

KNICKERBOCKER THEATRE AND ITS SURROUNDINGS. The photograph was made early yesterday, while the search for bodies was still in progress. Five army ambulances can be seen at the theatre, while anxious Washington folk stand back of the line guarded by soldiers and police.

THE RESCUERS AT WORK. Police and firemen of Washington, soldiers, marines and sailors working side by side, in the wreckage of the Knickerbocker Theatre, as the last bodies are removed.

CAN YOU RECALL THIS BIT OF OLD PHILADELPHIA?

ONE OF PHILADELPHIA'S OLD-TIME HOTELS. The Ferry Hotel, at the southwest corner of Delaware avenue and South street, as it looked in 1885. The Franklin Sugar Refinery now occupies this site. Have you an old-Philadelphia photograph? Send it to the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER.

SLEDDING IN CLARK'S PARK. West Philadelphia boys and girls were out early yesterday morning to enjoy the snow-covered slopes. In the group at the right are Florence Fenner, Jenne Fenner and Rae Battin.

MARRIED IN WASHINGTON. She is now Mrs. John Sherman McCallum. The bride was formerly the Countess Rosita de Texa de Valdeosara, of Spain.

"WE'LL BE MARRIED IN APRIL." That's what Miss Mary Baker, of Chicago, said in Los Angeles, when asked about her fiancé, Allister McCormick.

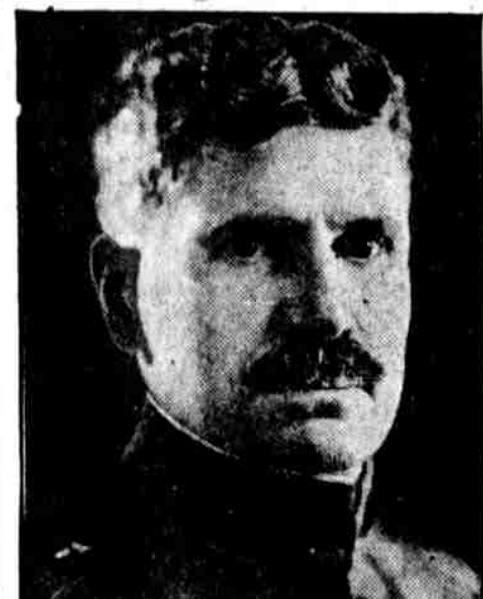

DORIS BENSON. One of the three women Charles Garland would have live on "April Farm".

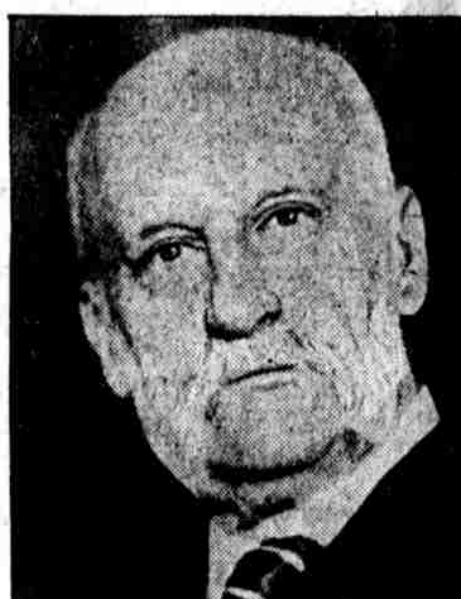

DOVITA DE SAGO, as a Spanish dancing girl, at artists' ball in New York.

FROLICKING IN THE SNOW. Girls of a school at Tarrytown, New York, in polar bear suits.

BRIG. GEN. AMOS A. FRIES, who defended the use of gas in war.

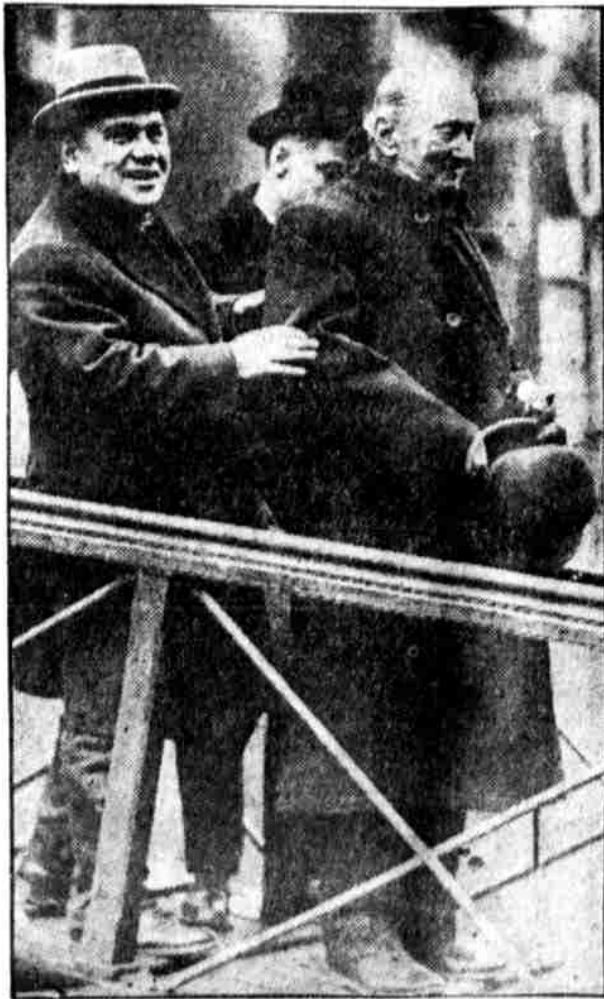

WILLIAM R. TUCKER talks of American shipping in an Editorial Page interview.

OUR CITY'S WORKERS AND WHAT THEY DO

MISS E. E. KELLY, 1239 West Harold street (right), filling tubes with tooth paste, in the factory of the Wrigley Pharmaceutical Co., 311 North Randolph street. Miss Alice Wheeler, of Camden, takes filled tubes to packing room.

GOING TO ROME. Cardinal Begin, of Canada (right), boarding La Lorraine, in New York.

THE PRESIDENT'S TAILOR. Paul Gettum, of Toledo, Ohio, wanted to see Washington.

STANLEY G. BACKENSTOSS (left), president, and Harry W. Keeny, secretary, of the Harrisburg Real Estate Board. They were photographed in their home town.

BUSY PHILADELPHIANS

ALLEN W. KREST, secretary-treasurer of the East Falls Bank and Trust Co. He is married and lives in Oak Lane. Bowling is his hobby.