900 School of Practice Pupils Gladly Hearts of Needy for Thanksgiving Dinner

TURKEY N' EVERYTHING

Nine hundred pairs of feet trudged happily along this morning, 900 pairs of arms hugged baskets, canned goods, everything and everything that concerns the Thanksgiving dinner.

For years the children of the School of Practice, Thirtieth and Spring Garden streets, have saved their pennies, gone without the pretzel at noon and the candy, that some other youngsters less fortunate than they might have a warm Thanksgiving dinner.

The school platform today was cleared and sheets of fresh white paper spread and laid their offerings on the paper.

From one basket hung the head of a turkey, from another peeled fresh green beans, the celery stalks, oranges gleamed a bright yellow, apples glowed a deep red.

Running the full length of the platform and seven feet deep were the articles brought, some bought with the money of the children, others given by the mothers.

One basket was filled with purple paper, another red and still another green. And there were large cartons of sugar, canned goods and paper which meant so much to the poorer families of the city.

Some of the pupils contributed money instead of food, and yesterday there was deposited in bank $500.80. This morning the baskets in which the money was collected were filling up again.

Silver dollars fell in with a merry jangling click and crisp five-dollar notes peeled over the edge of some checks.

Girls and boys who have been out of the school for many days, expressing a regret at their inability to be there and including checks as their share of the splendid work this school does each year.

The pupils, demure girls and mischievous little fellows, tumbled into the assembly room to sing songs and see the merry time the children left the room.

The love of human nature, the joy of giving was reflected in each shining eye and girl face.

Many mothers were present at the exercise and some of them helped the teachers pack the baskets, about one hundred and thirty of them. Besides this contributions are sent to day nurseries, hospital and homes. Fathers of the pupils deliver the baskets, every one uniting in the service for others.

BOY KILLED IN ATTEMPT TO SEE BOXING BOUT

Charles Vogdes, 16, of 29 N. 34th St., Falls From Ice Palace Roof

Efforts to see the Leonard-Freedman bout free at the Ice Palace, Forty-sixth and Market streets, last night, led to the death of Charles Vogdes, 29 North Thirty-fourth street.

The boy fell from the roof of the building where he had climbed, first from the roof of the boiler room and before that from the top of an automobile. The crash of the boy's body falling on the roof of the smaller building was heard by employees who called for a physician.

The boy was taken to the Misericordia Hospital and died there about three hours later.

It is said more than one boy of the neighborhood has seen fights at the Ice Palace by climbing up a rope ladder attached to the roof of the higher building. This ladder, attached during the day would permit one to climb up and see what was taking place inside by peering through a skylight.

P. R. T. WOULD STOP BUSES RUNNING TO NAVY YARD

Object to Competition Since Traffic Has Fallen Off

The P. R. T. filed a complaint with the Public Service Commission today asking that the licenses held by buses operating from the northeastern section of the city to the Navy Yard be revoked.

Frederick L. Ballard, counsel for the P. R. T., said since the company took over the loop built by the Government during the war, which runs a mile inside of the Navy Yard gates, the employees of the Navy Yard have been reduced from 11,000 to less than 6,000.

He also said the passengers on the two lines running to the Navy Yard have decreased from 8,000 daily to 4,000, and the operation of cars over the loop costs the company $40,000 annually.

Commissioner Samuel M. Clement, Jr., took the matter under advisement.

Tommy Harges Accused of Stealing Neighbor's Jewelry

Tommy Harges, seven years old, of 2231 Sears street, is being held by the police to answer a serious charge—to wit, grand larceny.

Tommy's mother is dead. His father, a mechanic, works hard during the day and Tommy has been left pretty much to his own resources for education and amusement. It would appear that Tommy is a boy of somewhat pleasing manner for until yesterday he had the freedom of the homes of several neighbors, including the house of Charles Hays, at 2235 Sears street.

Last night Mr. Hays returned from work to discover that about $100 worth of jewelry was missing. Believing that a professional house-breaker must have taken them, he notified the police of the Twentieth and Federal streets station. A detective was put on the case and in a short time he had trailed the thief to Tommy Harges.

Tommy, it seems, had attempted to dispose of gold watches, lockets and bracelets among his companions at prices ranging from three to five cents.

BASKETS OF FOOD FOR POOR

Mrs. M. W. Ketcham Distributes 400 Thanksgiving Baskets

More than 400 baskets of provisions are being distributed today by Mrs. M. W. Ketcham, the "Angel of Kensington," at her home, 3038 Kensington avenue. This is an annual custom of Mrs. Ketcham at Thanksgiving and Christmas time.

This year 1500 pounds of beef is being divided up in the baskets, luxuries being left out and solid, substantial foods put in, as the need is greater for this sort of food than in previous years, when delicacies were included.

When persons are ill and needy, the baskets are delivered to them by means of automobiles loaned for this purpose by Kensington merchants.

CAMDEN THIEVES JAILED

Well! Well!

We never thought that our suggestion last Saturday to spend Thanksgiving here at Strath Haven was going to meet with such a hearty response. Perhaps the prospect of a delightful drive through a charming countryside tempted some; and everybody wants to know if we're going to have turkey—of course we are—and everything else that you can think of that makes a Thanksgiving dinner an event to be remembered. And if you like to dance, you'll be delighted with the syncopated melodies of an orchestra that simply won't let you keep still. Better phone your reservation this morning.
