

WIFE KILLS SISTER IN JEALOUS RAGE

Wrote Husband She Would Slay Woman, Herself, Baby and Dog

HE SAVES CHILD'S LIFE

New York, Jan. 18.—Frederick Rosenman, a chauffeur, whose home is in South Easton, N. J., but who has been working in New York for several months, received a letter yesterday from his wife, Helmina Rosenman, in which she gave him calmly the news of their home, of their fourteen-month-old son and gossip of the neighborhood. But she ended her letter with the sentence: "I am going to kill the baby, my sister, the dog and myself."

Rosenman caught the next train for South Easton, arriving there in the afternoon. The house was quiet as he approached and in the living room he found his baby playing on the floor. Before he could go further into the house he heard a shot and the next moment Mrs. Rosenman came out of the kitchen with a revolver in her hand. "I have killed the dog," she cried. "I killed her Sunday morning," said Mrs. Rosenman.

Rosenman told the authorities that he went upstairs to the room that his sister-in-law had been occupying for several months and found Miss Weiss lying dead on the floor. She wore her night clothing and had apparently been shot while at her desk. Mrs. Rosenman said she had killed her sister about daybreak Sunday morning.

She intended to kill the baby and the dog shortly after she had shot her sister, but for some reason she found that she was not able to leave the room where the body of her sister lay.

"She worried her lying on the bed," said Mrs. Rosenman, "and I rolled her body to the floor."

According to the theory told by the woman, it was fortunate for the child that her husband found her before she did, because she had finally turned herself up to the task of killing the baby and then herself.

"I had to kill Gessie," the woman said. "She had me in her hands and I couldn't stand it."

COLLECTION OF HISTORICAL PORTRAITS TO BE INCREASED

Copies of Penn and Franklin Paintings to Be Hung in Governor's House

Harrisburg, Jan. 18.—(By A. P.)—Copies of the Place portraits of William Penn and the Framers painted by Benjamin Franklin are to be added to those of representative Colonial Governors in the drawing room of the Governor's mansion within a short time. Arrangements for the copies have been made recently by Governor Stewart, who is working out a plan for portraits in the official home of the Governor that will have historical significance.

A short time ago the Governor had received a copy of the portrait of the first Governor, Peter Stuyvesant, the first Governor under the Dominion of the Dutch, who conquered the Delaware River region from the Swedes. The portrait was now in the office and a suggestion has been made that to complete the link between the Dutch control and Penn, a portrait of the Duke of York, later King of England, be obtained.

The portraits in the office of the Governor at the State Capitol include all but a few men in course of affairs in colonial days from the time of 1500. The complete collection will be more representative of the epoch in Pennsylvania history.

CASHIER ADMITS GUILT

Solely Responsible for Plight of St. Louis Bank, He Tells Officials

St. Louis, Jan. 18.—(By A. P.)—Arthur O. Meininger, indicted cashier of the Night and Day Bank, says he is solely responsible for the bank's condition, according to an announcement early today by J. G. Hughes, State Finance Commissioner, with whom Meininger worked at the bank last night in an effort to clear up a number of transactions involving the shortage of $74,000 in the bank's accounts.

Meininger said he never consulted any of the board of directors about the transactions which resulted in the closing of the bank January 6, the day after Meininger disappeared. The cashier surrendered upon the advice of attorneys in Belleville, Ill., Monday. According to Hughes, Meininger declared he knew the shortage was too big to cover up and that he decided to leave. Meininger, who had been engaged in the bank for ten years, advancing from various subordinate positions to that of cashier, was paid a salary of $20,000 a year. He was released on a bond of $20,000.

Sought as Hero, Not as Criminal

New York, Jan. 18.—Frank S. Dolan, a stamper on the stamp-ship George Washington, sailed yesterday for Plymouth, where he is to be honored by the British Government for jumping into the water from a ship in a British port and rescuing a British sailor. Described at the report that the police sought him, Dolan went to police headquarters Monday night to learn why the authorities wanted him. Records revealed that Scotland Yard had asked the police to locate him that the British Government might honor him.

AMERICANS HONOR ITALY'S 'UNKNOWN'

Soldiers From the Rhine Pay Tribute in Capital to Identified Comrade

AMBASSADOR CHILD SPEAKS

By the Associated Press

Rome, Jan. 18.—America today paid tribute to the Italian unknown soldier, who lies beneath the nation's shrine in this city. American soldiers, forming a composite battalion, participated in the ceremonies incident to the bestowal of the Congressional Medal of Honor upon the Italian warrior, Richard Washburn Child, former States Ambassador to Italy, delivered the oration at the tomb.

"We come to do honor to one who, though nameless, shall glory through the ages, the nation that gave him birth," said Mr. Child. "By the honor we do him we honor his country, and his land. By this tribute we lay upon this altar as a home in some measure to add to the tokens of love, faith and trust flowing from the people of the United States to the people of Italy."

"It is proper at this moment, when we stand together at the feet of the unknown soldier, that we should pledge to each other the fulfillment of the high purposes held in common by our two Governments and our two peoples. It is fitting we should pledge to each other devotion to justice and tolerance; faithful labor and unselfish service to truth in all our words; loyalty in our lives, and honesty in all our deeds."

"It is for us, in whose veins the coursing life blood still flows, to keep always in our hearts the memory of the last moment of this soldier's life—that sudden spasm of pain, that twisting body, that tightening of the muscles, that last agony, that last moment, before he who gave all to his country and to his fellowmen fell into the eternal peace of death and received from the hand of God his measure of infinite mercy."

"To the honor brought to this spot by the unknown warrior himself, my Government and my people, and we who represent them, can today add little. We have faith, however, that we can bring here a high resolve. With the hearts and minds of our two nations in accord, we may together pledge here a service of self-sacrifice, less complete, but no less valuable and immortal, than that which he, in this unknown soldier, has given to his country and to his people. That spirit of devotion which we now leave in this soldier of Italy. He is not alone Italy's soldier, for, by the virtue that is in us, we Americans have earned the right to call him ours."

$15,000 FOR MOTHERHOOD

Girl Who Can't Become Mother is Awarded Damages

New York, Jan. 18.—The right of motherhood was valued at $15,000 in the Supreme Court here yesterday. This sum was awarded to Mary Ignizio, seven years old, of this city, who was run down December 29, 1920, by a truck owned by the New York Mutual Gas Company and injured so she had to undergo several operations and spend five months in a hospital. Doctors testified that as a result of her injuries she could never become a mother. Suit was brought for $10,000, but a $15,000 settlement was agreed upon.

Mrs. Ignizio said the money would be used to erect a home in the outskirts of Brooklyn, where Mary could have fresh air and build up her strength sufficiently to go to school.

"FLU" EPIDEMIC IN PARIS

Disease Spreading Rapidly and the Number of Deaths Increasing

Paris, Jan. 18.—(By A. P.)—Influenza is rapidly becoming epidemic in Paris and the provinces. The disease appeared in December, its ravages gaining from day to day, the climax coming Monday, when twenty-four deaths were reported. During the last ten days of December there were ten deaths from influenza in Paris, but during the first ten days of January there were forty-one.

Health officials admit the disease is spreading rapidly, but declare the present epidemic is trivial when contrasted with that of a few years ago when hundreds died every day in Paris.
