

BRUNNEN MAYER CASE
IN JUDGE'S HANDS

Decision in Miss Barker's Dismissal From College Probably After Christmas

ATTORNEYS ARE CAUTIOUS ASSAULTS TRAFFIC RULES

Whether Miss Marjorie Barker, of Michigan City, Ind., will win her petition for reinstatement in Bryn Mawr College is now a matter which rests with Judge Schwartz and Miller at Norristown.

The last evidence in the case developed through the girl student's dismissal under alleged immunities of entry thieves, was heard yesterday and counsel for Miss Barker and the college both summed up.

Judge Schwartz said there would probably be a decision made some time after Christmas. Miss Barker, attending the hearing with her lawyer, left the courtroom expressing satisfaction at the terms the case had taken. She refused to make any comment.

Miss Barker left Bryn Mawr College last March, at the opening of the Easter holidays and was requested to return. She has since been in the college, mandamus restraining her in the college.

Dr. M. Carey Thomas, president of the institution, was on the witness stand several hours yesterday. Her testimony showed she was absent in Europe at the time of the dismissal, but she upheld the decision made by Dean Hibbs Smith.

An attempt to have the case dismissed for lack of sufficient grounds was made by N. H. Lavelle, the college's attorney. But the judges refused to do this, and the case will go to trial.

"Are you going to be situated in institutions in which automatic power can be placed in certain persons who make charges which almost never name names, or are you going to be in the category of institutions training people for democracy, where things are done democratically?"

Marjorie Barker is not on trial here. Her friends have not lost their confidence in her. We ask that there be a reinstatement on principle that the proceedings against this girl were creditable neither to fair play nor honest justice.

Mr. Pepper's argument was that after the trial Miss Barker should have the opportunity to be fully heard not to rally her student friends to her support.

It is the most awful thing I ever heard of. It is not only a violation of the principle of the intelligence and dominance of the president of the college. But something was lacking—there was no justice.

Dr. Thomas' contention was that Miss Barker's case was afforded more opportunities for investigation than is usually given any similar affair at Bryn Mawr, and that she was dismissed during the Easter vacation was a merciful practice employed in all such cases.

TRUCK WRECKED BY TROLLEY CAR

Wreckage of a local express company which was taken over Christmas packages when hit by a trolley at Fourth and Market streets. The collision scattered the bundles and boxes and shattered the windows of a car on Route 31.

In a collision that occurred last evening on Market street, between thirty-third and Fortieth, a motor truck of a local express company, driven by Edward Johnson, of 1217 Market street, was wrecked and virtually all the windows of a Route 31 car shattered. The trolley crashed into the truck from behind.

The accident occurred when Johnson, who had been driving in the trolley tracks, attempted to swerve to one side. The car struck with such force that a load of Christmas parcels in the truck was scattered far and wide over the street, which was crowded with trolleys receiving a shaking up, however, no one was injured.

SHIP OFF SEA GIRT
RAMS DESTROYER

Seven Members of the Graham's Crew Injured by Big Liner Panama

CRASH IN CLEAR WEATHER

New York, Dec. 17.—Seven seamen, injured in the collision between the liner Panama and the United States destroyer Graham, off Sea Girt, last night, arrived here early today and were taken to the naval hospital in Brooklyn.

The men, all of whom were of the Graham, were W. H. Kelly, Raymond A. Smith, J. H. Thornton, J. T. Wright, Benjamin Meigs, F. A. Reed and J. Rogers. Kelly was most seriously injured, having suffered concussion of the brain and scalds from a broken steampipe. The others had received severe bruises and lacerations, but none of them was dangerously injured.

The men were brought to this city on board the Panama, which proceeded under her own steam after the accident. With them were fifteen seamen who were being taken to Charleston on board the Graham for distribution among various naval stations in the Southern States. The Graham and the United States coast guard boats Seneca and Greenham, and the tender Sandpaper, came into port several hours after the Panama arrived.

Say Signals Were Mixed
Confusion of signals was said by the Graham's crew to have caused the collision. There appeared to be misunderstanding between the helmsmen of the two craft when they met off Sea Girt. The crash occurred at 10:20 P. M. and at 10 o'clock tonight the two ships were reported locked together, and it was in this period that the injured men and fifty seamen were transferred to the liner. The seventy other men on the destroyer remained with the officers and worked the boat into the harbor.

Captain Oakley, the Panama's master, realized the Graham had a large hole torn in her port side. For a time after the crash the vessels hung together, and it was in this period that the injured men and fifty seamen were transferred to the liner. The seventy other men on the destroyer remained with the officers and worked the boat into the harbor.

Cross Lines' Boats
"Graham is lying easily across our bow," Captain Oakley then remarked. Soon afterward came the word that most of the crew of the destroyer had been taken aboard the Panama, but Commander William S. Ambison, of the Graham, was sticking to his ship. A few of his men remained with him.

Doctors and Nurses Sent
In response to a radio that had come from the Graham for the naval hospital in Brooklyn that medical assistance was needed, the mine sweeper Sandpaper, with doctors and nurses aboard, was hurried out to the Brooklyn Navy Yard. She was sent as an ambulance, as navy men say.

Two wrecking tugs of the Merritt & Chapman Company, the L. J. Merritt and the Willard, went out of the New York harbor in the wake of the coast guard cutter, Greenham and Seneca, which got under way from the anchorage at "Pookinville." Radio reports from a dozen ships at sea told of their having picked up the distress calls and being headed for the scene. When they learned that the destroyer was bound from New York to Charleston, S. C.

The Graham carries a complement of five officers and about sixty-five enlisted men.

MAYOR AND TWINNING
CONFER ON TRANSIT

City Executive Wants Complete Report on Cost of Power for New 'L'

DETERMINED TO ACT

Mayor Moore moved further today in his plan to operate the Frankford elevated, even if municipal operation is necessary.

Mr. Twining to keep in constant touch with the city-built line and to get it in readiness for municipal operation.

The Director was told to prepare for the Mayor a complete report, giving the exact status of the high-speed line, including full estimates about the cost of power to drive the heavy cars over the eight miles of rails from Bridge street to Front and Arch streets.

By this action the Mayor replied that the City and County, advised by Richard Weiglin, president of Council, that the P. R. T. Company must operate the line.

A special transit commission created by Council is now grappling with the offer made Tuesday by Thomas E. Mitten, president of the company, for P. R. T. operation of the line, which cost taxpayers nearly $15,000,000.

During the talk the Mayor had a City Hall today with Director Twining and Council members. The Mayor's plan to run the Frankford elevated even if there is only one car on it.

At the first meeting of Council's commission yesterday it was reported that Coleman J. Joyce, counsel for the company, admitted the new Mitten offer was dragged forth by the Mayor's preparations for municipal operation of the line.

Mr. Joyce, it is reported, placed a different interpretation on the Mitten offer than that made by city officials who studied the proposals of the P. R. T. Company. As a result Joseph Twining made the initial conference almost a comedy of errors, it was reported.

There was much discussion about City Hall today over the fact that the conference was held behind locked doors.

Director Twining conferred today with Vice President Richardson, of the P. R. T. Company, and with Joseph Conroy, engineer for the Transit Department, and R. H. Horton, the company's traffic engineer, will meet Monday to work out traffic details of the Mitten formula.

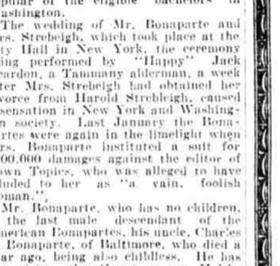

U. S. RUM ROOM RAIDED

Thieves Get Only Colored Alcohol From Federal Building

The prohibition seizure room in which colored liquor is stored on the fifth floor of the Federal Building was broken into last night, for the fifth time this year, by thieves who stole several bottles of what they thought was real whiskey.

The prohibition officials have been expecting another raid on the seizure room and Thursday all the "good stuff" was removed to a warehouse vault. Last night thieves got only "colored alcohol" bottled and labeled as a well-known brand of whiskey.
