wild desire for money and fuxitries, fir interest in the "big things" of life, was really a member of the family that the "misfit" loved so well, although she was so totally different from all of them.

She is in Doubt Dear Cynthia—I am a young girl of twenty-one, of parents that are strict Orthodox Jews. I have been keeping company with a young man twenty-three years old for the last two years and find him to be a boy of good prin-ciples and finest character. He has pro-posed marriage to me and also wants to get me a diamond ring, but I am hesi-tating whether to accept it or not, as my parents object to having him for a son-in-law on account of his sister mar-rying a Gentile and another brother as to whether to accept him or not, as I love him very dearly, and I would appreciate very much an answer as to what you would do in this case. THE GIRL IN DOUBT. "misfit" loved so well, although she "misfit" love so well, although she is all in a very sweet story which has a delightfully happy ending. It isn't always that a story like this does end happily in real life. Sometimes the lonely little girl—or boy—who feels misunderstood and out of things broads in silence until the unhappy thoughts get too strong a hold on her. So the suspicion seemed to be proved :

THE GIRL IN DOUBT. It never seems fair to judge any one by the actions of his family. If you love the young man try to gain your parents' consent, as he is of your faith.

Two Minutes of Optimism By HERMAN J. STICH

Make 1922 a Banner Year

THE other day I heard a good story.

It was of a portrait painter who sat in a French cafe sipping his wine. His small bottle was finished and he was about to order more, when his eyes rested on a newspaper lying near. He read the headline :

HARD TIMES ARE COMING.

'Hard times," he said ; "we must economize,

So, instead of calling for a fresh bottle, he called for his bill. The landlord, knowing the artist's habits, surprised that the order for the and bottle was not given, approached his customer and said :

"Not going so soon? Is my wine not good?

"Excellent," said the artist, "but hard times are coming, and I must

"Hard times," mused the landlord, scratching his head. Then he called his wife.

"That new silk dress you ordered," he Nad: "you must make cotton do. The artist tells me hard times are coming. We must economize. Cancel your order and buy something cheaper."

When the landlord's wife canceled her order she told the dressmaker what her husband had said.

'We must prepare for hard times.'' she said; "hard times are coming; my husband and the artist say so."

"Hard times," repeated the dressmaker to himself, afterward: "hard times are coming. This is no time to expand. These improvements I had intended to make must wait.

He put on his hat and crossed the street to the builder with whom he had planned additions to the showroom,

"The changes I planned must wait." he said. "Do not proceed with the Hard times are coming. We must economize. When conditions improve I will call you he, but I cannot invest money in the face of hard times."

When the dressmaker left the builder sat down and wrote a letter :

"My dear artist friend," he began ; "I must postpone sitting for my picture. We are going to have bard times and I think it best to wait until things are settled before indulging in this expense. Hard times, you know, must be regarded
