Nancy Wynne Talks of the Bannard Marriage in Brook lyn Today-Miss Anna Newbold to Be Introduced at a Tea This Afternoon

NNA NEWBOLD is to be intro-Aduced today at a tea which her father. Mr. Clement Buckley Newbold, will give at the Ritz-Carlton. Anna is Mr. Newbold's second and younger daughter; her sister, Mary D. Newbold, with Mrs. Stephen, Calbour. low Mrs. Stephen Colhoun, made her lebut two seasons ago. Anna is tall and stately, with brown curly hair and gray eyes.

Mr. Newbold's sisters, Mrs. Beauveau Borie, Jr., and Mrs. William J. Taylor, will receive with him, and the other ldies who have been invited to receive selude most of Anna's first cousins.or include most of Anna's first cousins. or first cousins' wives. They are Mrs. C. Newbold Taylor, Mrs. Herman Krumbhaar, Mrs. Fitz-Eugene Newbold, Mrs. Lothrop Ritchie, Mrs. Charles Willing and Mrs. Albert Nalle. Then, too, Mrs. George Harrison Frazier and Miss Helen Cadwalader will receive, and the debutantes and last-year girls assisting will be Ellen McMichael, Virginia Heckgcher, Ellen Lloyd, Alberta Reath, Eleanor Dunning, Martyn George, Marforie Gibbon, Sydney Biddle, Vivian and Muriel Watkins and Maisie Stew-

TTAVE you heard about the musical H play that Mrs. George Dallas Dixon has written and which Helen Eliason is putting on? Helen is some impresario, I tell you, after her success in "Why you, after her success in Not?" last year. Well, this affair is to be given at the Academy of Music on January 17 under the auspices of the Navy League and the auxiliary of the Seamen's Church Institute, the proceeds to go to the building fund of that institute. Mrs. Dixon's play is called "The Marriage Tax." and I hear it's very clever. She won one of the Plays and Players' prizes for one of the best plays of the year last season and has done clever work in this line on various occasions. There are to be many choruses, I hear, and the dancing is already being practiced every after-

Long Hours Mean Costly Printing Mistakes

N ERROR in printing is serious. It is multiplied by thousands for all the world to see, appearing on every piece struck from the press. And in any work so intricate and exacting as the printer's, long working hours invariably result in costly mistakes.

And errors in printing aren't always typographical ones. There are more serious ones-more serious because they reduce quality and effectiveness-such as inartistic proportions and design, wrong type selection, inharmonious or "off" colors, poor presswork-just a few of the things that can happen to a job of printing in the hands of unskilled or overworked men. Union Printers, thoroughle trained by careful schooling and long experience in their craft, have the knack of getting out better printing in a shorter time at less cost. They know thoroughly just how every intricate detail should be done and have the ability to avoid expensive mistakes and to give each piece of work the touch that characterizes the high-grade from the common-

Twin Bed Lecture :

(Mr. Doveleigh, in a burst of confidence, told Mrs. Doveleigh he had heard of a good thing in oil and thought he might take a flier. Not if she has anything to say about it, and the chances are she'll have something to say.)

CO YOU'VE heard of a good thing in Ooil, have you? Well, you mark my words, if you get in there'll be a good thing in oil, all right, all right. It'll be you, that's who it'll be. All those fellows would go out of business if it wasn't for men like you. Good thing in oil. How many times have I heard such talk? Once it was airplanes and before that it was a tin mine in Tombstone, or some such place. Well, Tombstone was the name for it, all right. HAVE A HEART.

That's just it, I have a heart. It is because I have a heart I don't want you to fall for another skin game. Oh, I know what you're going to say; there is a lot of money in oil, but why shouldn't there be, with so many easy marks like you putting their money is it. If you've got to find something to put your money in, why don't you put some of it in the house? Take a look at the curtains. AW, LET ME A ND the linen. Look at the linen. Do you know I've been keeping the last three years with two house for the last three years with two tablecloths? And yet you want to take fliers in oil. Take a flier in table linen for a change. Or a flier in a set of dishes. Or a flier in a new suit for yourself. Those oil fellows have plenty of suits. Why should you buy them any more? ALL RIGHT, ALL RIGHT. any more? ALL RIGHT. ALL RIGHT.

It's not all right. I don't want to hear another word about oil in this house, do you understand? Not another word. ALL RIGHT, STOP TALKING ABOUT IT THEN.
Oh, I should stop talking about it.
should I? Did I start talking about it?
No. Who did? You did. And now

I should stop. I shouldn't say a word,

I suppose. I should let you run through with everything you've got and then go over the hill to the poorhouse with the children. Well, you've got another guess. If it's your intention to drive us to the poorhouse, you'll do nothing of the sort. That's the kind of a man you are. Try to drive your wife and children to the poorhouse. OH, FOR THE LOVE OF MIKE, HAVE A HEART.

(That's it. Mrs. Doveleigh has a cart. She is merely trying to show Mr. Doveleigh the error of his ways.
If she had no heart she wouldn's
