

PENN WILL ERECT BIG NEW STADIUM

Structure to Be Second Largest Athletic Field in United States

READY FOR 1922 SEASON

The second largest athletic stadium in the United States will be erected by the University of Pennsylvania, capable of seating 50,000 persons, before the opening of the 1922 football season.

Preliminary plans for its erection, accepted by the College Athletic Council and submitted to the Board of Trustees, were approved at the monthly meeting held yesterday.

If the proposed plans of the Athletic Council are executed successfully, the University will have the only field that will boast the triple feature of a football gridiron, a running track and a baseball diamond. The proposed stadium will be larger than that at Princeton or Harvard, but will take second place to the Yale Bowl.

A special committee of ten was appointed by the trustees to consider the detailed plans of the stadium. According to an announcement made yesterday, the University Council on Athletics, which has been considering the project for some time, has been assured by expert architects and engineers that such a plan is feasible.

The need for enlarged seating capacities at Franklin Field has been apparent at the University for a long time, but the situation was never so acute as this year. On three occasions during 1921 Franklin Field will have proved too small to meet the demands made upon it.

At the Relay Carnival last April it was necessary to turn several thousand persons away. Again this year, when completely sold out for the Pittsburgh football game this autumn and athletic officials contend that 50,000 seats could have easily been sold for the Thanksgiving Day game next, it is evident that the stadium had been overbooked. At present the seating capacity for that game has been increased to 32,000 and is not nearly adequate.

It was on account of lack of seats that the Army-Navy game went to New York. A stadium seating 50,000 would provide about more seats than are now available at the Polo Grounds, and would no longer prove the medium of returning the Army-Navy game to Philadelphia.

Title-Makers Try Out New Names for 1926 Fair

THE WORLD'S KEYSTONE STATE EXPOSITION of 1926 is suggested by Alexander C. Schein, field, of 2101 North Eleventh street, as a name for the Semi-Centennial Exposition here in 1926.

TWENTIETH CENTURY FAIR is suggested by Ray Morris, of 2327 North Palmyra street.

WORLD'S HISTORICAL EXPOSITION, by John Curry, of 1233 South Ritten street.

WORLD PEACE INAUGURATION, by M. D. Vance.

WORLD'S GOOD FELLOW-SHIP EXPOSITION, by William H. Miller, of 141 North Sixth street.

GREAT PEACE AND FREEDOM WORLD'S FAIR, by Jack Long, of 148 South Carolina avenue, Atlantic City.

LIBERTY FAIR, by Mrs. K. M. Mullins, of 25 East Formance street.

AMERICA'S PEACE WORLD'S FAIR, by Anna C. Ehmack, of 511 South Fifth street.

EXHIBIT OF AMERICA EXPOSITION, by H. Z. Watts, of 2135 North Franklin street.

The EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER is receiving many of these suggestions. Have you one to offer?

FATHER SAVES CHILDREN FROM BURNING HOME

Business to Third Floor and Carries Two to Safety

John Miles saved his two children from burning to death last night when he discovered that fire was spreading through the third-story of his home on Hickorytown road, near Germantown pike. When Miles saw the flames he ran to the third floor, where the children were asleep and carried them to safety.

Mrs. Miles had been visiting neighbors during the evening and returned in time to see firemen rushing into the house. She fainted, thinking her children had not been rescued.

The firemen and a neighborhood fire company responded to an alarm and confined the blaze to the third floor of the building. The fire was caused by a defective fuse and started about 9 o'clock.

To Wed Cousin of J. P. Morgan

New York, Nov. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. James Shuyler Croll, of Flushing, L. I., announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet Croll, to Alexander Perry Morgan, whose father is a cousin of the late J. P. Morgan and a cousin of the present J. P. Morgan.

ASSETS DWINDLE IN CREDIT TANGLE

$28,000 in Furniture Owned by Worth & Co. "Somewhere Between Here and Pacific"

KENDRICK IS RECEIVER

Somewhere between Philadelphia and the Pacific Ocean $28,000 worth of furniture belonging to Worth & Co. has gone astray. This concern had offices in the Stock Exchange Building and sold the stock of the National Guarantee Credit Corporation. Worth & Co. went into the hands of a receiver late yesterday, but, according to those who testified at the legal proceedings which were before Judge Rogers in Common Pleas Court No. 2, the receivers will have little to receive. Murdock Kendrick was appointed receiver, and the Court also ordered that officials of the concern give him all the books and papers. Among other things which have disappeared is the furniture, according to those who have been investigating affairs of the firm. By going into the receiver's hands Worth & Co. simply followed the trail of the National Guarantee Credit Corporation. This concern went into a receivership October 28. Last Friday two auxiliary concerns of the National Guarantee Company, namely, Federal Finance Guaranty Company and National Music Stores Company, also went into a receiver's hands. The action of Worth completes the list. Francis McAdams, one of the receivers appointed for the National Guarantee, was the principal witness at the proceeding before Judge Rogers. He said all the assets of Worth & Co. appeared to be missing. A search was started today for the furniture, and it is believed some of the missing desks may contain other information regarding the company. Incidentally, the assets of all the concerns mentioned will fall for below the claims made by officials of the companies, receivers say. The National Guarantee Credit Corporation made a business of financing the purchase of automobiles in all parts of the country. Byron A. Milner, of counsel for the receivers, asserted that many of the concerns to which the corporation made advances, were in bankruptcy. In some instances, Mr. Milner said, the officials of the borrowing companies have disappeared. After several witnesses had testified to the complicated financial methods adopted by the affiliated concerns, Francis L. Bracken, of counsel for the receivers, said that a prima facie case of fraud had been made out. He then requested the Court to issue an order that all books and papers of Worth & Co. be turned over to the receivers. The request was granted. MARCOSSON HERE MONDAY

Noted Correspondent to Speak on Conference at Acorn Club

Isaac F. Marcosson, the famous correspondent, who has met and interviewed most of the statesmen and diplomats of the day, will speak on "The International Figures of the Conference in Washington" before the members of the Republican Women's Club, Monday afternoon, November 22, at 3 o'clock, at the Acorn Club, 1618 Walnut street.

Admittance will be by membership card only.

SYNDICATE AFTER HOUSES Shipping Board Says Profiteers Would Grab Homes at Auction The United States Shipping Board has discovered that a syndicate of professional real estate speculators are planning to buy up as many as possible of the 2000 brick houses in Camden, N. J., and Bristol, Pa., which the Government will sell at auction early next month. The syndicate, it is said, will be incorporated as a Philadelphia-New York holding company. Clerks in attorneys' offices in New York and Philadelphia will be the incorporators and directors in the company. It is said the men behind the plan are striving to keep their identity from becoming public. The United States Shipping Board reports that speculators mentioned as being in the syndicate have denied their connection with it. The board says that many of the men in the movement have been operating in New York, buying up blocks of houses from estates and raising rents in many cases as much as 100 per cent, and being responsible for recent riots in the East Side and Bronx sections of New York. MAN STRUCK BY AUTO DIES Police Held Driver of Machine in West Philadelphia Accident While crossing Baltimore avenue at Fifty-second street last night shortly after 8 o'clock, I. Saness, twenty-two years old, of 905 North Sixth street, was struck by an automobile and killed. He was taken to the Misericordia Hospital, where it was found he had a fractured skull. The police of the Sixty-fifth street and Woodland avenue station, J. and E. B. Miller, of Palmyra, N. J., and he was locked up to await a hearing this morning. The police said he was the driver of the machine.

You'll find the best style in Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

The designing is right to start with; beautiful all-wool fabrics add a note of good taste; the expert tailoring gives the smart drape Get it all

Above, at the left, is a men's big, warm, double-breasted ulster

At the right, young men's stylish overcoat with belt across the back

Strawbridge & Clothier are Exclusive Distributors of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes in Philadelphia

Grained Patent Leather

A reasonable new leather on the wonderfully popular squared-toe "Cubist" sport model—

$10

HARPER'S 1228 MARKET
Walk-Over SHOPS
1022 CHESTNUT

Wanamaker Brown

Buy Your Overcoat Today or Tomorrow For Thanksgiving (Oak Hall Will Be Closed All Day on Thanksgiving)

Take your choice of these wonderfully fine plaid back overcoats at three special prices.

FOR PLAID BACK OVERCOATS OF REGULAR $35 QUALITIES IN THE SEASON'S NEWEST STYLES.

$24.50

FOR OVERCOATS OF $40 AND $50 QUALITIES, HANDSOME HERRINGBONES IN BROWNS AND TANS WITH STRIKING SCOTCH PLAID BACKS

$30 & $35

The cloths in these three groups are Germanias, Globes, Pontoosucs and Merrimacs.

The styles are town ulsters, ulsterettes, raglans and large ulsters. Best overcoats in town at their prices.

WANAMAKER & BROWN
Market at Sixth for Sixty Years