WHEELS WITHIN WHEELS

The big wheels are made of chiffon, set into the skirt of a taffeta dance frock which is remarkable for its severity and lack of adornment. They are edged with tiny little flowers made of silk, in colors that contrast prettily with the jude-green of the frock. The inner wheels are really nothing more than the headings of the larger ones, formed by the gathering of the chiffon

Be polite when you meet the young man, but let him make any advances toward friendship. Don't ask him to write or telephone. Appear indifferent behavior.

To "Loyalty"
It is usually better not to interfere in these matters. If they are silly enough to let a friendship of a long time be broken up by the incidents you cite, better let them get over it themselves. The one who tries to right things generally makes them worse.

A Nation of Coffee Drinkers

Americans are known the world over as a nation of coffee connoisseurs. America consumes more of the world's coffee supply than any other people.

We derive much satisfaction from the knowledge that we are able to please such a large number of critical coffee drinkers, for we sell millions upon millions of pounds of Asco Coffee yearly.

The endorsement of hundreds of thousands of critical judges of coffee means something.

Forty surprises in every pound one in each cup

Sold only in Asco Stores, located all over Phila. and throughout Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.
