Coach Mueller Says Southern High Five Positively Will Not Compete in Penn Basketball Tourney

GOULD AND WEAR RACQUETS WINNERS

Local Pair Advances in Title Tourney by Defeating Cutler and Morgan

THREE STRAIGHT GAMES

Philadelphia's main hopes in the national racquets doub'es championship stepped on the court this morning at the Racquet Club and brushed off Hewitt Morgan and Roger Cutler, of Boston, in straight games.

The pair on which this city depends mainly for any share in the racquets honors are Jay Gould, court tennis titleholder, and Joseph W. Wear, the chairman of the committee in charge of the tournament. This duo showed good form in blotting out Morgan and Cutler, 15-7, 18-14 and 15-10.

Gould and Wear now are in the second round. The tourney will continue tomorrow and Saturday.

The first game was comparatively easy for the Philadelphians. Gould's smashing service and splendid "gets", together with Wear's all-around playing were too much for the Bostonians.

Second Game Close

In the second game the Hub City duo rallied and had an excellent chance to force the match into extra games when they led at 12-8. Gould and Wear braced at this point and scored five points while Cutler and Morgan were getting one. This made it all even at thirteen and a set of five points was called to decide the game. The local pair won five to one for the visitors and the game ended, 18-14. The Boston athletes continued their good playing in the third game, but Gould and Wear ran out, 15-10.

Gould and Wear are favorites to go to the final round, in which they probably will meet C. C. Pell and Stanley Mortimer, of New York, who hold the doubles title. Pell is the national singles champion. Pell and Mortimer are naturally the leading pair in the tournament, but the experts figure that Gould and Wear have a chance to upset the Gotham stars.

Western Pair Entered

There are a number of other fast combinations in the tournament, however. Bob Gardner, twice amateur golf champion of America and a famous pole vaulter when at Yale, is entered in the tourney from Chicago with Howard Linn as his partner. Gardner has developed into a very smart racquets handler, and the lone Western pair is expected to prove a real barrier.

They played in the feature match this afternoon when they met the champions, Pell and Mortimer. This match started 2:30. Pell and Mortimer will thus have a severe workout in their initial match, and if the Chicago pair show the improvement expected it may be there'll be an upset, though this is regarded as highly improbable.

Besides the Gould-Wear combination two other local teams are in the tournament. Stanley W. Pearson and Charles Bromley are paired and played under the city's colors against E. Frelinghuysen and M. Hecksher, of New York, this afternoon. Pearson, in particular, is expected to prove one of the individual stars, if such a thing is possible, of the championship.

ST. JOE IN CLOSE LEAGUE WINS OVER SALESIANUM

Score Third Consecutive Victory, Beating Wilmington Five, 20-16

St. Joseph Prep copped its third consecutive Catholic League tilt by defeating the Salesianum High five, of Wilmington, in a closely contested game yesterday afternoon by the score of 20 to 16. The contest was played in the St. Joseph Gym.

The Crimson and Gray took the lead shortly after the start, and were never headed. At half time they were on the long end of a 12-7 score.

Late in the final half, with the locals holding a 19-7 lead, the Wilmington athletes got busy and displayed an attack which completely surprised the winners and scored three two-pointers in quick succession, and these, mixed in with two fouls, brought the score to 19 to 15.

However, there were only two minutes of play left, and the locals froze the ball, and the best the visitors could get in the final minutes was a foul goal.

PENN-NAVY SWIM OFF

So Many Members Ill That Saturday's Match Is Canceled

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 26.—So many members of the Naval Academy swimming team are suffering from light attacks of the prevalent influenza, that it has been necessary to ask the University of Pennsylvania to postpone the match which was to take place here Saturday. The Quakers have agreed.

The Naval Academy will probably send both its swimming and water polo teams to Philadelphia later to meet Pennsylvania.

The only athletic event here on Saturday will be the wrestling match between the Naval Academy and Brooklyn Polytechnic, opening the local season in that line. The Navy basketball team will play the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia the same day.

May Revive Minor League Series

Los Angeles, Jan. 26.—Revival of the minor world series between champions of the Pacific Coast Baseball League and the American Association is proposed by H. Smith, owner of the Indianapolis Club of the latter organization, who is here. He said he saw no making the series an annual event and would take the matter up with President Hickey when he returned to Indianapolis.

Leach Cross Returns to Dentistry

Los Angeles, Jan. 26.—Leach Cross, veteran lightweight who quit the ring for dentistry, in which profession he is known as Dr. Lester C. Wallach, his own name, and who recently temporarily quit dentistry to stage a "comeback" in the ring, has again returned to dentistry here.

THOMAS S. SHIBE ELECTED PRESIDENT OF ATHLETICS

Succeeds Late Father as Head of Baseball Club

Thomas S. Shibe, at a special meeting of the stockholders of the Athletics yesterday afternoon, was elected president of the local American League Baseball Club. He succeeds his father, the late Banjamin F. Shibe.

The new head of the Athletics was vice president of the Athletics before the death of his father. He had been acting as president of the team ever since his father's advanced age and illness prevented him from taking an active part in the club's affairs.

John D. Shibe, brother of the new president, was elected to fill the vice presidency left by Thomas S. Shibe. He has been secretary of the club for a number of years, and now will hold a dual role. Connie Mack, of course, will continue to manage the team.

WRESTLING BY ROUNDS MEETS FANS' APPROVAL

Johnny Meyers Retains Middleweight Title In First Bout Under New Rules

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Chicago sport followers today analyzed the first American wrestling match held under rules providing for rounds, following the contest last night in which Johnny Meyers retained the middleweight wrestling championship by throwing John Kilonis in the fourth round.

The 6000 fans who witnessed the bout apparently approved of the methods of conducting the match and newspaper comment today was favorable.

There was much of the contest that recalled a boxing bout. Seconds were parked in the contestants' corners and they pushed stools through the ropes at the end of each ten-minute round, produced towels and wielded sponges with the same alacrity that characterizes the activities of the principals' assistants in a fistic encounter.

A new way of writing a story of a wrestling match also came into vogue when the morning papers described the contest "by rounds."

CLEVER BOXERS MATCHED

Salvadore and Donnelly to Meet at National Saturday

A brace of lightweights schooled in the scientific way of using their fists will collide in the wind-up of the program arranged by Promoter Al Wagner at the National A. A. Saturday night. They are Phil Savadore, of California, and Johnny Donnelly, of Uniontown, Pa.

Salvadore made a big hit last week at the National, and immediately after his match with Whitey Fitzgerald was re-signed. Donnelly, who is another lad who has boxed in brilliant form here, readily agreed to take on Salvadore.

The welterweight championship of Pennsylvania will be decided in the semi-final when Joe Jackson takes on Jimmy Gibbons.

Another setto that will decide a title, the featherweight crown of Philadelphia, will be between Al Wagner and Kid Wagner. George Chip clashes with Young Mahoney in a return bout and Johnny Mayo opens the show with Ty Cobb.

WARNER TO STAY AT PITT

Panther Tutor Will Not Consider Stanford Offer

Los Angeles, Jan. 26.—Glenn Warner, football coach of the University of Pittsburgh, will remain at that institution for the next two years, he said here when asked about negotiations toward obtaining his services reported from Stanford University. He said he could not go further into the Stanford situation at this time.

He stated he believed "Lone Star" Dietz, football coach at Purdue, charged with having offered Northwest High School athletes financial assistance if they entered that institution, "is now, and for some time has been, the victim of persecution."

Warner made public the following telegram he said he had received from Dietz:

"A gross injustice has been done me. I have demanded complete investigation of the charges, which will be forthcoming." Dietz was first Warner's protege and later his assistant coach at Carlisle.

WENONAH CADETS WIN

Moorestown High Five Drops Fast Court Game, 27-23

Wenonah Military Academy won a fast basketball game from Moorestown High School, on the former's court at Wenonah, N. J., yesterday afternoon. The final score was 27 to 23.

The game was fast throughout, neither team having much of an advantage at any time. Both teams played a great brand of basketball in the first half, and the figures read 15 all at the end of the first twenty minutes.

In the second period, however, Wenonah started to pull away and never was headed. Rechelderfer starred for the cadets with a quartet of field goals and nine out of twelve foul goals. Captain Brodie was the most brilliant performer on the visiting team, netting a quartet of field goals and making nine out of nineteen free tosses count.

California to Invite Big Ten Team

Berkeley, Calif., Jan. 26.—Efforts are being made to arrange a track meet here April 8 between the University of California and a Big Ten team. It is believed Illinois, Michigan or Wisconsin will be invited. Last year California defeated Michigan here and two years ago Illinois was beaten.

PENN FRESH SHOW SPEED IN TRYOUTS

Hayes, of Williamsport, Does 440 in 55 2-5s. on Outdoor Track Under Poor Conditions

OTHER TIMES EXCELLENT

THAT Coach Lawson Robertson, of the University of Pennsylvania track team, is going to have an exceptional squad of middle distance runners for the next three years, was demonstrated yesterday afternoon on the outdoor board track on Franklin Field, when the tutor held tryouts for the freshman one-mile relay team for the Erasmus Hall meet Saturday night.

Robbie sent his squad of quarter-milers through a time test yesterday that showed several remarkable quarter-milers among the first-year men. Conditions were anything but good for excellent times, yet the yearlings skimmed around the boards with all the speed of a June afternoon.

Most of the athletes were bundled in heavy jerseys and long trunks to keep out the wintry blasts that swept across the track and made inactivity costly to extremities. A stiff wind that blew against the runners hindered them particularly on the turns, yet the first-year men skimmed around as though nary an impediment was in their way. The weather conditions yesterday were slightly worse than they were on Monday, when the varsity men ran in their trials for the Brooklyn college games.

Hayes a Speed King

Jimmy Hayes, one of the best middle distance runners ever turned out by Williamsport High, proved the dark horse yesterday. The up-State youngster shot around the two and a half laps to the quarter track in 55 2-5 seconds. Previous to yesterday Hayes was virtually unknown, but his running makes him an excellent prospect for the varsity next year. In addition to running the quarter Hayes is also capable in the half.

Sam Kerr, interscholastic champion of the Mountain States in the West and former Utah Prep student, finished second in the time trials to Hayes. Kerr finished the quarter in 55 3-5 seconds. Kerr is speedy in the quarter, half and mile runs.

Following Kerr in the time trials came Fisher, former interscholastic cross-country champion and half-mile titleholder in Northern New Jersey. He finished in 55 4-5. Fisher formerly ran for Newark Central, famed for its middle and long distance stars.

Hy Jensen, a member of the Cedar Rapids High School two-mile relay team, which captured the interscholastic championship last year and broke the schoolboy record, was the fourth man to be selected for the team. His time was 56 seconds flat. Eddie Mitchell, formerly of Northeast High, who finished in 56 2-5 seconds, was the fifth man. He will act as a substitute.

In addition to those already mentioned the following made excellent times: Stredter, formerly of Hartford High, Connecticut, and Connecticut half-mile schoolboy champion, with 57 1-5 seconds; George Keogh, brother of the freshman football coach, 57 4-5; Peak, 58 seconds; McLane, the freshman intercollegiate cross-country champion, 58 1-5; Spiere, 59 1-5, and Murphy, 61.

McLane and Jole Ray

McLane, who hails from Oklahoma, where he set that district afire with his sensational running in the mile and over cross-country courses, will probably be entered by Penn in the one-and-one-half-mile championship race in the Mirose games next Wednesday night. Jole Ray, the brilliant distance runner from Chicago, is entered in this event. McLane should give the veteran a keen battle, as the Oklahoman is in excellent shape.

George Kistler, coach of the Red and Blue swimming team, yesterday received word from Annapolis that the Middies would be unable to meet the Penn mermen there Saturday afternoon. A report reached Kistler yesterday that the meet had been semi-officially called off. He wired immediately and received confirmation of the report.

No future date was set for the meet, Kistler leaving that up to the authorities at the Academy. According to the manager of the Middies' team, several of the star swimmers on the squad are ill in the infirmary and their secondary material not being strong enough he asked that Penn postpone the meet until later.

The postponement was a keen disappointment to the Red and Blue team, which is in excellent shape and ready to prove to the Middies that they have a harder task on their hands this season than last to defeat the Red and Blue mermen. The great battle Penn gave the championship Yale team two weeks ago has filled the team with enthusiasm, and they expect to go through the remainder of the season without a reverse.

Chase Fresh Captain

Paul E. Chase, one of the stars of the freshman team, was yesterday elected as captain of the yearlings for the season. Chase last year won the 220-yard swim in the interscholastics and was rated as one of the best schoolboy swimmers in the East. He entered the Wharton School at the University from the Brooklyn Polytechnic School.

Five additional schools yesterday entered the interscholastic basketball tournament that starts in Weightman Hall on February 18, and continues three weeks. This brings the total number of institutions from six different States up to sixty-one, probably the largest entry list of any interscholastic tourney held in the country or at least in this section.

La Salle Prep was the last of the local schools to enter the tournament. Their list was sent in yesterday, bringing the number of prep teams up to eighteen. Last year the total number of schools, both high and prep in the meet was thirty-five, one less than half as many prep schools as are entered this season.

TO TRY FOR RECORD

Girard Swimmers Will Attempt to Break Relay Mark

Central High School will oppose Girard College in a dual swim meet this afternoon. The meet, which was postponed from yesterday afternoon, will take place in the Collegians' tank.

Girard is favored to cop the decision over the Mirrors. The Collegians have always been brilliant performers in the water, and showed well in the recent interscholastics which took place at the University of Pennsylvania. Central, however, has not been defeated to date, and will give the Garnet and Gray a hard tussle.

The feature will be the attempt of the Girard relay team to break the American record set by Mercersburg on Saturday.

TUNNEY VS. GEORGES IS ROLLICKING TID-BIT

Match Between These Champion Light-Heavies Looks Like Thriller, With Carpentier Favorite in Preliminary Data

By GRANTLAND RICE

Tunney vs. Carpentier

The sky-blue uniform of France,
The khaki of your Uncle Sam,
What more can one ask from romance
Within the game of sock and slam!

While Dempsey broods within his den,
Yes, like a chicken with the pip,
The loneliest of fighting men
With nothing left for him to whip.

WITH Gene Tunney, light heavyweight champion of the United States, and Carpentier, light heavyweight champion of the world, the rest of it had to be inevitable.

Of all the matches now in sight, this looks to be the best from the viewpoint of general interest and impassioned thrills. The fact that both are crown wearers in the same weight division means a big start, and the fact that both served in France won't hurt while the preliminary hip-hip is being served.

France Favored

THE advance odds appear to be Carpentier's. He had Levinsky picking poppy blossoms inside of four rounds while Tunney needed twelve to get the verdict. The Battler, however, was in better shape for Tunney than he was for Carpentier and Tunney seems to be moving right along.

Carpentier is faster, knows more about boxing and can hit harder.

But for all that he will find the mauling mandarin of Greenwich Village on top of the job most of the polite evening, ready to give and take a lot.

These two should bring about quite an occasion as such things go in the fashionable fistic circles of the day and time.

The Younger Generation

"LET the authorities in charge correct any abuses, but don't let them abolish football," writes L. L. E.

"Not long ago I was at a certain winter resort for winter sports. It was during the vacation season. There were a lot of college men around. But I noticed after a heavy snow and a drop in temperature it was mainly the older men from thirty to forty with their wives who were out next day with ski or toboggan or snowshoes. The swing of the pendulum is liable to bring on a soft age after the roughness of war. And softness isn't going to help any one. Football is badly needed to help correct evils that can be a lot worse than any type of football."

IT WOULD be a confession of weakness in high places to abolish a good game that can be directed into proper channels. So this will hardly take place, although loud murmurs were beginning to arise a short while back. It isn't always necessary to kill in order to cure.

And So It Goes

"WHY is it that Vincent Richards and Bobby Jones, with their unusual ability, have never gotten any further?" a curious bystander asks.

We had an idea that for a brace of youngsters still this side of twenty both had gone a long way.

How many older men in either game have gone as far? It is true enough that neither has yet won a national championship of the highest ranking value.

But how many tennis or golf players have before reaching twenty?

Apparently, no matter how far certain stars may go, it is never quite as far as many believe they should have traveled uphill.

FOR example, in this competitive field, Jack Graham, one of Great Britain's greatest golfers, never reached the final round of amateur championship. Last May at Hoylake his brother Allan got in the final. Yet Allan Graham was never within three or four strokes of his older brother. Where Jack Graham, playing fine golf, had been beaten, Allan was able to slip through when in at least one or two matches he was scoring close to 90.

THERE are a few champions who have outstanding class, such as Dempsey, Leonard, Jay Gould, "Babe" Ruth, Ty Cobb or possibly Tilden and Paddock. One championship, especially where the test runs but a week, is rarely convincing. No one could say at the end of the season last fall whether Hutchinson, Barnes or Hagen was the finest golfer. Or whether Guilford, Evans, Hunter, Ouimet or Jones occupied any well guarded place on top of the lone peak.

REBELS AT STRAIN OF PENN TOURNEY

Coach Mueller Fears Strenuous Games May Burn Out Southern's Youthful Champions

WOULD OPPOSE WINNER

By PAUL PREP

THE fear of burning out his youthful basketball proteges before they have reached the height of their athletic prowess is the reason given by Coach Mueller, of South Philadelphia High School, for refusing to permit the Interscholastic League champion to enter the Penn tournament which will start February 18.

The decision of Coach Mueller was reached after a conference with the other directors making up the athletic council of the downtown institution. Members of the team are in favor of the tournament, but even the popular demand that the Public High School League champion be represented in the tourney is not forceful enough to move the Red and Black tutor.

"The strain imposed on the boys playing in the Penn tourney," said Coach Mueller, "is entirely too severe. On some occasions the boys are forced to play three games in succession, and that's entirely too much. A group of youngsters in high school should not be forced to play hard games in a short period; it hurts them too much.

Don't Overwork Boys

"While I personally would like to enter the tournament, as would the boys, the Southern team will not appear, and that's final. I would agree to the boys playing in the tourney if there was a period of, say, two days or so between each game. But with the present arrangements Southern will not enter the competition.

"It never has been the policy of Southern High to overwork any of the boys on its athletic teams. And it never will be. We want our boys to go away from the school without having been burned out, and don't give them too much hard work.

"I have heard people say that we're afraid of being beaten, that we have everything to lose and nothing to gain. That's untrue. Last year we didn't win the Interscholastic League championship, and we didn't enter the Penn tournament.

Passaic Game

"Southern High School is willing to meet any scholastic basketball team in the country anywhere. We bar none. We have been trying to make arrangements with Passaic High School, champion of New Jersey, and there is a probability that the game will go through. We will try to play on our own floor, but the chances are that the game will go to the Jersey team's court.

"In regard to the ruling of the Supervisory Committee on Athletics of the Philadelphia Public High Schools, I would like to say that while the rule reads that a team may not travel over fifty-miles, it also provides that with special permission teams may leave the city and travel any distance. We play both Lancaster High and Atlantic City High, and both of them are over fifty miles away."

Three members of Southern's quintet were seen shortly after the interview with Coach Mueller. All of them seemed very anxious to enter the Penn tournament. However, they did not seem anxious to go against their tutor's wishes.

Entry Expected

It is a severe blow to scholastic followers of this city who had been banking on the downtowners entering the tourney. They feel that with the champions of virtually every State in the East entered, the Philadelphia titleholder should be among those present also.

Every man has his own opinion, and Coach Mueller should not be condemned for doing what he thinks is right. In keeping his team out of the Penn tournament, Coach Mueller may be making a wise move, and he may not. But, at the same time, he's the one to decide.

101 Points for Passaic in Defeating Ridgewood

Passaic, N. J., Jan. 26.—The Passaic High School basketball team defeated Ridgewood High School in a northern New Jersey interscholastic league game, 101 to 12, making their seventieth consecutive victory and breaking two league records. This is the first time in the league's history that the century scoring mark has been reached. Thompson scored twenty-four field and fifteen foul goals for sixty-three points, breaking his own league mark of fifty-one. In fourteen games this season Passaic has passed the century five times and scored a total of 1124 points.

LANDIS FINES PHILS $200

Local Club Must Pay for Secret Agreement With Greasy Neale

Chicago, Jan. 26.—The Philadelphia Club of the National League has been fined $200 by Judge K. M. Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, for entering into a secret agreement with Outfielder Earle Neale, who had presented a claim for $600 as back salary due him. The claim was allowed, but Neale himself was fined $100 because of the secret agreement.

When Neale signed with Philadelphia last spring a secret agreement was made, in which it was stipulated that Neale would be paid at the end of the baseball season. Subsequently, however, Neale was released to Cincinnati, and the existence of the secret agreement did not become known to the Cincinnati officials until a month later, Neale reported.

The Cincinnati Club declined to pay Neale for the entire season, but he was paid for the period he remained with the club. Neale appealed to Judge Landis to settle the dispute, and produced the secret agreement as evidence.

McWHIRTER LEADS SKATERS

More Than Forty Entries for Three-Mile Race Today

Plattsburg, N. Y., Jan. 26.—More than forty skaters are expected to be at the starting line late today when the signal is given for the beginning of the senior three-mile race which will conclude the national amateur outdoor skating championship events here.

Roy McWhirter, of Chicago, who now is leading Charles Jewtraw, of Lake Placid, by ten points in the three-day meet; Richard Donovan, of St. Paul, and Harry Kasky, of Chicago, are expected to be close contenders for the long-distance match. The other senior event will be the one-half mile match.

"The Hardest Battle of My Ring Career"

Weakened Making Weight, Bryan Downey Found Himself in His Toughest Tilt

BOXED AT 126 1-2

By BRYAN DOWNEY

MAKING weight when a featherweight was the cause of the hardest battle in which I have ever engaged. And it was against a lad whom I had had no trouble at all in outboxing in the gymnasium.

BRYAN DOWNEY

In February of 1917 I was doing some light work in my dad's gym, which we had rigged up in our carpet shop. A telephone message invited me over to Harry Sully's Columbus Gym, so I hiked there, and after playing a game of handball I was introduced to Jack Ryan, who, by the way, handled Jimmy Dunn, my present manager, when the latter was in the ring.

Jack had a youngster, Joe Dailey, with whom I was to box. We squared away and I had no trouble with him. The next day we put on the gloves again and once more I gave Dailey a boxing lesson.

About a week after that Ryan suggested a match between Dailey and myself. Dad agreed to the bout at 128 pounds at 2 o'clock, and forfeits of $300 were posted for weight. I thought it would be easy to come in under that avoirdupois, but for some reason or other it worried me.

On the day of the bout I weighed in at 126½, but worried more about the poundage than the contest itself. The bout was held at the Chamber of Commerce Hall, at Columbus, February 17, 1917.

At the bell I rushed after Dailey, caught him on the chin with a right swing and he went down. He took nine. I tried to get under way again, but there was something wrong. I don't know what it was, but my arms were hanging heavily. And Dailey began pummeling me for fair.

Dailey hit me with every conceivable punch. The crowd was up on its feet, roaring for a knockout. Dad advised, "Go in and finish him! What's the matter with you?" I tried to punch as I have never tried in my life, but it was no use. I was on the receiving end, and what a lambasting I got!

Round after round Dailey walloped me good, hard and aplenty. I was a regular punching bag. However, I managed to connect with another swing which turned the tide of battle, and again the fans raved for a knockout. Again I was unable to follow him up, and he peppered me with punches from every and any angle. I thought every man in the house had on a boxing glove taking a sock at me.

I regained a little of my strength along about the eleventh round, and was able to score with some punches. We swapped blow for blow. In the twelfth, though, Dailey again got the upper hand, and he smashed me from pillar to post and rope to rope.

It was a good thing for me that the match was scheduled only for twelve rounds, and, even though I was handed a pretty nifty licking, the bout went down into the record books as a no-decision affair.

Mike McTigue will tell of his hardest battle of his ring career in Saturday's edition of the Evening Public Ledger.

Football Only Lafayette Sport to Show Profit

Easton, Pa., Jan. 26.—Football was the only Lafayette College sport that made money during the year July 1920-July 1921, according to the athletic account made public here. The report shows that the football team made a profit of more than $15,000. The profit made by the football team was used to help defray the deficit of other sports. The championship baseball team lost $1396.73; the outdoor track team, $2495.02; the basketball team, $2018.80; soccer, $339.12; cross-country, $559.44; tennis, $615.70; and the upkeep of March Field was $8023.05.

Barnes and Hutchison Win

Los Angeles, Jan. 26.—Jim Barnes, American and California open golf champion, and Jock Hutchison, British open champion, won two exhibition matches here yesterday. In the morning they defeated Eddie Loos, former State open champion, and Arthur Clarkson, professional of the Ambassador Hotel course, 1 up, and in the afternoon won from Dr. Paul M. Hunter, California amateur champion, and Everett H. Sawyer, president of the California Golf Association 6 and 5.

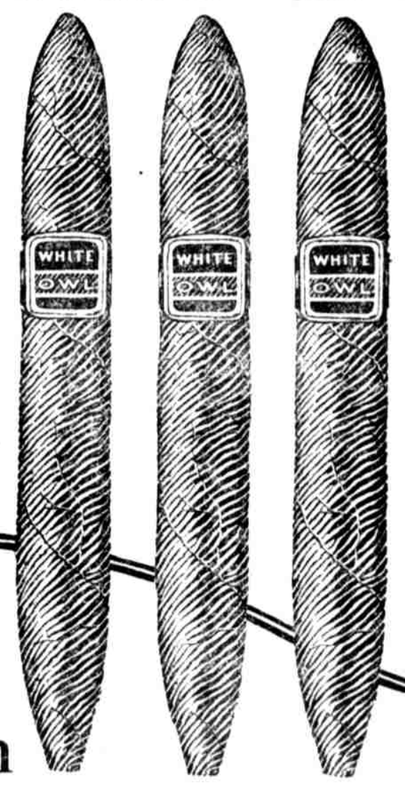
Box of 50: $4.00



An Explanation
about today's values in cigars

WE sincerely doubt if any 3 for 25c cigar today offers you the downright value which you will find in White Owl.

Let us explain why.

When White Owl gave promise of becoming one of the most popular cigars we deliberately planned to make it the biggest seller in the country.

In addition to using tobacco of excellent quality, we reduced the manufacturing margin of profit to the lowest percentage we have ever received on a 3 for 25c cigar. Smokers began to realize that there was no other cigar at the price which offered such quality and satisfaction.

Result: White Owl is today the largest-selling cigar in nearly every city of importance in the country.
