GRAB $95 IN CHEAP JEWELRY WHILE PATROLMEN ARE "PULLING" BOX

FINE WATCHES UNTOUCHED
A robber or robbers, who might have been invisible for all that was seen of them, smashed a display window of the A. J. Schroeder Company, jewelers, at the corner of Fifty-second and South streets, today, and escaped with $95 worth of watches and trinkets. The Schroeder store was held up November 22 when four motor bandits "shot up" the place in wild West fashion and got away with $10,000 in jewelry.
Patrolmen Sacks and Crane were on the corner at 7:30 o'clock this morning. Because of hold-ups in that section two men have been detailed to the store. They went to a callbox and returned to the corner at 7:50.
In the interval, a small claw-hammer had been thrown through the Schroeder Company's Chestnut street window. Five inexpensive watches, five silver cigarette cases and a neck chain were taken. Several more valuable watches in the window were not disturbed.
Harry Morgan, 134 South Fifty-fourth street, manager of the store, looked up on the missing articles. In the November hold-up Mr. Morgan was at the counter when a bandit yelled "Duck, damn you!" and then fired through a glass door panel.
Two other bandits at that time kept peering over the counter. One of them while a fourth man scooped diamond rings, pearl necklaces and other jewelry from the window. This hold-up occurred at 9:35 A. M. The bandits were chased several blocks, but escaped.
Mr. Morgan, in discussing the robbery, said: "They have gotten everything but the safe, and I hope they will leave that alone."

SUICIDE IS UNIDENTIFIED

Bodies Removed From Clothes on Merchtantville Church Steps
No identification has yet been made of the body of a man found frozen on the steps of the Merchtantville, N. J., M. E. Church Wednesday night. The man had shot himself, it is believed, as there was a bullet wound in the body, and his hand clasped a revolver.
All identification marks had evidently been removed from the clothing. The man was about sixty years old, with sandy hair that was turning gray. In a pocket was a card of admission to an entertainment to be given by the Y. M. C. Country Club, at the Friends' Guild, Fourth and Green streets, Philadelphia.

GREEK PATRIARCH ORDERED DEPOSED

Archbishop Metaxakis, Recently a Visitor Here, Sentenced to Monastery

ASSERTS HE WILL RESIST

The Most Rev. Meletios Metaxakis, Patriarch of Constantinople and a recent visitor to this city, has been ordered deposed and secluded in a monastery by an ecclesiastical court at Athens, Greece.
The deposed patriarch was an impressive figure at a ceremony in Holy Trinity Episcopal Church on December 28, where he was the guest of Bishop Rhineland, Bishop Suffragan Garland and the Rev. Floyd W. Tomkins, the rector.
Resplendent in his vestments, with a crosier miter gleaming with jewels on his head and an archbishop's staff in his hand, he said his dearest wish was for a union of the Greek Orthodox and the Anglican and the Protestant Episcopal Churches.
The ecclesiastical court at Athens was presided over by the Metropolitan of Athens, and found the Patriarch of Constantinople guilty of attempting to bring about a schism in the Greek Orthodox Church. It was ordered that he be deposed of every rank and secluded in the monastery at Zante.
The Patriarch sailed from New York December 30 and is now in London, intending to continue to his See in a short time.
Patriarch Metaxakis, in London, said the action of the court was due to the influence of the Greek Royal Government. He was a supporter of former Premier Venizelos.
The churchman also said that in his opinion Archbishop Theoklitos, Metropolitan of Athens, is a layman who has assumed authority against all the canons of the Greek church. He announced that on his return to Constantinople he will summon an ecumenical conference to judge Theoklitos.

BILL THREATENS LEARY'S

Ordinance to Widen Ludlow Street Would Force Razing of Book Store
Leary's bookstore, 9 South Ninth street, for several generations a mecca for booklovers, may be torn down if Council passes an ordinance widening Ludlow street, between Eighth and Ninth streets, from sixteen to forty-one feet.
The ordinance was introduced yesterday. Leary's is owned by former Governor Stuart. Many are familiar with the shelves along Ludlow street, where are displayed hundreds of inexpensive volumes.

THINK how you treasure even the smallest piece of silverware handed down to you from your ancestors. Silver—a Gift for the ages. It is little wonder, therefore, that persons who appreciate the importance of such a gift, have for many generations consistently patronized the House of Bailey, Banks and Biddle Company. You will not only find all of their silverware to be scientifically constructed of a certain weight to prevent its being easily marred but you will be delighted with the beauty of design of even the smallest piece. And there is no wedding gift which will give such lasting pleasure—magnificent Chests of Flat Silver, magnificent Dinner and Tea Services, superb Center-table Ensembles, Salad Bowls, etc.

DO YOU wear far and near seeing glasses? If so, is the pair which you wear ever at hand? You can save yourself much annoyance by wearing bifocals, the best type of which you will find at Wall & Ochs, Opticians, 1716 Chestnut Street. They are known as the ULTEX and are ground out of one solid piece of crystal clear crown glass. The W. & O. round lens spectacles or eye glasses are especially adaptable to bifocals on account of the larger field of far and near vision. The expert fitters at Wall & Ochs are well qualified to assist you in selecting the type and size frames which are not only most becoming to your individual appearance, but which possess as well the highest degree of utility.

ARRAIGN PSEUDO INSPECTOR

Charles H. Bean is Charged With Swindle in Awardings
Charles H. Bean, 2532 Emerald street, who, according to the police, has been earning his living as a "city awning inspector," a position not yet created, was arraigned before Magistrate Renshaw today charged with getting money under false pretenses.
Bean is charged with taking $9, January 3, from Carl Jesser, 5342 Chew street, Germantown, after he told Jesser his awning should be painted and that he would do the job for $18. The contract was made, but Bean failed to return.

HELD AS RECKLESS DRIVER

M. A. O'Neill was Pugnacious After Accident, Accuser Charges
M. A. O'Neill, of Bala, was held for the Grand Jury by Magistrate Renshaw today on charges of assault and battery and reckless driving.
Ralph S. Armour, 5825 De Lancey street, said that the automobile driven by O'Neill crashed into the rear of his machine at Fifty-second and Race streets December 23 and that he was roughly handled by O'Neill.
O'Neill was allowed to sign his own bond.

CHICKS SO NEAR YET SO FAR; POOR CATS!

Really It's Hard for "Tabby" to Be All Caged Up at a Poultry Show

PRIZE ANIMALS ENTERED

Meow! A shrill cry of outrage, joined by another and still another. It wasn't the back-fence quartet, but some 100 cats which today are exhibited in conjunction with the Poultry Show at the First Regiment Armory, Broad and Callowhill streets.
Cats of the bluest of blue blood sit perched on pale pink and blue pillows, pawing fastidiously in the air. Angoras, Persians and Maltese are entered, each vying with the other for beauty. All of them frightened and decidedly, to say nothing of audibly, annoyed at their strange surroundings.
It's rather the irony of cat fate to be placed within seeing distance of fat, healthy, crowing and cackling chickens and not to be able to become more intimately acquainted.
"General Graystone," a blue Persian cat, is one of the most expensive entered. His owner, Mrs. Harry E. McCann, 2944 North Carlisle street, claims her cat is worth $300, but she and her husband would not part with him for $5000.
The General is fed mostly on raw meat, because it makes his bones stronger and gives him more muscle. A raw egg to make his coat shiny is mixed in with the meat.
He is given his tubbing regularly, and

Granted Same Hours and Pay as Philadelphia Plants Reopen.
The trouble between photo engravers and their employers, which has been nation wide, began when their agreement expired December 31. The employers wanted many modifications made in the new agreement, including a lower minimum wage scale or longer working hours. One by one the committees negotiated, other provisions were dropped, excepting those of pay and hours. The employers insisted that the union men accept a pay cut or work longer hours. They would not agree to either alternative, and the engraving shops were closed.
The men here went back to work today on a basis of a 44-hour week with $45 minimum weekly pay. This was the substance of the old agreement.
The men's victory here followed a similar victory in New York. Cincinnati has signed up, and seven of the Chicago shops have made individual agreements.

Man Found Ill on Street Dies

Charles Meyers, thirty-six, Pennsylvanier, N. J., died this morning in Hahnemann Hospital. Meyers was picked up at Eleventh and Fairmount streets Wednesday night unconscious. At the hospital he was reported as suffering from alcoholism and a fractured skull. He died without regaining consciousness.

COLLEGIANS IN OLD COMEDY

Zelosophic Players Don Silks and Satins in "Charles II"
The Zelosophic Society of the University of Pennsylvania was seen last night in an interesting performance of the old American comedy, "Charles II," at the New Century Club. A different cast will give the same play again this evening.
The comedy of "Charles II," written by John Howard Payne and Washington Irving, concerns one of the mad escapades of that monarch in company with his favorite, Lord Rochester, in which the two, disguised as sailors, carouse in a tavern in Wapping. A number of songs were interpolated throughout the action of the play.
Miss Dorothy Yockel distinguished herself as the heroine and Joseph Rainville was excellent as the host of the tavern. Others who played were Miss Rose Schlarje as "Lady Clara," Lewis Rimer as "Rochester," William R. Houston as "Charles II" and Horace J. Selig as "Edward, a page."
The performance was opened by a dance pantomime in which Miss Margaret Schell and Mr. Selig took part.
