Chestnut Street Association's Preference Seconded by James M. Beck

EXPERTS LIKE NAVY YARD

The Parkway site for the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition is favored by members of the Chestnut Street Association, according to a vote just completed. The site is also favored by James M. Back, Solicitor General of the United States. The merchants' organization voted 178 for the Parkway site; eight for various other sites, and one vote indicated no preference.

Vice President Charles R. Hamilton, of the Chestnut Street Association, recently received a letter from James M. Beck, in which the writer said in part:
"I have no personal interest in the site, as I own no real estate in Philasite, as I own no real estate in Phila-delphia, and my only concern is for the good of the city; but a world's fair on the Parkway site could be made as im-pressive as the last Paris Exposition. which, as you may remember, was a few blocks away from the heart of the city. As a result, the attendance was enorm-

The joint committee of architects, engineers and real estate men named by the Sesqui-Centennial Exhibition Association to consider the fourteen roposed sites met yesterday at the Engineers' Club.

The results of the meeting were not disclosed, but it is understood that the committee arrived at a definite conclusion as to which site in their judgment of the committee will subis the best. The committee will sub-mit a report to the Sesqui-Centennial Exhibition Association. The report will be considered in a general way by the Executive Committee, after which public hearings on the question of site will be held, probably in February. The question will finally be referred to a committee of twenty-five, which will with the final decision.

make the final decision.

There is a wide difference of opinion among residents of the city as to the sites. There are rumors, however, that the site just above the Philadelphia Navy Yard, in the southeastern section of the city, is the one favored by the experts, because of its area and its frontage on the Delaware River. Jo-mph M. Houston, architect, has pre-mented plans for this development.

Although the comedy was presented for the first and probably the last time last night, the offering of these Philadelphia artists stands on its own merits as a worthy theatrical production. It accomplished a twofold and commendable purpose. Aside from the fact that an overflowing house yielded a handsome sum for the Seamen's Church Institute, honors go to the play for beit the first work of the stage to deal w. I. Philadelphia's proposed Sesqui-Centennial Exposition, a glimpe of which provided the scene for the last act. The play opened in Aix-lessalins.

The story, that of a headstrong American girl, daughter of a wealthy California Senator, who was the father of a bill that gave the Government 65 per cent of the fortune of an helress when she married a poverty-stricken member of Europe's nobility, was clear member of Europe's nobility, was clear enough but rather lost sight of in a profusion of charming song and dance.

One of the decided hits of the performance, and one that developed an amusing feature not in the production was the chorus of gray, but by no means drab, Quakertown girls, Perhaps it was the way they danced, and per-haps it was because it included some of Philadelphia's most popular belles that caused the fashionable audience to applaud for an encore all the while a Fairmount l'ark Commissioner was intent upon singing a song proclaiming the greatness of l'hiladelphia. The Commissioner sang lustily—one could see that—and though no one heard him, he had his way.
