WESTERN TRIP IN MAKING FOR PENN

Baseball Team Expects to Play in Mid-West After Alumni-Day Game at Cornell in June

IN DILEMMA OVER FIELD

One of the most pretentious trips ever taken by a University of Pennsylvania baseball team is in the making, according to an unofficial report at the University.

It is now that following the game with Cornell at Ithaca, on the Alumni Day of Penn's ancient rivals, the Red and Blue will leave for a week's tour through the Middle West.

The trip is a surety, according to the officials of the University, the only hitch holding up the publication of the names of the colleges to be played being the final signing of the papers.

Now it is understood that several have agreed to return to the University after their regular season. The Penn graduation takes place usually around the 15th of June, and it is expected that the team will start its swing.

What the team will do for its home games after the rebuilding of Franklin Field gets under way is worrying the coach and officials of the sport at the University.

Nothing definite has been announced, it is expected that work will start the Monday following the relays, which take place the last Friday and Saturday of April.

Hard Schedule Thirty-three games will be on the schedule during the coming season, the most important from the standpoint of new teams being the Navy, which comes to Philadelphia after three games.

Today They Drop, Tomorrow They Don't Putting Fallacy

Champion Says Average Golfer Doesn't Take "Easiest" Stroke Seriously Enough; Good Putters Not "Born"

By JESSE P. GUILFORD Amateur Golf Champion of the United States THE average golfer does not take his putting sufficiently seriously, probably because of the opinion that it is the easiest stroke in golf. This theory is carried out by the great number of players who will go out and practice diligently on every other stroke, but who will absolutely ignore putting practice.
