The Wanamaker Wonderful Winter Sale of White Begins Tomorrow

A New Year Word to Begin 1922

The gate of time swings into another year as if there are a million miles in front of it so, but lift your eyes upward and see the blue sky all the way overhead. Do you remember at Interlaken, Switzerland, how high the snow-capped peaks at the base of the Jungfrau looked until the fog lifted from the snowy slopes to the majestic mountain and all the difficulties to your climbing to the top faded away? It is possible for us to see clouds, big and dark ahead, but why look through the wrong end of the opera or field glass at our future? Before the life of right thinking and honest living there is an unseen crown to be won.

John Wanamaker

The lovely new cotton and silk frocks now being shown in the Women's Fashion Department are full of interest from the Spring point of view. Simple gingham, matelasses, linens, flannels, voiles, striped swisses are included, and there are exquisite heavy silk crepes besides. On these run from $27.50 to $165.

Magnificent Showing of Fashionable White Silks

There are no left-overs or un-sold goods to get rid of, but a large abundance of fresh goods, for instance, groups of white silks, crepes of the hour: crepe de chine, 40 inches wide, $3 and $3.50 a yard. Crepe de chine, 40 inches wide, $4 a yard. THEN: silk broadcloth, 32 inches wide, $2 a yard. Jersey silk, 36 inches wide, $3 a yard. in Roseate, 40 inches wide, $3, $4.50 and $5 a yard. Charmeuse, 40 inches wide, $3, $3.50 and $4 a yard. Satin crepes, 40 inches wide, $3.50, $4 and $5 a yard. Sports silks, 40 inches wide, $6.50 a yard.

"NOW," says the wise woman, "I'll stock my bureau drawers full!" She and thousands of others have been waiting for this Wanamaker Winter Sale of White. And they will be well repaid for waiting. Here are dainty, fresh new undermuslins at the lowest prices since before the war. Finer and better than ever, too, with more hand work, more hand embroidery, fine, real hand-made laces and more careful making in every detail.

Not only undergarments of fine nainsook and batiste and silk; but shirt-waists and blouses and negligees and bathrobes and house dresses and aprons and silk petticoats and all the kindred garments that must be ever plentiful and dainty in a well-run household and a well-appointed wardrobe.

The values are simply wonderful, from a woman's point of view. There is no other way of putting it. And women who come to buy will bear out that statement.

Domestic Underclothes Include Hand-Made and Machine-Made

Among the many thousands of domestic undergarments there are hundreds that are made every stitch by hand, and the trimmings are hand-made crochet and filet lace and hand embroidery. The prices on these average about half, nightgowns and chemises starting at $2.85, petticoats at $5, and corset covers at $1.50.

In machine-made underclothes prices are so low that it is a marvel how even the material can be got for these figures. There are nainsook nightgowns and chemises from 75c up, bloomers and corset covers and petticoats from 50c up—prices unheard of for years. At $1 alone there are fifteen different styles of good nightgowns.

There is plenty of fine cotton crepe underwear; and a novelty this year is the GINGHAM-TRIMMED UNDERWEAR, much prettier than it sounds.

Domestic nightgowns are 75c to $10.50. Chemises, 75c to $9.50. Combinations, $1 to $1.75. Drawers, 50c to $1.50. Bloomers, 50c to $1.75. Petticoats, 85c to $10. Corset covers, 50c to $2.25. Flannelet nightgowns, $1.

More Dainty Philippine Garments Than Ever Before

Never did a White Sale hold such large proportion of these fine batiste undergarments, all fashioned by hand and hand embroidered, some of them trimmed with laces. They are cut to American patterns and are wonderfully little-priced.

Nightgowns are $1.85 to $7.85. Chemises, $1.85 to $3.85. Drawers, $1 and $1.85. Petticoats, $1.50 and $1.85.

The Splendid Annual Sale of Furs starts tomorrow, with the entire collection in the Fur Salon on the Second Floor priced at

25 Per Cent Less

If this Sale has become famous it has every right to be. For only the finest furs in the market get into it, furs guaranteed to be what they are represented. The choice of skins is right in the first place, and the styles are chosen as carefully, so that it doesn't matter whether the fur you buy is a modest little gray squirrel neckpiece at $11, or a magnificent silver fox at $635, it is sure to be the best of its kind. Incidentally, some of the prices are remarkably little—Hudson Bay sable boas of one skin at $35, and full-size fox animal scarfs—black, brown and taupe—at $18.

Every fur that Fashion approves is here among the neck pieces

Russian and Hudson Bay sables; silver fox, the fine and hardy fisher; dyed blue, brown, black and gray foxes; skunk, mole, squirrel, baum marten, stone marten, mink, beaver, black lynx, Australian opossum and kolinsky. Shapes include everything from the tiny single-skin boas that finish a tailored suit to the splendid massive stoles and shawl collars.

The fur coats are a tremendously important part of the Sale.

Here are—Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) coats of the simpler and more conservative sorts and in lengths from 30 to 45 inches, $262 to $487. Hudson seal (dyed muskrat) coats, with rich trimmings of natural squirrel, skunk and beaver, $288 to $561.

Mole coats, wraps and capes—this group includes some of the most beautiful novelties—are $337 to $468. Natural muskrat coats, fine for sport and hard wear, $131 to $300. Black caracul coats, some plain, others trimmed with other furs, $337 to $600.

Marmot coats, $67 to $112. Narseal (dyed coney) coats, plain, $123 to $225. Still other fur coats are of mink, natural squirrel, kolinsky, Persian lamb, raccoon, nutria, beaver and leopard.
