesting that a 10 per cent decrease in freight rates on all agricultural products be substituted for the larger decrease on grain products and hay alone.

The commission, however, by the order issued today disregarded the compromise proposed and made the larger decreases on hay and grain mandatory upon the roads.

The order issued today made specific and definite the hay and grain reductions. The original decision said railroads should reduce the rates on the products concerned by one-half of the increases given in 1920. The commission today ordered hay and grain rates between points in Mountain-Pacific territory not more than 12.5 per cent above the rates in effect before the 1920 increases.

Between points in the Western group as defined in its decision where 40 per cent increases were allowed in 1920, the commission ordered them made effective at 20 per cent; between other Western group points the commission held rates shall not exceed 17.5 per cent above the old schedules and between points in the Mountain-Pacific group and points in the Western group the increase above the old 1920 schedules shall be held to 16 2/3 per cent.

The commission also reiterated its decision requiring the roads to fix rates for coarse grain such as corn at 10 per cent less than the rates on wheat.

Famous Surgeon

Keynote View Co. DR. ADOLF LORENZ The famous Viennese surgeon, who saved Lolita Armour from being a hopeless cripple, is again in the United States. He comes for the purpose of holding a series of clinics for poor children.

LORENZ HERE TO AID POOR

Surgeon Who Healed Lolita Armour Brings New Operation
New York, Nov. 21.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, of Vienna, the famous orthopedic surgeon, who arrived here Saturday to help repay, by treating poor American children, the debt of gratitude owed by Austria to this country, seemed yesterday somewhat uncertain as to his reception here by the American medical profession.

When he was here last—eighteen years ago—Dr. Lorenz's demonstrations and lectures were competed for most eagerly by the best hospitals and medical schools of the country. He operated in New York alone in the Post-Graduate, Orthopedic, Kings County, Polytechnic, Bellevue, Physicists and Surgeons, Beth Israel and Cornell Medical College Hospitals. His most famous operation was that by which he cured Lolita Armour, considered a hopeless cripple. He fears the fact that he is an Austrian may result in unfriendly feeling and lack of cooperation.

Dr. Lorenz said he had brought motion pictures and X-ray photographs illustrating a new localities method of joining congenital dislocations of the hip, and also an instrument for use in pieces of the hands for the stretching and bending of the malformed parts, hips, feet, knees, on which he is operating. He also has a new operation for the relief of cases where the neck of the femur is fractured.

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

"Dame Instinct" By DADDY

This week Jack and Janet meet a fairy godmother in the woods and help her with her work.

CHAPTER I

FALL had come to the big woods. The wild ducks had flown to the South, the leaves were dropping from the trees, and Perky Squirrel was storing away the last of his winter's supply of nuts.

Jack and Janet found the autumn beautiful. They liked to play among the fragrant fallen leaves and they found it fun gathering hickory nuts for fireside cracking.

But they missed one thing in the fall woods—that was the joyous song of the birds. Their warbling friends had flown away to the South, there to spend the wintry days amid the sunshine and flowers while the North was covered with snow and ice.

One morning Jack and Janet got a great surprise—they heard a bird song outside their windows. Jack hopped from bed in his house and Janet hopped from bed in her house, both being eager to see the singer.

"Has spring come?" cried Janet to Jack. "Are the birds back from the South already?"

"No, for winter has not yet started," answered Jack. "That must be some strange bird. Let's see if we can find him."

So Jack and Janet dressed quickly and ran into the woods to seek the singing bird. They followed the sound of the song, but the bird kept hidden from view.

"It sounds like a thrush," said Jack, but even as he spoke the song changed. "No, it is like a robin," said Janet. "The song changed."

"There must be a whole lot of birds," cried Janet. "Isn't it strange we cannot see them?"

Yes, it was very strange, and the mystery grew deeper the further they went into the woods. There seemed to be a dozen birds just beyond their sight.

As they ran along they suddenly found a bright-faced, little, old woman running with them. She wore a round, high, pointed cap, red bodice and a wide-flaring green skirt. On her arm she carried a huge basket.

"Do you hear that bird?" demanded the little, old woman. "Do you hear it, too, or do my ears deceive me?"

"We hear half a dozen birds," answered Jack. "We are looking for them."

"Ah, ha, if you hear them my ears do not deceive me," cried the little, old woman. "There are birds in the woods who ought to be far away in the sunny South. Come with me quickly. I must save them from their folly."

They went on, but now the birds seemed to know they were being followed, for the singing ceased. The little, old woman stopped to listen, and so did Jack and Janet.

"That is what I get for taking a nap during the pleasant Indian Summer days," said the little, old woman. "While I dozed those foolish birds got out from under my protection." She turned abruptly and looked keenly at Jack and Janet. "Do you children want a job?"

Jack and Janet scarcely knew what to answer.

"Yes, ma'am, perhaps we do," said Jack presently.

"But please, ma'am, we would like first to know who you are," added Janet.

The little, old lady giggled a sprightly, pleasant giggle. "I am Dame Instinct," she replied. "I am the fairy godmother of all the birds. I save them from Jack Frost and all sorts of dangers. Sometimes foolish youngsters disobey me and get into trouble. That is what has happened now. We must find these birds singing in the woods, or great harm will come to them."

(How they find the mysterious singer will be told tomorrow.)

One Shampoo Proves

How the action of Palm and Olive oils transforms your hair

It is interesting to watch the transformation in the appearance of your hair when you shampoo with Palmolive. To discover how glossy and soft it becomes, how fluffy without dryness.

Notice how thoroughly Palmolive cleanses your scalp from all dirt, oil and dandruff. This is the secret of healthy hair. And healthy hair means beauty.

A blend of Palm and Olive oils

The softening effects of olive oil are responsible for the gloss and softness. It produces a mild, penetrating lather which softens and relaxes the scalp and enters each root and hair cell.

The accumulations of dirt and oil are thoroughly removed, not only from the surface but from the tissue of the scalp. Dandruff is penetrated and removed.

Palm oil contributes richness and body to this lather and makes it lasting. Both oils have been famous since Cleopatra's day for their softening, relaxing qualities which no others possess in the same degree.

Prevents dandruff

Dandruff, which doctors call seborrhea and says causes most hair troubles, is not removed by most shampoos.

The dry, oily scales are impervious to usual cleansing. It only makes them more powdery and flaky so that many people think shampooing makes dandruff worse.

But they must be got rid of some way, if you want to keep your hair. Dandruff packs around the roots and interferes with nutrition. This makes even the normal secretion found on every scalp, dangerous to hair health.

The softening, penetrating lather produced by the blending of palm and olive oils loosens the scales, dislodges them from the scalp. The delicate organism of each hair is free for healthy activity.
