JUST GOSSIP ABOUT PEOPLE

Nancy Wynne Tells of Two Interesting Engagements Announced Today—Miss Page and Miss Heckscher Betrothed

TWO very interesting engagements are announced today and there is a rumor of a third which is very thrilling, too. That's almost too much for one little day, don't you think? The first is Mary Page's to John O. Platt. Mary Page is the Howard Wurts Pages' third daughter and a most attractive girl. She came out about three years ago and has been very popular. Mr. Platt is a brother of Mr. Clarton Platt. His first wife, who was Miss Katherine Leonard, died four years ago. Mr. Platt lives at 2111 De Lancey place and has a country home in Paoli. He is a member of the Philadelphia Club. He has one little son. Miss Page is a sister of Edith Page, who is to be married soon to Isaac Starr, Jr., and Evelyn Page is another sister. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. S. Davis Page, and a niece of Mrs. James Large and William Byrd Page.

THE second engagement is that of Virginia Heckscher, who is to be honor guest tonight at a ball given by her aunt and uncle, Miss Lucretia Heckscher and Mr. Gustav Heckscher. Virginia is a debutante of the season and the fourth to become engaged, if I am counting right. Her fiance is Barclay McFadden, son of Mr. George H. McFadden, who lives in that fascinating house at Eighthteenth and Spruce streets with the grounds around it, and where the crocuses come up so exquisitely in the springtime. Virginia is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ledyard Heckscher, of Bolingbroke, Radnor, and 2123 Spruce street. No date has been announced for the wedding, but it will doubtless be very soon.

A NUMBER of Philadelphians will go on to New York today to attend Leila Burden's wedding. She's going to marry Lindley Chapin, of New York, who is a brother of Mrs. Francis Biddle, of this city. Some of the attendants at the wedding are awfully interesting; for instance, one of the bridesmaids will be Mrs. Joseph Burden, who was Margery Maude, the daughter of Cyril Maude, the actor. Will you ever forget him here some years ago in "Grumpy"? He's an Englishman, you know, and very popular in his own country, so we do not very often have a chance to hear him here. Cornelia Chapin, Lindley's sister, is to be another attendant.

Leila Burden is a daughter of the late Mr. Joseph W. Burden and Mrs. Burden, of 160 East Seventieth street, New York. She is very pretty and attractive, and has visited here quite a lot. John Agar is to be Mr. Chapin's best man, and Brigadier General George Moseley, Chester Burden, Francis Biddle, Lawrence Miller, John Hughes, Jack Chapin, Bill Clark, Lee Garnet Day and De Coursey Fales are to be ushers.

MARY RIDGELEY CARTER will be an attractive debutante next winter. She is Virginia Carter's younger sister and a daughter of the Rev. George Calvert Carter and Mrs. Carter, of the rectory Church of the Redeemer, Bryn Mawr. Mary is rather fair and has lovely hair and eyes. Virginia is dark, you know, and they are the most attractive pair together. Mrs. Edwin Benson, of Chestnut Hill, is Mary's grandmother, and she will doubtless give a party for her.

HAVE you heard that a new little Miss Morris has come to town? The Effingham Morris, Jrs., have a little daughter, who was born last Monday, and is a perfect darling. If she is one-half as pretty as her mother (who, you remember, was Julia Lewis) when she grows up we have a mighty pleasant prospect before us.

MOTHER was ill the other day and unable to go downstairs to dinner, so Elsie and daddy, whose other name is Ned, had dinner together. Daddy was very entertaining, but he was also a bit trying. For instance, he would ask Elsie all sorts of queer questions she could not quite understand, and call things by very queer names. He spoke of a proboscis, and he said that a dog he had seen down street seemed almost to have a prehensile tail, and a few such things, and then he asked if Elsie had a proboscis, and finally Elsie thought that was going too far. So, copying her elders very correctly but for one word, she said: "Ned, you must not ask me so many imperial questions."

NANCY WYNNE.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

"WONDER-R-FUL," THE WOMEN OF AMERICA, SAYS BARONESS

So Charming, So Determined, They "Continually Surprise Me," Exclaims Woman From Holland Visiting Here. "Even Insects Move Faster"

"American women are wonder-r-r-ful."

So says Baroness Van Haeften Hatch, of Holland, who is in this city for a stay of three weeks. Although she has become an American citizen, with an American husband, the Baroness is typically Continental in her personality and point of view.

Her work here is in connection with a vast plan for economic and commercial co-operation between France and America, which is being prepared by her and her associates.

"They con-tinually surprise me," said the Baroness, "these American women. Such determination, such beauty, such elegance and chicness as they have!

"I have lived in this country for one year and one-half, and always they are surprising me with their excellencies. They are very intelligent, too, and capable of doing things that European women could not undertake.

"In France the women are similar. But they are not, shall I say, so energetic? They are not so r-r-remarkable as to their force. They are charming, but it is a studied charm—whereas these American women have charm without making the effort.

Dutch Girls Nice, Too

"And with the Dutch girls also. Dutch girls of the better class have the advantages of upper-class girls elsewhere, but they are of a dif-ferent nature. They are more placid. They have r-r-round r-r-rosy faces; they are very intelligent.

"Dutch girls must study ver-r-r-y hard, too. The cause for that is that they must learn the language of every other nation because nobody can understand theirs. That is r-r-right.

"As to the costumes which are so common in the pictures of the Netherlands they are worn only in these days by people in the country districts. The Queen encourages that this should be so.

"See, here I have some real old Dutch caps." She slipped one after another on her head and explained: "See, too, in this and in this the style is different. That is because they came from different parts of Holland.

"The higher-class Dutch women are just as well dressed as any women. They go to Brussels and Paris for their clothes and are ver-r-y smart."

When asked regarding that famous beverage known as Holland gin, she smiled and said:

"Yes, a great deal of it is used, and it is not good for the country. I would like to see some pr-r-rohibition in Holland.

America "So Fast"

"I am in favor of this prohibition, but there is too much of it. There should be some wine and some beer, perhaps. The Americans are so active in their lives that they need stimulants a little bit, or perhaps they are soon exhausted and worked out.

"Even the insects and the horses move faster in this country. Perhaps it is the climate. But it is a wonderful place, I have seen it.

"And Philadelphia I like as well as any place in America; much better than New York."

Mrs. F. D. Watson Speaks Tonight

Mrs. Frank D. Watson, of the Pennsylvania School for Social Service, will speak on "The Parent and the Teacher as Builders of the Future" this evening before the Home and School League of Philadelphia at 1313 Spring Garden street. Grace F. Pennypacker will preside.

Divorces Asylum Patient

Dr. Lida Allen, of Collingswood, was granted a divorce by Vice Counsellor Leaming in Camden today. Her husband, Charles S. Allen, is confined in the State Hospital for the Insane at Trenton.
