

THE first thing Andy did when he took charge of football was to inaugurate a system, which he has adhered to. He divided it into four parts, which follow

- 1. Get the material
- See that the players keep up in their studies.
- 3. Have a permanent coaching staff.
- 4. Arrange the right kind of a schedule

In getting the material Smith started with the high school conches. The rame was not so well known, so a special course in football was given each mmer at the university, and Andy Smith was the principal instructor. He taught the California system, so far as he was able, and when the coaches left to take charge of their teams they were imbued with the ideas of the university. Those coaches helped considerably in selecting the school for the graduates.

A close watch is kept on the scholastic standings of the players. Every week the registrar receives a special report, and this is sent to the conch. If a man is falling behind he is asked to do more studying or leave the squad. This system has worked so well that out of a squad of thirty-five, not one fell behind in his studies, twenty-seven attained very high marks and the standard of the varsity squad was higher than any other organization in the university.

The permanent coaching staff also seems good. Smith contends that a football coach never can be much of a success unless he makes it his business instead of a side line. Therefore, he is on the job twelve months in the year. For assistants he has Dr. Rosenthal, the old Minnesota lineman, and Gordon and Price.

It is difficult to arrange a schedule in the West because of the distances to be traveled. Seattle is two days away, Los Angeles 500 miles and the colleges are so far apart that the players will spend most of the season on milroad trains unless some care is taken in arranging the games.

FOR that reason California never will play a game in the East during the regular season. It would mean a waste of three Saturdays to play one game in this section, and that would ruin the whole home season. They can play here in the holidays, but weather conditions will not permit it.

Has Thirty-five Men on Varsity

EVERY year a big squad turns out, but Smith divides it into three parts. He takes charge of the varsity, which consists of thirty-five players. The scrubs have their own coaches and also the freshmen. They have the one-year rule out there the same as here.

Smith looks ahead in his coaching. He tries to develop next year's team during the season, and if a senior is not good enough to make the first team he is not kept on the varsity squad for further development. Out of the thirty-five men in the 1921 varsity, ten are seniors, fifteen juniors and ten It was the 1922 team that defeated Washington, not a senior being in the line-up.

In this manner Andy is constantly building up and has a system which mid be studied carefully by the other colleges. If it is successful out there ft certainly is worth a trial here.

Six members of this year's team will graduate in May, but their places lready have been filled. California will lose Captain Latham, the center; Kramper, guard; McMillin and Barnes, tackles; Toomey, halfback, and Stevens, end.

Brick Muller, the sensational end, is said to be the best in the country. He is intercollegiate high jump champion, weighs 190 pounds and is considered the best receiver of forward passes on the Coast. He also throws the ball well, but seldom is used. Muller never has dropped a pass after he has had his hands on the ball, which is SOME record. . .

TAKING it all in all, it looks as if California had a real foothall team this year, and the game with Washington and Jefferson will be watched with interest.
