

Koenig's home, at 1324 Pine street. The patrolmen and detectives entered the yard and say they found a case of two dead bodies lying on the lawn. Koenig, they say, was in the yard. He was arrested with the four others and taken to the station house. The trucks and left outside under heavy police guard.

Friends Hasten to Police Station
Rabbi Hoffman arrived early this morning. Long before Magistrate O'Brien appeared to hold hearings friends of the men under arrest began to arrive in response to frantic telephone calls. The men on the trucks were unkempt after their night in cells, when Magistrate O'Brien summoned them before him. Dr. Koenig, who was dressed in shirt and trousers and shoes with a derby hat and a raincoat. He is a man of early middle age.

When the morning came, Rabbi Hoffman stepped forward and told his story, insisting that the wife had been brought here legitimately, that it was for sacramental purposes only, and that it had been a long time since the home only because of lack of other storage room.

Dr. Koenig Is Well-Known
Immediately the wires began to straggle with calls from Dr. Koenig's friends. He is a well-known doctor, a former resident of the Rotary Club, and with powerful fraternal connections.

Magistrate O'Brien refused, however, to listen to any who tried to make him change his decision about holding the five men in the city jail.

The friends of the men under arrest began to appear. The station house has not had many visitors of this nature in a long time. Many of the men who came to look after the interests of the two younger men were in the opinion of the district police. No one seemed to want to give his name.

One of Dr. Koenig's friends was a large and fleshy dressed gentleman who was a bunch of meaty graces in his great, twisted a swagger cane, and had on a raglan overcoat of latest cut. He apparently did not bring either the money or the necessary papers for the trial, however, to obtain the doctor's consent.

Gold was more fortunate. A brisk looking young man, quietly dressed, came in to see Gold and conferred with him in his cell. A little later another man, a short, stocky man with a beaming smile and a kind face, and apparently poor of money.

Holds Mary
The young man went to see Gold and brought him back with him from the cell.

Puts Up $1000 Cash Bail
I would like to enter bail," Gold announced to the magistrate. With that he produced a large roll of bills from his pocket, and began to count off the $1000 required for the release of the two men. There were two hundred dollar bills on the roll and many tens and twenties. He counted the thousand dollars, but the clerk said that was left back in his pocket, and hurried out. He needed a large sum of money.

Dr. Koenig still was in a cell. He got permission to telephone, and called several numbers. Some time later a woman who said she was Miss Ann M. Kelly, of 411 Proctor street, came in and offered a deed to a house as security.

The magistrate examined the deed carefully. "That deed is dated 1892," he objected. "That is certainly a long way before your time." Dr. Koenig went home.

Rabbi Silent on Seizure
Rabbi Hoffman would not discuss the seizure. He left the station house after the hearing. "I have nothing to say," was his answer to all questions. He declined to give any information in connection with a city woman on a trolley car, and the woman arrested him. The rabbi was freed by Magistrate O'Brien after a hearing. The case was heard finally before the trial board of the Civil Service Commission.

VISIT HOMES TODAY IN WELFARE DRIVE

Spirit of Liberty Loan Campaigns Infused Into Federation Canvas for $4,000,000

NEAR $2,000,000 MARK

The spirit of the great Liberty Loan drives in Philadelphia during the war days was infused into the Welfare Federation campaign for $4,000,000 today by teams which canvassed homes in every part of the city.

It was a master touch of psychology that brought the solicitors to thousands of homes on Thanksgiving Day. The night before, the Welfare Federation canvassers, who were already familiar with the city, and the names of the homes, the telephone numbers, and the names of the owners, were already listed in the hands of the workers.

The Welfare Federation had tied into one sweeping appeal all the needs of 125 hospitals and charitable organizations which will divide the fund which now totals $1,600,000. The $4,000,000 goal is a goal which the Welfare Federation hopes to lift this year to $2,000,000.

Aside from the house-to-house visits, doubly effective today because of the closed shops and industrial plants, the Welfare Federation is using a new method to carry the message of "Come Call, One Hour, One Answer."

From the telephone books have been taken more than 20,000 names, and a card of invitation, describing the work of the federation, has been sent. From the list of names selected from the telephone book, there have been eliminated the names of those who were already listed among the prospects in the hands of the workers.

"This week," says the folder inside each card, "we are telephoning you to see if you are interested in the Welfare Federation. There is something in the city a call for help.

It comes from the poor and the destitute, from the crippled and the helpless, and the friendless. It comes from the boys and girls and the aged, people who need to be surrounded with who are so helpless and to have opportunity for proper recreation.

It comes from the soldiers and sailors who have served in the great war. It comes from the 400,000 men, women and children, of every race, creed and condition who benefit by the work of the 125 philanthropic organizations which form the Welfare Federation.

"You are now being addressed just by telephone. You should not be personally approached by the Welfare Federation. If you have not already done so, will you send a contribution or make a pledge of support to the great movement which will benefit the people of Philadelphia in every five people in Philadelphia.

"This is the call. Your answer is earnestly awaited."

Teams Retain Order of Standing
A new listing of the standing of the welfare teams, prepared last night, shows the first five teams unchanged as compared with the previous list. William Elkins' team still retains the subscription total lead with a record of $89,225.40.

Second in the list is the team of S. C. Harvey's team, with $30,247. Mrs. Edward Benson's team, with $29,450, and George Wharton Pepper's team, with $29,404. T. Williams Roberts' team and Mrs. Katherine E. Eckford's team are in sixth place, and Mr. Roberts in seventh.

Seventeen thousand members of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, which is the largest of the welfare teams, are urged to contribute to the formation of the Welfare Federation. Letters that have been sent out by Albin B. Johnson, president, to "make substantial contributions" to speed the federation toward its $4,000,000 goal.

Without their help, Mr. Johnson says, the federation cannot be successful. His appeal follows:

"The Welfare Federation has been undertaken at the suggestion and under the sponsorship of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce. It has been approved and adopted by a great number of those who are interested in the welfare of our city and best able to judge of the merits of the plan. In other cities, during the development of years, similar organizations have been essential to the support of their charities. It will be equally beneficial to those of Philadelphia.

Eyes of U. S. on Drive
The eyes of the country are upon Philadelphia today. It is the city which is the seat of the representatives of business concerns of Philadelphia. Its banks, trust companies, industries, and mercantile houses are the heart of the city. That they can do this legally is assured by the example of other cities. In Cleveland the banks and trust companies regularly contribute a definite percentage of their assets. It is the legal right of other corporations to do so unquestioned.

"By direction of the Federal Government, I therefore urge upon the members of this organization and upon business concerns and citizens generally to give their loyalty and enthusiastic support to this movement in order that it may be made a success worthy of our city."

An instance of the enthusiasm with which the team workers are going about their work was seen in the home of Mrs. A. D. Whiting, one of the most energetic of the Federation's team captains. One of her workers, said Whiting, "has called on me with $100, which she said had been handed her by a little seven-year-old girl named Gertrude O. Schinger. This child collected the money by selling her hair in a house-to-house canvass of the residents in her neighborhood in West Philadelphia."

YOUNG CITY HALL GUARDS REPLACED

Twenty-two Ordered Into Uniform for Police Duty on Streets

Twenty-two of the youngest guards at City Hall were ordered to street duty in uniform in various districts today by Assistant Director of Public Safety, Tempest, who also transferred twenty-four veteran "beat pointers" to City Hall for guard service.

The order, effective at 8 A. M. tomorrow, follows out the policy of having young, vigorous men walking police beats. Men who have grown gray and slow of step in the non-toilet task of patrolling the streets were given preference in the City Hall assignments.

There were two vacancies on the City Hall guard force. This explains why twenty-four men were ordered into the Hall to replace the twenty-two men sent to station houses.

Guards Transferred
The guards transferred and the districts to which they were assigned follow:
