Street-cleaning devices new to Phila-delphia will be employed by the city when the Moore Administration, as a New Year's gift to the people, takes first of the year.

Among those devices will be two mo-or sweepers, a snow loader and two ten-ton tractors.

An army of 3000 men will be in the city's street-cleaning service. This is about 300 more than the contractors have at work. Later on even more men will be hired. The monthly pay-roll will be $300,000, or $3,600,000 a Vear.

As the resupit of falling prices and he more economical administration the the more economical administration possible under city management, Di-rector Caven expects to do the work for the coming year for nearly $1,000,-000 less than it cost this year. Ac-tually, it is estimated that the saving for the next year will be $700,000.

The doing of the work by municipal forces not only enables the city to make the economics possible by consolidation, but also to introduce the new methods. For example, the motor sweepers, replacing a host of men, or rather doing the work of many men, and doing it better.
