GEN. EDWARD BOUTON DEAD

Chief of Artillery Under Sherman and Famous Strategist

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 26.—(By A. P.)—General Edward Bouton, chief of artillery under General Sherman in the Civil War, and said to have been often consulted as strategist by both General Sherman and General Grant, died at his home here yesterday after an illness of two years. He was eighty-seven years old. He is survived by a widow and a son, Edward Bouton, Jr., both of Los Angeles.

General Bouton was born in Avoca, N. Y., April 12, 1834. He was in business when the Civil War broke out, when he organized Bouton's battery of Chicago (Battery 1, First Regiment, Illinois Light Artillery).
