

Champion Benny Leonard Outpoints Rugged Timothy Doney in Eight Rounds at the Ice Palace

LEONARD FINDS DRONEY IS TOUGH

Champion Shows Speed and Punching Ability, but Bout Goes Limit

TIM PROVES HIS GAMENESS

By LOUIS H. JAFFE
What a tough guy Tim Doney turned out to be! The Lancastrian was among those standing at the finish of his scheduled eight-round bout with Benny Leonard at the Ice Palace last night, but the up-State Irishman was forced to assimilate an artistic lacking in order to be there when Timekeeper Joe Corvino clanged the gong for the last time.

As usual, there were a number of dubious fans, who believed that Leonard would win, and the limit was his ally to take punishment. And at the same time Timothy always was trying to connect with long left hooks and side overhand rights to the head.

Several times Doney did find lodgment with wild swings, but the champion usually was going away or moved his head in such a way that the blows glanced off his face without harming the New Yorker. In the clinches Tim was so anxious to make a showing that he sort of roughed up Leonard, smearing him with dirt, and the clincher really, Doney was unable to land with a solid sock.

Flares in Sixth

While Leonard went along outpointing Doney for five rounds, with the latter coming to the champion all the way, it was not until the sixth that Benny showed any of his old-time flash. And in that session he proved himself to be the Benny Leonard of several years ago.

Leonard was up on his toes, jabbing, right-crossing, hooking—showing excellent footwork and making Tim miss continually. In this round Doney hardly landed a good, stiff blow to the body, but he kept coming incessantly, and it was only his willingness to walk in that enabled the champion to show his class.

The seventh and eighth rounds virtually were repetitions of the sixth. In these rounds, also, Benny put more power behind his punches, and there was doubt that the titleholder was putting everything behind his wallop in an effort to lay low the gritty Irishman.

It was in the third round that Doney tried himself to be game all over, as he said. While in a half clinch, Leonard accidentally hit fly with a terrific right-hand punch for the body. This blow landed low, and Doney came reeling. Benny evidently knew that the punch landed below the belt and he stepped back.

Colonel Howard Frowd walked between them and asked Doney if he was hurt. Tim shook his head in the negative, stepped around a bit and then motioned that the contest be resumed. And Timothy did not let up a bit in his fighting, either.

Tough, Says Benny

Leonard showed to advantage in every round but the second, which was even. Before the bout the champion's weight was announced at 137½ and Doney 140.

"He's the toughest fellow I have ever met," said Leonard after the bout. "Those who believed I did not try to knock out Doney were all wrong. Of course, I was not taking any chances of hurting my hands on his head but I found a lot of openings for punches flush on the jaw."

"I was surprised. Several times I thought Doney was going down, and I began wondering what was keeping him up. I put everything I had behind a number of good, stiff blows to the body, but the best they did was to make Tim grunt, while he kept swinging all the time."

Gus Franchetti, 131, was knocked down for the count of nine in the first round by Tony Caponi, 120½, but the former came back gamely and went through the eight rounds. For the first five rounds he did not know he was being. When his brother, Johnny Lincoln, told him it was the seventh round coming, Gus said: "Is that so? I thought it was only the second." Caponi was the winner.

Cross Steps Bout

Sergeant Harry Cross used good judgment in stopping the bout between Tommy Loughran, 164½, and Vincent Lopez, 156½, in the fifth round to save the latter from further punishment. Lopez was bleeding profusely from a cut under his left eye.

Jack Clancy, 175, won in a heavy-weight slugfest from Joe Allison, 187.

Fifty per cent of the profits of last night's show was turned over to the Philadelphia County Committee of the American Legion to be added to the Christmas fund for unemployed and sick veterans of the World War.

Three cartoons drawn by "Wally," staff cartoonist of the Stars and Stripes, the A. F. P. official newspaper, were auctioned off and were sold for $100, $40 and $40, respectively. Bascomb Hoff bought the $100 cartoon, entitled "Why Not Give Benny Leonard the Job of Steering the Navy." He presented the drawing to the champion today.

McInnis Insists He Won't Join Indians

Manchester, Mass., Dec. 21.—A possible hitch in the deal by which Stuffy McInnis was to be transferred to the Cleveland club developed today when he stated that he did not intend to join the Indians.

"When I signed a contract with President Frazee last year I had him give me at the same time a written agreement that I was not to be traded or sold without my consent," the player declared. "I regard that agreement as binding, and I will bring it into the courts if necessary."

McInnis said he consented to join the Boston club originally because his home was within an hour's ride of that city. It is still his wish, he said, to be near his family and to play before his friends.

ELEVEN PLAYERS IN TWO BIG DEALS

Red Sox Get Peckinpugh and Three Pitchers for Scott, Bush and Jones

MCINNIS GOES TO INDIANS

The personnel of three ball clubs in the American League were changed considerably as the result of the biggest trades of the off-season announced last night. Eleven players of the Red Sox, Yankees and Cleveland were involved in the deals.

Boston, true to the name, was the hub of the trades. The more important of the two deals was the one which sent Roger Peckinpugh, captain and star shortstop of the champion Yankees, and his three mates Rip Collins, Jack Quinn and Hill Pierce, all pitchers, to the Red Sox in exchange for Shortstop Everett Scott and Pitchers Sam Jones and Joe Bush.

Stuffy McInnis, onetime Athletics hero, was ordered from Boston to Cleveland in the other deal, and Elmer Smith, outfielder; George Burge, first baseman; and Joe Harris, another first sacker, have been transferred to Boston. Harris was ordered to Boston under suspension for jumping to Oil City last year. If he is not reinstated, it is understood that the Red Sox will obtain Doc Johnston, another first baseman.

Cash Thrown In

Colonel Ruppert, who announced the Yankee-Red Sox deal, did not mention any financial considerations, but it is believed that a handsome sum was handed over to Harry Frazee, the Boston president, in addition to the four athletes.

The transfer of Peckinpugh is an indication that Miller Huggins stands as high or higher with the Yankees owners. It will be remembered last season the Yankees made an effort to have Huggins dropped as manager and Peck raised to that position. For a short spell during the campaign, Balaib was in charge and the revived spirit of the Yankees was attributed to the inspiring leadership of the scrappy shortstop.

The Red Sox virtually are a new team as the result of trades. With the passing of Everett Scott, high and the ranking shortstop and holder of the record for consecutive play, the team loses the last of the regulars who brought world championships here under the management of Bill Carrigan.

Red Sox Stronger?

The new Red Sox, it is figured, will be a stronger hitting team. The lineup will be:

Lofhold, cf.; Peckinpugh, ss.; Pratt, 2b.; E. Smith, cf.; Harris, rf.; Burge, 1b.; Foster, 3b.; Ruel, c.; any one of several pitchers.

By one trade or another in the last few years the New York and Cleveland American League clubs have obtained nearly twenty players from the Boston team, of whom the following are still members of those clubs:

New York—Ruth, Mays, Selang, McNally, Hoyt, Scott, Bush, Jones and Harper.

Cleveland—Speaker, Gardner, McInnis, Wood and Nippamaker.

To the Red Sox of this season the New York Americans alone will have contributed Pratt, Ruel, Vlek, Walters, Russell, Peckinpugh, Quinn, Collins, Piercey and Thormanien.

Harry Frazee, president of the Red Sox, today authorized a statement that the club, which has been represented to be on the market, was not now for sale.

Many Huggins Deals

The big deal put over by Huggins reminds baseball fans of numerous other big trades engineered by the little manager. He now enjoys the reputation of being the biggest wholesale trader in baseball. Six times in recent years he has put over deals involving seven players. Here are some of his big trades:

1911—Traded Ketcher, Stover and Harman to Pittsburgh for Jack Miller, Butler, Dolan, Wilson and Robinson.

1912—Traded Traylor, Shaker, Nunnemaker, Madson and Gaden to the Browns for Pratt and Hill.

1915—Traded Lave, Walters, Caldwell and Leonard to the Red Sox for Lewis, Shore and Allison.

1916—Traded Pratt, Vlek, Thormanien and Hill to the Red Sox for Schanz, Hoyt, Bush and McNally.

1917—Traded Shere, McGraw, Smallwood, Hannah, Pratt, Lave and Corban to Vernon for Johnny Doney, Stuffy McInnis, Joe Harris and Collins to the Red Sox for Scott, Bush and Jones.

GERTRUDE ARTELT TO SWIM IN SOUTH

Local Girl Leaves for Miami Tomorrow to Contest in Events During the Winter

ADMITS SHE'S TWENTY

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK
GERTRUDE ARTELT is going South, geographically speaking, not athletically. She leaves tomorrow afternoon for Miami, Fla., where she will engage in swimming events all winter while she awaits notice here will be evading snow drifts.

Miss Artel is going to Florida at the invitation of Fred St. John, a sportswriter, and that South who also has Norman Rose and several other stars of swimming and various branches of athletics on hand for the entertainment of tourists. Miss Artel will be accompanied by her brother.

Insists She's Twenty

It's one of the characteristics of the factor sex to neglect to mention and, if asked to conceal carefully anything that hints on age. Not so with Gertrude. In fact Gertrude was puffed when she was eighteen yesterday out of her plans for the trip.

"There's one thing I would like to have the papers get straight," she pointed, "and that is my age. For the last four or five years they have been saying that I'm seventeen. And my, I'm so much older than that. You know it doesn't look good when one is twenty."

So, let it be known that Gertrude is all of twenty years and this is her fifth winter of swimming competition. It was in 1917 that she first breazed to the front when she copied two national championships. In that year, she won the pentathlon and 100 yards free style. In the pentathlon, which included the fifty-yard backstroke and breaststroke, the 100-yard free style, rescue racing and diving.

Set Three Records

Gertrude took first place in all the swimming events and set records in all three. She did the fifty backstroke in 41 seconds flat, the breaststroke in 42 flat, and the hundred free style in 1:00. Since then these marks have been beaten.

Those were American titles, but Gertrude also holds the Middle Atlantic championship in the century backstroke, the 150-yard backstroke and the 50-yard free style. The best time she has made in the 50 is 29 seconds flat, and 1 minute and 7 3/8 seconds in the hundred.

Gertrude was not at all pleased that she had to leave for the South tomorrow and miss the Christmas celebration at home. She is expected to return in February.

"I hate to leave before Christmas," she explained, "but Mr. St. John wrote me that he is going to have some opening events on Christmas and, of course, he wants me there at that time. I don't want to make the trip and as I will be Mr. St. John's guest, it is only proper that I should do as he requests."

"I will be gone until the latter part of February. It is Mr. St. John's plan to give the tourists entertainment in sport. Not only will the swimming stars be present, but he also will have several tennis luncheons and men and women from other branches of sport on hand."

"I am particularly fond of cold weather, and I love swimming, especially outdoors, and naturally I am glad with the opportunity of going South."

7 COLLEGE PILOTS AT KISKI IN 1915

Schwab, Keck, Stein, Davies and Holleran Among Stars on Saltsburg Team

MARKS' COACHING PRAISED

BACK IN 1914 Connie Mack broke up the world's greatest ball club, and the athletes of that marvelous combination formed the basis of a number of college eleven teams.

More than a year later the world's greatest prep school football team was shattered by graduation, and the members thereof later became the stars of a number of collegiate eleven teams.

The two tackles on Kiski's wonderful eleven were Stein Keck and Russell Stein, captains of Princeton and Washington and Jefferson teams, respectively, during the last season. Keck, on the first team eleven last year, gave the post-season training to the eleven this year. Stein is on the first substitution.

Other Captains
The other college captains who played on the Kiski 1915 team are Frank Schwab, Lafayette leader for the last three years; Princeton's Charles Decker, Philadelphia, student captain this season; Newish Boitz, Penn State center and captain-elect for 1922; Art Herrington, Lehigh captain and quarterback in 1920; Tom Haynes, Pitt halfback, All-American in 1920 and captain in 1921; and Tom Holleran, Pitt halfback and captain-elect for 1922.

Two other college stars turned out are Stan McCollum, State end and one of the best wing men in the business, and Don Crawford, Washington and Jefferson fullback in 1919.

It is a peculiar fact that the captain of this great team, George Bryan, the left end, did not go to college. Gordon Hess, the left guard, was the only other member of the team who did not seek higher education. He became a professional and joined the Massillon Tigers in signing guard.

STATE COLLEGE OFFERS HAVERFORD GRID DATE

Bushquehanna and Hamilton New Teams on Main Line Schedule

Haverford has been offered a date on the Penn State football schedule for 1922. It was announced by Manager William H. Hamilton, of the Main Line team, today. It is very unlikely the invitation will be accepted, for the 1922 Haverford program is almost entirely arranged at this date, and only the opening game of the season is in any great doubt.

Haverford will open its 1922 season a week earlier than this year, and New York University was being very seriously considered for the lid-opener. However, it was found that it would be impossible to arrange a game with the New Yorkers at Haverford on that date.

The schedule, with the exception of the opening date, will include the same opponents as those which were met this year, with the exception of Trainers and in addition two new teams in Susquehanna and Hamilton.

It was impossible to arrange a mutually satisfactory date with Trainers, though both institutions were anxious to meet again. The Susquehanna game was scheduled a week before the Swarthmore game, and will be played at Haverford on the 19th of November. Trinity will be met earlier in the season at Haverford, probably on the 14th of October. Hamilton, the Black schedule, will line up against Haverford at Clinton, New York. The Johns Hopkins game will be at Haverford, the F. and M. game at Lancaster, the Stevens game at Newark, the Delaware game at Newark, and the Haverford game at Haverford.

California Declines to Play Harvard Team

Berkeley, Calif., Dec. 21.—University of California authorities have sent a telegram to Harvard University declining an invitation to meet the Crimson eleven at football at Cambridge on October 28, 1922.

"After careful consideration we feel that due to the length of time players would be away from studies it would injure their scholastic standing to make the trip," the telegram said.

John Butler, for two years the star center of St. Joseph's Prep football team, has been elected captain of the team for the 1922 season. His election took place yesterday afternoon.

Butler is considered by many the best scholastic center in this city. He and Leo Breslin, the 1921 captain, were the most brilliant players on the team. Both were picked by the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER on the 1921 All-Philadelphia eleven.
