JANUARY 17, 1922 EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER-PHILADELPHIA, TUESDAY,

Senator Glass, of Virginia, in an ex-tended speech, vigorously defended the Federal Reserve System. The Senator crossed swords with Senators Harris, of Georgia, and Heflin, of Alabama, on his own side of the chamber, and cited iccent public atterances of these mem-bers as instances of what he said were unfair attacks on members of the board. Scenator Glass declared "some Sena-Senator Glass declared "some Senators and others" would accomplish more good if they would "talk sense to the bankers, instead of nonsense to the farmers.

President Ready to Act

President Harding stands ready, it was said today at the White House, to appoint a representative of agricultural interests on the Federal Reserve Board in event of enactment of the pending legislation. It was said authoritative that the Administration's policy is bring agriculture into the board's per sound and that the President would have no hesitancy in acting under the

The unanimous consent agreement under which the measure was considered is amended to extend the time for debate two hours.

Submission of the proposed change Submission of the proposed change brought a tilt between Senators Smoot, of Utah, and Hedin, of Alabama. Mr. Hedin Lad been altacked strong'r by Senator Glass earlier in the day, and he desired time to answer the speech. jection to the change was threatened Mr. Smoot and Mr. Hefin inter-

'If Senators think they can keep my from speaking by objecting to the change, then I want to say there'll not any more unanimous consent ageerents in the Senate soon. I'll serve notice also that there'll have to be a norum present here at all times, even

Under the new agreement, the fiveminute speeches would begin at 'clock and continue for one hour. The agreement specified that voting should ents and continue until all ents and the main proposition then begin and ere disposed of.

Glass Discusses Heffin's Speech Mr. Glass referred to a speech by Heffin in which he quoted latter as having said he was not ad-vised as to whether friends of members of the Reserve Board were specu-lating in cotton while the board's de-
