

Arbuckle Tells His Own Story

Continued from Page One... Fatty Arbuckle told the story of his party... "When you said 'Fatty is on the stand' to a citizen of San Francisco..."

He became part of the mob that besieged the courthouse... "Each beloved, dazling in Sunday millinery, felt some of the weight of the police squad when it arrived on the double quick in response to a call of the court..."

The Court Mobbled... "Each beloved, dazling in Sunday millinery, felt some of the weight of the police squad when it arrived on the double quick in response to a call of the court..."

It was, as a matter of fact, Fatty and his lawyers were frozen in a jam on the first floor... "The District Attorney was found by the police unable to move backward or forward in the main corridors..."

Women were the most relentless fighters in the crowd... "They begged and whined to be permitted to enter the courtroom..."

Within, at last, all was quiet again and Fatty was in a new blue suit and drinking a glass of water... "He began his narrative at 10:30 and resumed it under a heavy and weary..."

Comedian Dignified... "His slow and careful voice filled the room and he bore himself with a dignity..."

You were expected as the redial continued to long... "Fatty rolled up comfortably from Los Angeles in his $25,000 motorcar..."

Freddie Phones for Girls... "Soon there was the scent of gin and Scotch and toast and coffee and omelet..."

Freddie got the party well under way and then expressed a desire to borrow Fatty's $25,000 motor... "I said all right, go ahead," testified Fatty..."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Maud B. Delmont had arrived and was getting into pajamas in one of the two bedrooms... "She came later Virginia Rappe, Alice Blake and Zey Prevost..."

The scene seems to shift in Fatty's mind at the point, midway in the day, when he switched from coffee and toast to Scotch highball... "He had no clear recollection about hours or the movement of the sun..."

Time Flies for Fatty... "Years passed, seemingly, and Fatty was still sitting on the sofa in the sitting room where the breakfast was served..."

bedroom opposite the one that he occupied... "Time was flying, Freddie Fishbach would soon be back with the $25,000 car..."

"I lifted her up like this," said Fatty, demonstrating... "and she was sick, and I held her head, I asked her what was the matter..."

"Whom did you see?" asked the prosecution... "Miss Prevost was there, if there was any one else I don't remember it..."

Threatened Mrs. Delmont... "She told me to mind my own business, that she was running things and would look after Virginia..."

Harsh cross-examination intended to show how Fatty's version of the story differed from that of all the other witnesses... "Including Zey Prevost, who swore that Virginia Rappe was alone with Arbuckle for a half hour or more..."

"I told it to my lawyer, Mr. Dominick," said the prosecuting attorney... "you never told this story to any one before..."

issued for Miss Louise Glaum was the result of a misunderstanding... "Miss Glaum, he said, can tell nothing of importance in relation to the Arbuckle case..."

The State won a victory when it succeeded in disqualifying the fingerprint expert... "summoned by Fatty's lawyers to discount the testimony of the State's microscopist..."
