

THE WIFE, THE HUSBAND, THE "SOUL TWIN"

Underwood & Underwood

Garland Soul Twin Philadelphia Girl

Continued from Page One Miss Benson comes from Cape Cod, both her parents being dead. After joining the Garland family six years ago she was sent to the Sargent School at Cambridge for two years.

Does Housework Now At present Miss Benson spends part of her time doing housework in the home of Prof. and Mrs. J. L. Strahan, thus earning money enough to keep herself going. She receives no money from Garland or from any one except the Strahans, she declares.

The girl admits that she has "been in love," but will not confess that Charles Garland was the man. "It was all on my side," she said.

Wife Thinks Love Will Draw Him Mrs. Garland says that she will welcome her husband back if he discards Miss Conrad. "Although I am deserted in the hour of my greatest need," said Mrs. Garland in her pretty little cottage home, near Boston, where she is preparing to return to her home in the Garland fortune, "I still feel that he will come back to me. I depend only on the power of my love to draw him back. I shall not go to him; I shall leave him free to come to me. He must work out his own destiny, as I work out mine.

"The old standards of the sacredness of the marriage tie," she continued, "are my standards. I have tried to understand his ideas, but I cannot accept them."

"Lillian Conrad has stolen my husband" from me, I believe she deliberately used her superior knowledge of me to lure him from me. I cannot understand her and I cannot forgive her."

Friendship Betrayed "She betrayed her friendship with me. I believe some day he will tire of her and come back to me. Perhaps he will grow to hate her. Then she will understand."

Garland will lose his new love if the determination of Miss Mary Irving Husted prevails. Miss Husted is director of the School of Applied Art, at 236 Boylston street, Boston, where Miss Conrad is a student. The director heard of the famous triangle, they were dreadfully shocked.

For the Lillian Conrad whom employees of the Labor Department and the Department of Justice were following, Miss Conrad's new life was a quiet and unassuming young miss, vastly different from the girl who now plays the role of an affiant.

"Lillian was a lovely girl; we all liked her at home," declared a new friend of the department, who knew Miss Conrad. "She lived with us for many months, and we were sorry to see her leave."

"The turn of events in Boston is certainly a surprise to us. We never thought she had any such ideas, much less the courage to carry them out, as a matter of fact we never thought she cared for men. During the time she lived with us she never had men callers. "Lillian was very studious. Each night after work she would go to her room to study. We saw little of her. Part of the time she attended a business college here, for she was always trying to better herself, and when the opportunity came to be a traveling companion she was certainly elated."

FIGURES IN GARLAND CASE

The man is Charles Garland, who first changed a $1,000,000 legacy, then changed his mind. The girl beside him is his "soul twin," Miss Lillian Conrad, a Philadelphia girl.

While living on Irvine street Miss Conrad roomed with Miss Viola Smith. The girls were together constantly. According to the McCalmonts, Miss Smith left Washington shortly after Miss Conrad went to Boston. Miss Smith is thought to have gone to China.

There are 875,000 women voters in the State and their fusion would form a balance of power that could upset any slate dictated by "bosses" who sought out candidates not favored by the new electors.

One of the big cards up the sleeves of women leaders is a plan for calling a State convention of women in the near future unless the party leaders quickly show a disposition to fully recognize the women.

Senator Vane has been sounding sentiment among the women and is trying to win his seat accordingly. Yesterday he said the organization intends to recognize the women in this city and today he amplified his remarks.

"The women have not been treated right all along the line," he stated. "So far as I am concerned here in Philadelphia they will be treated right. The women have the vote the same as the men, and they are entitled to just as much recognition as the men."

Mrs. Miller Also Warns Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, has sent an appeal to men and women voters asking them not to permit party bosses to gain control of the political affairs of the State.

"I need not direct attention to the supreme importance of the approaching primaries," said Mrs. Miller, "for if ever there was a time when every thinking, independent man and woman voter in Pennsylvania should be registered it is now. This is the time."

"Pennsylvania is about to enter on a new, an entirely new political era. The result of the May primaries will determine, to a large extent, the leadership of both the Republican and Democratic Parties. The great and ruling problem which must be solved is to see to it that this leadership is alert, progressive, honest, sincere and wholly devoted to the welfare of the people and the State."

"This leadership cannot be had by sitting idly by while machine bosses set up states and fix up things in their own interest. It can only be had by registering and then voting in accordance with conviction. And, furthermore, it can only be had by the great array of independent men and women working together harmoniously for the common end, the securing of a thoroughly representative leadership."

Leadership at Stake "By reason of certain important changes in the Republican State organization, for example, the leadership in that organization is at stake. Shall it

WOMEN ASK VOICE IN SLATE-MAKING

Mrs. Warburton Warns Male Leaders New Voters Must Not Be Ignored

Interest is Growing Women voters of Pennsylvania are preparing to demand a share in the making of a May primary slate and are uniting in opposition to hand-picked machine candidates.

A sharp warning of the feminine voters' attitude and interest and the declaration that it would not be wise to ignore the women were given today by Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee.

Mrs. Warburton already has expressed her views forcibly in letters to Governor Sprout, United States Senator Crow and W. Harry Baker, secretary of the State Committee. She disclosed these rapidly weakening interest among women was placed before leaders last November and that now some action is imperative.

Interest is Growing "We find there is a great movement among the women all over the State to inform themselves of the character of the candidates for the coming election," Mrs. Warburton said.

"We have positive proof of this in the numerous letters which have been received at headquarters and also from the reports of our organizer, Mrs. E. E. Melick, who has toured several of the important counties."

"Furthermore, the Democratic women and the League of Women Voters, and other women's organizations which have a responsible following are interested in securing information as to the plans of the leaders of the State for the coming primaries."

This matter was brought to the attention of the leaders of the party at far back as the first week in November. The primaries are rapidly approaching and there is a large woman vote in the State which it would not be wise to ignore."

Hold Balance of Power There are 875,000 women voters in the State and their fusion would form a balance of power that could upset any slate dictated by "bosses" who sought out candidates not favored by the new electors.

One of the big cards up the sleeves of women leaders is a plan for calling a State convention of women in the near future unless the party leaders quickly show a disposition to fully recognize the women.

Senator Vane has been sounding sentiment among the women and is trying to win his seat accordingly. Yesterday he said the organization intends to recognize the women in this city and today he amplified his remarks.

"The women have not been treated right all along the line," he stated. "So far as I am concerned here in Philadelphia they will be treated right. The women have the vote the same as the men, and they are entitled to just as much recognition as the men."

Mrs. Miller Also Warns Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, has sent an appeal to men and women voters asking them not to permit party bosses to gain control of the political affairs of the State.

"I need not direct attention to the supreme importance of the approaching primaries," said Mrs. Miller, "for if ever there was a time when every thinking, independent man and woman voter in Pennsylvania should be registered it is now. This is the time."

"Pennsylvania is about to enter on a new, an entirely new political era. The result of the May primaries will determine, to a large extent, the leadership of both the Republican and Democratic Parties. The great and ruling problem which must be solved is to see to it that this leadership is alert, progressive, honest, sincere and wholly devoted to the welfare of the people and the State."

"This leadership cannot be had by sitting idly by while machine bosses set up states and fix up things in their own interest. It can only be had by registering and then voting in accordance with conviction. And, furthermore, it can only be had by the great array of independent men and women working together harmoniously for the common end, the securing of a thoroughly representative leadership."

Leadership at Stake "By reason of certain important changes in the Republican State organization, for example, the leadership in that organization is at stake. Shall it

WOMEN ASK VOICE IN SLATE-MAKING

Mrs. Warburton Warns Male Leaders New Voters Must Not Be Ignored

Interest is Growing Women voters of Pennsylvania are preparing to demand a share in the making of a May primary slate and are uniting in opposition to hand-picked machine candidates.

A sharp warning of the feminine voters' attitude and interest and the declaration that it would not be wise to ignore the women were given today by Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee.

Mrs. Warburton already has expressed her views forcibly in letters to Governor Sprout, United States Senator Crow and W. Harry Baker, secretary of the State Committee. She disclosed these rapidly weakening interest among women was placed before leaders last November and that now some action is imperative.

Interest is Growing "We find there is a great movement among the women all over the State to inform themselves of the character of the candidates for the coming election," Mrs. Warburton said.

"We have positive proof of this in the numerous letters which have been received at headquarters and also from the reports of our organizer, Mrs. E. E. Melick, who has toured several of the important counties."

"Furthermore, the Democratic women and the League of Women Voters, and other women's organizations which have a responsible following are interested in securing information as to the plans of the leaders of the State for the coming primaries."

This matter was brought to the attention of the leaders of the party at far back as the first week in November. The primaries are rapidly approaching and there is a large woman vote in the State which it would not be wise to ignore."

Hold Balance of Power There are 875,000 women voters in the State and their fusion would form a balance of power that could upset any slate dictated by "bosses" who sought out candidates not favored by the new electors.

One of the big cards up the sleeves of women leaders is a plan for calling a State convention of women in the near future unless the party leaders quickly show a disposition to fully recognize the women.

Senator Vane has been sounding sentiment among the women and is trying to win his seat accordingly. Yesterday he said the organization intends to recognize the women in this city and today he amplified his remarks.

"The women have not been treated right all along the line," he stated. "So far as I am concerned here in Philadelphia they will be treated right. The women have the vote the same as the men, and they are entitled to just as much recognition as the men."

Mrs. Miller Also Warns Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, has sent an appeal to men and women voters asking them not to permit party bosses to gain control of the political affairs of the State.

"I need not direct attention to the supreme importance of the approaching primaries," said Mrs. Miller, "for if ever there was a time when every thinking, independent man and woman voter in Pennsylvania should be registered it is now. This is the time."

"Pennsylvania is about to enter on a new, an entirely new political era. The result of the May primaries will determine, to a large extent, the leadership of both the Republican and Democratic Parties. The great and ruling problem which must be solved is to see to it that this leadership is alert, progressive, honest, sincere and wholly devoted to the welfare of the people and the State."

"This leadership cannot be had by sitting idly by while machine bosses set up states and fix up things in their own interest. It can only be had by registering and then voting in accordance with conviction. And, furthermore, it can only be had by the great array of independent men and women working together harmoniously for the common end, the securing of a thoroughly representative leadership."

Leadership at Stake "By reason of certain important changes in the Republican State organization, for example, the leadership in that organization is at stake. Shall it

WOMEN ASK VOICE IN SLATE-MAKING

Mrs. Warburton Warns Male Leaders New Voters Must Not Be Ignored

Interest is Growing Women voters of Pennsylvania are preparing to demand a share in the making of a May primary slate and are uniting in opposition to hand-picked machine candidates.

A sharp warning of the feminine voters' attitude and interest and the declaration that it would not be wise to ignore the women were given today by Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee.

Mrs. Warburton already has expressed her views forcibly in letters to Governor Sprout, United States Senator Crow and W. Harry Baker, secretary of the State Committee. She disclosed these rapidly weakening interest among women was placed before leaders last November and that now some action is imperative.

Interest is Growing "We find there is a great movement among the women all over the State to inform themselves of the character of the candidates for the coming election," Mrs. Warburton said.

"We have positive proof of this in the numerous letters which have been received at headquarters and also from the reports of our organizer, Mrs. E. E. Melick, who has toured several of the important counties."

"Furthermore, the Democratic women and the League of Women Voters, and other women's organizations which have a responsible following are interested in securing information as to the plans of the leaders of the State for the coming primaries."

This matter was brought to the attention of the leaders of the party at far back as the first week in November. The primaries are rapidly approaching and there is a large woman vote in the State which it would not be wise to ignore."

Hold Balance of Power There are 875,000 women voters in the State and their fusion would form a balance of power that could upset any slate dictated by "bosses" who sought out candidates not favored by the new electors.

One of the big cards up the sleeves of women leaders is a plan for calling a State convention of women in the near future unless the party leaders quickly show a disposition to fully recognize the women.

Senator Vane has been sounding sentiment among the women and is trying to win his seat accordingly. Yesterday he said the organization intends to recognize the women in this city and today he amplified his remarks.

"The women have not been treated right all along the line," he stated. "So far as I am concerned here in Philadelphia they will be treated right. The women have the vote the same as the men, and they are entitled to just as much recognition as the men."

Mrs. Miller Also Warns Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, has sent an appeal to men and women voters asking them not to permit party bosses to gain control of the political affairs of the State.

"I need not direct attention to the supreme importance of the approaching primaries," said Mrs. Miller, "for if ever there was a time when every thinking, independent man and woman voter in Pennsylvania should be registered it is now. This is the time."

"Pennsylvania is about to enter on a new, an entirely new political era. The result of the May primaries will determine, to a large extent, the leadership of both the Republican and Democratic Parties. The great and ruling problem which must be solved is to see to it that this leadership is alert, progressive, honest, sincere and wholly devoted to the welfare of the people and the State."

"This leadership cannot be had by sitting idly by while machine bosses set up states and fix up things in their own interest. It can only be had by registering and then voting in accordance with conviction. And, furthermore, it can only be had by the great array of independent men and women working together harmoniously for the common end, the securing of a thoroughly representative leadership."

Leadership at Stake "By reason of certain important changes in the Republican State organization, for example, the leadership in that organization is at stake. Shall it

BLACK HAND FEUD SEEN IN SHOOTING

Two Suspects Deny Knowing Each Other at Dying Victim's Bedside

Two men caught fleeing in the neighborhood of Tenth and Hoffman streets, one of them wounded, and a third, who crawled four squares to his home in spite of four bullets in his body, are believed to have been participants in a Black Hand feud.

The three men, however, when brought together at the bedside of Emilio Retocco, of 1019 Emily street, dying in the Methodist Hospital, denied they knew each other. The police say their quick glances, apparently of recognition, betrayed them, in spite of their denials.

Those arrested are Antonio Di Giovanni, 1130 Emily street, who is shot in the leg, and Antonio Eorno, of 2035 South Ninth street, uninjured. He said he had never seen Di Giovanni before, but knew Eorno, a boot-black, and thought it was a shame to arrest him, as he was not in the fight.

Di Giovanni has been in this city a week, coming from New York. Retocco exonerated him also. He, too, is a patient at the Methodist Hospital. Both Di Giovanni and Eorno told the police they had been to motion picture shows, and were on their way home when arrested.

Street Sergeant Black and Patrolman Bradley and Bowman, of the Tenth and Dickinson streets station, were standing at Tenth and Tasker streets at 3:30 o'clock this morning when they heard shots. Pedestrians directed them to Tenth and Hoffman streets. Near there they saw Di Giovanni and Eorno running, one north, the other south. The man heading toward the patrolmen turned and ran east. Sergeant

Black chased him over Hoffman street to Ninth, and arrested him near 2335 South Ninth street. He was Di Giovanni. When Sergeant Black drove near the fugitive, arrested he was drunk. He said he lived at 2035 South Ninth street, which is Eorno's address. He had his hand in his pocket. The sergeant found a revolver there containing three discharged and two full cartridges. Taking him to the station house, the sergeant saw blood on his clothing and sent him to the hospital. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

A post-mortem judged Retocco home. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

Those arrested are Antonio Di Giovanni, 1130 Emily street, who is shot in the leg, and Antonio Eorno, of 2035 South Ninth street, uninjured. He said he had never seen Di Giovanni before, but knew Eorno, a boot-black, and thought it was a shame to arrest him, as he was not in the fight.

Di Giovanni has been in this city a week, coming from New York. Retocco exonerated him also. He, too, is a patient at the Methodist Hospital. Both Di Giovanni and Eorno told the police they had been to motion picture shows, and were on their way home when arrested.

Street Sergeant Black and Patrolman Bradley and Bowman, of the Tenth and Dickinson streets station, were standing at Tenth and Tasker streets at 3:30 o'clock this morning when they heard shots. Pedestrians directed them to Tenth and Hoffman streets. Near there they saw Di Giovanni and Eorno running, one north, the other south. The man heading toward the patrolmen turned and ran east. Sergeant

Black chased him over Hoffman street to Ninth, and arrested him near 2335 South Ninth street. He was Di Giovanni. When Sergeant Black drove near the fugitive, arrested he was drunk. He said he lived at 2035 South Ninth street, which is Eorno's address. He had his hand in his pocket. The sergeant found a revolver there containing three discharged and two full cartridges. Taking him to the station house, the sergeant saw blood on his clothing and sent him to the hospital. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

A post-mortem judged Retocco home. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

Those arrested are Antonio Di Giovanni, 1130 Emily street, who is shot in the leg, and Antonio Eorno, of 2035 South Ninth street, uninjured. He said he had never seen Di Giovanni before, but knew Eorno, a boot-black, and thought it was a shame to arrest him, as he was not in the fight.

Di Giovanni has been in this city a week, coming from New York. Retocco exonerated him also. He, too, is a patient at the Methodist Hospital. Both Di Giovanni and Eorno told the police they had been to motion picture shows, and were on their way home when arrested.

Street Sergeant Black and Patrolman Bradley and Bowman, of the Tenth and Dickinson streets station, were standing at Tenth and Tasker streets at 3:30 o'clock this morning when they heard shots. Pedestrians directed them to Tenth and Hoffman streets. Near there they saw Di Giovanni and Eorno running, one north, the other south. The man heading toward the patrolmen turned and ran east. Sergeant

Black chased him over Hoffman street to Ninth, and arrested him near 2335 South Ninth street. He was Di Giovanni. When Sergeant Black drove near the fugitive, arrested he was drunk. He said he lived at 2035 South Ninth street, which is Eorno's address. He had his hand in his pocket. The sergeant found a revolver there containing three discharged and two full cartridges. Taking him to the station house, the sergeant saw blood on his clothing and sent him to the hospital. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

A post-mortem judged Retocco home. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

Those arrested are Antonio Di Giovanni, 1130 Emily street, who is shot in the leg, and Antonio Eorno, of 2035 South Ninth street, uninjured. He said he had never seen Di Giovanni before, but knew Eorno, a boot-black, and thought it was a shame to arrest him, as he was not in the fight.

Di Giovanni has been in this city a week, coming from New York. Retocco exonerated him also. He, too, is a patient at the Methodist Hospital. Both Di Giovanni and Eorno told the police they had been to motion picture shows, and were on their way home when arrested.

Street Sergeant Black and Patrolman Bradley and Bowman, of the Tenth and Dickinson streets station, were standing at Tenth and Tasker streets at 3:30 o'clock this morning when they heard shots. Pedestrians directed them to Tenth and Hoffman streets. Near there they saw Di Giovanni and Eorno running, one north, the other south. The man heading toward the patrolmen turned and ran east. Sergeant

WOMEN ASK VOICE IN SLATE-MAKING

Mrs. Warburton Warns Male Leaders New Voters Must Not Be Ignored

Interest is Growing Women voters of Pennsylvania are preparing to demand a share in the making of a May primary slate and are uniting in opposition to hand-picked machine candidates.

A sharp warning of the feminine voters' attitude and interest and the declaration that it would not be wise to ignore the women were given today by Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, vice chairman of the Republican State Committee.

Mrs. Warburton already has expressed her views forcibly in letters to Governor Sprout, United States Senator Crow and W. Harry Baker, secretary of the State Committee. She disclosed these rapidly weakening interest among women was placed before leaders last November and that now some action is imperative.

Interest is Growing "We find there is a great movement among the women all over the State to inform themselves of the character of the candidates for the coming election," Mrs. Warburton said.

"We have positive proof of this in the numerous letters which have been received at headquarters and also from the reports of our organizer, Mrs. E. E. Melick, who has toured several of the important counties."

"Furthermore, the Democratic women and the League of Women Voters, and other women's organizations which have a responsible following are interested in securing information as to the plans of the leaders of the State for the coming primaries."

This matter was brought to the attention of the leaders of the party at far back as the first week in November. The primaries are rapidly approaching and there is a large woman vote in the State which it would not be wise to ignore."

Hold Balance of Power There are 875,000 women voters in the State and their fusion would form a balance of power that could upset any slate dictated by "bosses" who sought out candidates not favored by the new electors.

One of the big cards up the sleeves of women leaders is a plan for calling a State convention of women in the near future unless the party leaders quickly show a disposition to fully recognize the women.

Senator Vane has been sounding sentiment among the women and is trying to win his seat accordingly. Yesterday he said the organization intends to recognize the women in this city and today he amplified his remarks.

"The women have not been treated right all along the line," he stated. "So far as I am concerned here in Philadelphia they will be treated right. The women have the vote the same as the men, and they are entitled to just as much recognition as the men."

Mrs. Miller Also Warns Mrs. John O. Miller, chairman of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, has sent an appeal to men and women voters asking them not to permit party bosses to gain control of the political affairs of the State.

"I need not direct attention to the supreme importance of the approaching primaries," said Mrs. Miller, "for if ever there was a time when every thinking, independent man and woman voter in Pennsylvania should be registered it is now. This is the time."

"Pennsylvania is about to enter on a new, an entirely new political era. The result of the May primaries will determine, to a large extent, the leadership of both the Republican and Democratic Parties. The great and ruling problem which must be solved is to see to it that this leadership is alert, progressive, honest, sincere and wholly devoted to the welfare of the people and the State."

"This leadership cannot be had by sitting idly by while machine bosses set up states and fix up things in their own interest. It can only be had by registering and then voting in accordance with conviction. And, furthermore, it can only be had by the great array of independent men and women working together harmoniously for the common end, the securing of a thoroughly representative leadership."

Leadership at Stake "By reason of certain important changes in the Republican State organization, for example, the leadership in that organization is at stake. Shall it

Black chased him over Hoffman street to Ninth, and arrested him near 2335 South Ninth street. He was Di Giovanni. When Sergeant Black drove near the fugitive, arrested he was drunk. He said he lived at 2035 South Ninth street, which is Eorno's address. He had his hand in his pocket. The sergeant found a revolver there containing three discharged and two full cartridges. Taking him to the station house, the sergeant saw blood on his clothing and sent him to the hospital. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

A post-mortem judged Retocco home. He told his wife he was shot and asked her to get a doctor. Meanwhile, understanding and going to bed. Surgeons later pronounced at his vitality. The wife could not find a doctor and told Patrolman Copeland, who called the patrol.

Those arrested are Antonio Di Giovanni, 1130 Emily street, who is shot in the leg, and Antonio Eorno, of 2035 South Ninth street, uninjured. He said he had never seen Di Giovanni before, but knew Eorno, a boot-black, and thought it was a shame to arrest him, as he was not in the fight.

Di Giovanni has been in this city a week, coming from New York. Retocco exonerated him also. He, too, is a patient at the Methodist Hospital. Both Di Giovanni and Eorno told the police they had been to motion picture shows, and were on their way home when arrested.

Street Sergeant Black and Patrolman Bradley and Bowman, of the Tenth and Dickinson streets station, were standing at Tenth and Tasker streets at 3:30 o'clock this morning when they heard shots. Pedestrians directed them to Tenth and Hoffman streets. Near there they saw Di Giovanni and Eorno running, one north, the other south. The man heading toward the patrolmen turned and ran east. Sergeant

PRIESTS TO ESCORT CARDINAL TO SHIP

Special Train Will Take Party to New York When Prelate Starts for Rome

Will Arrive on Friday Bishop Crane, monsignori and priests, with prominent Philadelphia laymen, will go to New York in a special car Saturday morning with Cardinal Dougherty when he leaves for his trip to Rome, to attend the consistory which will choose a new Pope.

The special car will be attached to the New York express which leaves Broad Street Station at 8 o'clock in the morning.

The monsignori and priests who accompanied Cardinal Dougherty to Rome when he went there to be elevated to the Sacred College, will be in the party going to New York. The laymen who will see the Cardinal off will be former Senator John Coyle, Dr. William Long and Dr. John Gallagher. All three accompanied him to Rome on the former occasion, and were made Papal Chamberlains by the Pope.

The composition of the party which will accompany the Cardinal to Rome has not been determined, and will not be until he returns to Philadelphia, probably Friday. The following is planned for him to sail on La Lorraine. Every priest in the Catholic archdiocese of Philadelphia has been requested to give Divine assistance in the selection of a successor to Pope Benedict. This request was made in a letter to rectors of churches from Bishop Crane.

The consistory at Rome, at which the Pope will be elected, will open February 2.

The Pope will be held in honor of the Pope tomorrow in several churches. Probably the most impressive service in honor of the memory of the late Pope will be held at the Cathedral tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, when solemn pontifical Mass will be celebrated by Bishop Crane. Monsignor Fitzmaurice, rector of St. Charles' Seminary, Overbrook, will be the assistant. Monsignor Henry T. Drumgoole, D. D., rector of St. Gregory's Church, will be deacon of the Mass, and Monsignor Daniel J. Gercke, rector of the Cathedral, will be sub-deacon. The music of the Mass will be rendered by the combined priests' and students' choirs.

Rev. Joseph A. Whitaker, chancellor, will deliver a panegyric on Pope Benedict.

There will be five absolutions given in the office of the pontiff as Bishop of Rome. The following will officiate in the order named: Bishop Crane, Monsignor Nevin F. Fiesler, rector general and rector of Our Mother of Sorrows' Church; Monsignor James P. Turner, prothonotary apostolic rector of the Church of the Nativity; Monsignor Peter Masson, vicar foreign and rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Allentown, and Monsignor James P. Sinnott, rector of the Church of St. Charles Borromeo.

WOMAN FAILS TO REFORM FORGER OUT ON PAROLE

Sent Back to Jail for New Term and Rest of Old One Harry Elwood Campbell, who won sympathy of a young woman church member while he was in the State Penitentiary, was sentenced to twelve to fifteen months imprisonment today following his conviction for forgery.

Harry Elwood Campbell, who had been released on parole after serving three years of a ten-year sentence for forgery, he posed as a reformed wrongdoer and introduced him to her friends. One man, brought Campbell to his bank, where the paroled convict opened an account.

When bogus check charges began accumulating against him once more detectives tried to learn his whereabouts from the young woman. She said she didn't seem him for several weeks. Later she trailed her and found her talking with Campbell at Third and Arch streets.

Besides the sentence imposed today by Judge McCann, in Quarter Sessions court No. 1, Campbell must serve seven years, the remainder of his other term.

TRUCK DRIVER ROBBED

Dragged From Machine by Five Bandits Albert S. Jones, 2755 Frankford avenue, driver for the Clare Food and Lela Company, was dragged from his motor truck last night by five automobile bandits near the center and robbed of $30. Jones reported the hold-up to the Chester police. He said the men were armed. According to him, the bandits drove their machine alongside his truck while he was driving at a rapid rate