

HURT IN WEEK-END MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Man, Two Women and Boy Injured in Mishaps in Various Sections of City

ONE AUTOIST SPED ON

A man, two women and a boy were injured in automobile accidents on the city streets yesterday, and four other mishaps caused considerable damage to the automobiles involved, without any one being injured.

Harry Farrell, eight years old, of 1843 North Front street, was run down and probably fatally injured by an autoist who drove on, leaving the boy lying in the street. The accident happened in front of the child's home. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital. He is a well-known amateur swimmer in the northern section of the city.

Mrs. Grace Collins, an attendant at the Philadelphia General Hospital, was struck by the automobile driven by W. C. Reynolds, of Chester, while crossing at Thirty-fourth street and Woodland avenue. She was injured seriously. Reynolds took the woman to the University Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Curran, 501 North Twentieth street, was struck down at the corner of Poplar and Vineyard streets by an automobile driven by John Stier, second and Oxford streets. She was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Albert D. Smith, forty-three years old, 137 North Twentieth street, was struck by an automobile driven by Arthur Burkhard, of Forty-first street, near Girard avenue, at Broad and Cherry streets when the machine skidded.

At the Hahnemann Hospital, where he was taken by Foot Traffic Police, Dan Hoey, he was found to have suffered several fractured ribs and a deep laceration of his left eye. He is in a serious condition.

The wet streets were responsible for four minor automobile accidents in the vicinity of City Hall.

In attempting to turn into Broad street from South Penn Square about 8 P. M. Bernard Davis, of 4423 Frankford avenue, drove his automobile into the West End Trust Building.

When an automobile driven by Harry F. Young, of 2140 Huntington street, about 8:30 A. M., skidded on South Penn Square near Broad street, it collided with a trolley car. The car was slightly damaged.

Two hours later Charles Diamond, 1532 Bampton street, was driving his automobile south on Broad street at Market. In making the turn the car skidded and collided with a machine driven by Samuel Goldstein, 2014 West Thompson street. Some of the occupants of the two cars was injured.

An automobile driven by Louis E. Watson, 219 South Forty-seventh street, collided with a high pressure service wagon of the Bureau of Fire about 11 A. M. after it skidded at Juniper and Filbert streets.

Gwan-to-Bed Stories

The Darling Little Umbrella Named Gulliver

ONCE upon a time, dear children, there was a darling little umbrella named Gulliver. Its mamma named him Gulliver because he was such a great traveler. Johnny, get off the raincoat! Gulliver and more owners than a second-hand Ford. He was continually passing on. No owner would be long to get acquainted with his new owner. Gulliver's life was so full of excitement and he would have to start all over getting acquainted in a new household with a new family.

NOW even this unsettled life wouldn't have bothered Gulliver so much. He was used to unsettled things; unsettled weather, unsettled ownership, unsettled home life—everything around Gulliver was unsettled. No, the thing that bothered him so much, but what did worry him and make him sad was the fact that he was never allowed to see the bright side of life. Gulliver loved to see the sun shine and hear the little birds twitter, but he never had the chance. Whenever the sun was shining, Gulliver was locked up in the house. But just as soon as it began to cloud up and rain down, then Gulliver was dragged out into the nasty, dirty weather. And he used to sing in his plaintive umbrella tone: "But why in the dense do I get it all?" (Dorothy, take the baby's foot from under daddy's rocker. It disturbs him.)

ONE day when Gulliver came back from a trip in the rain he found a lovely little sprig in the park. She was made of bright silk and was the prettiest thing Gulliver had ever seen. Of course, he fell madly in love with her. But she drew away from him. "Who do you spurn me?" cried Gulliver.

"Go away from me," said Lucinda.

WARNS OF CHILD DISEASES

Director Furbush Advises Parents to Watch Children Carefully

To protect children from falling victims of more serious ailments parents should have them examined by their family physician upon the discovery of any signs of illness, the weekly health bulletin of the Department of Public Health urges.

Indifference, Director Furbush states, should not be shown by parents even to the most trivial signs of illness. Restlessness, irritability, loss of appetite and a disinclination to play are some of the signs parents should watch for.

Special precautions must be taken at this time of the year when diphtheria, scarlet fever and respiratory disease are on the increase. These diseases, the bulletin says, may be isolated in children by sore throat, cold in the head, cough or digestive disturbances. No time should be lost in placing the child under medical care. Home remedies may prove valuable in preparation of the child for further treatment, but should not be relied upon if symptoms fail to abate and become worse.

Unequaled Furniture Values For the Christmas Home

Just when the home should look its best, when the households of the world are happy in the prospects of a Lasting Peace, this Great Store announces a magnificent offering of Furniture and Home Adornments that will help make thousands of homes better and happier than ever, without great expense.

Immense purchases of fine Furniture, and of raw materials for our own factory, all bought at the lowest prices since the war, await you here in the shape of Furniture values greater than could be expected this year, and which may not be equaled next. Furniture that is in itself proof that this Store is not trailing along with changing conditions, but is giving values far in advance of anything in the Furniture World.

The goods, with plainly marked price tags, tell the story. See them, Thousands of Suites and Pieces, with an array of Gift Furniture and Home Adornments that will gladden the hearts of all beholders.

This elegant Dining-Room Suite, of the Queen Anne Period, with its graceful lines and artistic ornamentation, is a triumph of the carver's and cabinetmaker's art. Note the fine proportions and the decorative nicety of the Buffet and China Closet. The chairs, with their curved arms, depict with pleasing fidelity the fiddle back, so typical of this period. Likewise, the beautiful rounded cabriole legs help to produce the extremely rich effect which gives the entire Suite its elegance and charm. In Walnut or Mahogany.
