

MURDER ATTEMPT LAID TO HUNTER

New Jersey Warden Said to Have Just Missed Being Shot During Fracas WAS INSPECTING LICENSES

Chatsworth, N. J., Dec. 23. — The alleged attempt of a deer hunter to murder State Game Warden Frank Stenning, of Stanwood, Union County, while he, with other wardens, was inspecting hunting licenses in the woods near Chatsworth, has created much excitement in this section, where live several members of the gunning party, which included the officer's assailant.

Wardens are withholding details of the fracas. They will present the matter before the new Grand Jury of Burlington County in a few days. Warrants will be issued for the alleged assailant, said to live in Deal.

There are said to have been forty gunners in the party, near Stanwood when Stenning was shot. Among them are C. Morton, of Mount Holly, and Thomas Kelly, of Jersey City, reached that section in their rounds to see that the game laws were observed.

Some of the gunners, it is said, had been arrested on previous occasions for poaching. They assumed a threatening attitude when the warden appeared. Stenning drew his revolver in self-defense, it is said, when a threatening crowd surrounded him. The alleged attempt to kill the warden occurred a moment later. The frightened crowd quickly dispersed. No attempt was made at the time to arrest the alleged assailant, as his identity was known.

Warden Stenning recently succeeded in murdering William Hobbitt, who was murdered by poachers in Union County, a few months ago.

The Great Prize Contest : By J. P. McEVOY

What to do with the holes in the tablecloth and the baby's outgrown rattle. Dear Sir—Cut all the holes in the tablecloth and use it for a disguise at a Halloween party. As for the rattle, are you sure you've outgrown it?

CHI-BO. One might expect such an insipid suggestion from an individual who would so demean himself as to sign a communication as above. The quality of the contributions which are coming into this contest is getting more hopeless every day. It is only this fact that encourages us to continue. As to whether or not we have outgrown our rattle, we wish to say first of all that we never had a rattle. The first toy with which we were allowed to play was the Encyclopedia Britannica. At six months we had mastered it up to "Fry to fry," and had set the index volume to music which we sang in public with the leading symphony orchestra in America. We completely revised the dictionary before we had completed our first year and even yet can remember into this contest is getting more hopeless every day.

After-Dinner Tricks No. 41—A Mysterious Match A match is pushed head first into the closed fist. But when it is drawn out the head coming last. An extra lead was previously glued to the base of the match. The real head was held between the thumb and forefinger of the right hand, so that when the match was shoved into the left fist, it apparently went head first. The pressure of the left fingers broke off the dummy head, so when the match was pulled out the other side, the real head came last. The extra lead was left behind in the left hand, and was dropped on the floor.

C. Flat would be a better signature. You are also out of the contest. Dear Sir—Would you mind repeating the question? JAKE. Dear Jake—I would. Editor of Contest. Several petitions from various sections of the country, some of them signed by as many as one hundred names, begging us to discontinue this contest, have been received. Of course, we will ignore all such requests and we will continue if it costs the editor of this paper every bit of circulation. Nothing will stop us except death or a bribe that will be sufficient to finance all our Christmas shopping.
