DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

The Underground Singer By DADDY

Jack and Janet go with Chip and Chipper Chipmuck on a ride in Dame Instinct's underground auto. They are traveling in Nosey Mole's tunnel when they bang into Nosey Mole himself.

CHAPTER III A Wild Chase

Lift with a skimmer and place around the stew or pot roast.

Now we are in for it!" squeaked Chip Chipmuck, as the underground auto bumped into Nosey Mole

The relish that you desire is called country chow and is made as follows:

It anything to be scared of or anything to laugh at. Nosey Mole was upset and he was mad. The auto had given him a mighty jolt and now, before he could pick himself up or find out who the human was it humand him again. the bumper was it bumped him again. That was because Jack, in the excite ment, had forgotten to say "whoa!" to the auto. Wham, thump and then to the auto.

wham, thump, again.

Three times the auto banged into Nosey Mole, driving him forward. Three times, and each time Nosey Mole got madder. But mad as Nosey Mole got, Three stalks of celery, out into inch eccs and parbolled until tender, Eight green peppers, cut into inch Now cover the vegetables with a mix-ture made as follows: he didn't have time to show his made nor to turn about and fight. The thumps kept driving him forward.

On the third thump the auto drove Nosey Mole out of the tunnel into a large chamber. By this time Jack's wits had come back to him.

"Whoa!" he shouted, and the auto One tablespoons of mustard seed,
One-half cup of salt,
One-half cup of brown sugar,
One-half cup of pickling spices.
One-half cup of dry mustard dissolved in two-thirds cup of salad oil But Jack had made a mistake in shouting "whoa" right then. He should have shouted "gld-dap."

For the instant the underground auto stopped. Nosey Mole turned around and Now add one cup of flour, and when came flying at it. At the same moment thoroughly blended stir into the mix- Chip and Chipper Chipmuck went flying ture in the preserving kettle and bring out of the auto, diving into a side tun-to a boil. Cook for thirty minutes, then fill into pint all-glass fruit jars and seal securely. Dip tops of jars when cold in melted paraffin and store in a cool place.

They don't even wait to warn Jack and Janet to follow them.

Thump! Nosey Mole threw himself against the auto. Crunch! His sharp teeth rasped against the hard top. Jack and Janet, crouching within, thought he would tear the auto to pieces. Never Cut the Swiss chard in suitable pieces had they seen a creature in such a fury. Had Nosey Mole been as big as a tiger instead of as small as a mouse he would for serving, place in the saucepan and cover with boiling water; cook for thirty have been able to thrash an elephant. How could they escape? Why, run away in the underground auto, of awny in the underground auto, of course.

"Gid-dap," shouted Jack, which is what he should have shouted long before. The auto leaped forward just as Nosey Mole was rushing forward for another attack. Bump! Thump! Over went Nosey Mole and away raced the underground auto. It went out of the chamber into a tunnel. Then it came to a big mole enstle, a fort filled with passageways, with a cozy nest in the passageways, with a cozy nest in the center. The auto raced right through this nest, and Jack and Janet got just from behind.

"I want to go home," squeaked Chipper Chipmuck, who seemed even more alarmed than her brother Chip.

"Nosey Mole was following. He took short cuts and almost caught them. "I want to go home," squeaked Chipper Chipmuck, who seemed even more alarmed than her brother Chip.

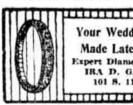

As for Jack and Janet after their first startled surprise, when the auto humped into the mole, they found themselves laughing. It struck them as comical the way Nosey Mole, while going quietly along his own tunnel, got that thumping mula-like kick from the that thumping mule-like kick from the over heels, and before he could pick himself up, it dashed down the But Nosey Mole himself didn't think tunnel into which Chip and Chipper
