J. L. GIVEN, BUILDER OF CHURCHES, DIES

Was Also Famous as Hunter of Big Game Throughout Country

HAS INTERESTING HISTORY

JOSHUA L. GIVEN

Joshua L. Given, builder of many churches in Philadelphia and throughout Pennsylvania and a big game hunter up to the time he was eighty-six years old, died last Saturday in his eighty-seventh year at the home of his son, Dr. Ellis E. W. Given, 2714 Columbia avenue. He will be buried Saturday.

Few men have a more interesting past than Mr. Given, and few have extended their activities over so long a period. In his hunting trips he was able to tire younger men who seemed more rugged, and he retained his building activities long after most men of his age retire.

Mr. Given, in building, devoted most of his attention to the construction of churches. In this, he made business a pastime.

"Some men," he once said, "build great monuments for themselves. I want my monument to be the churches I build—structures to which people may go and find solace and betterment."

Mr. Given was born January 13, 1830, at Andrew's Bridge, Pa. His father, William Given, was a member of a pioneer Pennsylvania family. His mother, Mary Elizabeth Given, was descended from the Randolphs of Virginia.

In his youth Mr. Given wanted to go to West Point Military Academy. His plan was changed, and he took up contracting, in which he was successful from the start.

When the Civil War started he enlisted with the Pennsylvania Engineers and served through the war. After the war he resumed his business as a contractor.

Since that day, Mr. Given's hunting trips extended to almost every part of the North American continent. He was known from Arizona to Oregon. Mr. Given built the Baptist Temple here at Broad and Berks streets, and other important church structures. When the Rev. Dr. Russell H. Conwell, pastor of the Baptist Temple, learned of his death he put aside the sermon he had prepared for the service last Sunday morning and spoke of the life and character of Mr. Given. The two were warm friends.

One of the notable achievements of Mr. Given in church building was the construction of the First Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh.

Mr. Given also built churches in Wilkesburg and in many other cities and towns.

Mr. Given is survived by two children, Dr. Given and Miss S. Ella Given. His wife died about ten years ago.

He was the eldest of eight children. His youngest brother, Henry G. Given, Harrisburg, is reported to be seriously ill and is not expected to live. Another surviving brother is Frank Alonzo Given, Alton, Ill. He is also survived by two sisters, Miss Nancy Given, Oxford, Pa., and Mrs. George Henderson, Missin, Pa.

The remains will be sent to Aglen, Pa., for burial. The churchyard in which Mr. Given's body will rest is opposite the little house in which Mr. Given began his married life. Mrs. Given is already buried there.

There will be services at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning at Mr. Given's home, which will be attended by members of the G. A. R. of Philadelphia. The services will be conducted by Dr. Conwell.

CAMDEN MAN MISSING
Carpenter Started to Work and Hasn't Returned

Thomas Moore, thirty-one, a carpenter, of 1137 South Front street, Camden, has not returned home since Sunday. His wife, Mary, told the police her husband left home early to go to work and has not returned since.

When last seen the missing man was dressed in blue overalls and a gray cap. He is of medium height, slender build and dark complexion.

UNCOMMON SENSE : "The Rich Get Richer"
By JOHN BLAKE

IT IS perfectly true that the rich get richer, provided they employ industry and intelligence. The fact that they seldom do, keeps money in general circulation and prevents the concentration of all the world's wealth into a few hands.

"Zu Geld geht Geld"—to money goes money—said the old shoemaker who left his savings to Rothschild. He felt that the millionaire would get his money in the end, and he would save society a lot of trouble by presenting it to him in the first place.

"Them that has gets," is one way the same sentiment is phrased in America. But because money goes to money, it is nothing to worry about. If money goes to money, thrift and independence become easier when one has made a fair start in life.

THE man who, by saving and sacrifice, has got a few thousand dollars together has earned the right to watch those dollars work for him. If this did not happen there would be no reward in old age for thrift in youth, and misery would be many times multiplied.

Also, if to money goes money, to wisdom goes wisdom. The acquisition of knowledge is far easier to the man who has accumulated a store of it than to him who has none at all.

For example, a man who has grounded in Latin and French can acquire Spanish and Italian with very little trouble. Max Mueller, who spoke and wrote

WIFE CAN'T OUST WORKLESS HUSBY

Mayor of Gloucester So Rules. Advises Them to Let Troubles Melt

THEY GO HOME HAPPY

Can a workless husband be evicted from his own home by his wife? Mr. and Mrs. William Munroe, of Gloucester, N. J., were involved in this question and Mayor Anderson, of Gloucester, was asked to give an immediate decision.

The problem was further complicated by the fact that Munroe owns half the house from which his wife desired to oust him.

While not an expert on Blackstone the chief executive said he didn't believe the unfortunate condition of Munroe was a violation of the statutes.

"He's been out of work since last June," declared Mrs. Munroe, "and there's lots of help-wanted ads in the papers every day."

"That might be true," agreed Munroe, "but they don't fit in with my line. I'm a ship builder and they don't seem to be building many of 'em just now." He also made the prediction in view of the news from Washington that the outlook wasn't especially healthy.

"But that is not all," asserted Mrs. Munroe. "While I'm at work he spends the day setting the children against me. He's giving them a bad example and making things worse. He ought to get out."

And then the Mayor spoke. "You can't have a man arrested for being out of work," he said. "If so the police would be kept busy. Your husband seems to be willing and I think you are a little severe."

Munroe declared that he scrubbed the floor and kept the house clean and made five dollars shoveling snow which money he gave his wife.

"Well," said the Mayor, "look at the things broadly and your troubles will melt away just like the snow." The couple left in somewhat improved mood and Munroe will get another chance to look for work.

BRIDEGROOM'S STRATEGY TOO STRONG FOR DAD
Father Didn't Know of Wedding Till He Got to Church

It takes strategy to have your father a witness at your wedding when he doesn't know it is to take place. This stroke of finesse was successfully perpetrated, however, by Clarence C. Murphy, 213 Piney avenue, Collingdale, when he and Miss Anna Saunders, of this city, were married a few days ago.

The inept groom and his imminent bride were visiting the former's parents in the old homestead at Collingdale. When the time came for Mrs. Saunders to leave for Darby, where she could get a car for Philadelphia, the groom took the opportunity to accompany the pair.

All unsuspecting, he journeyed to Darby with them, and received his first intimation of the approaching nuptials when he was piloted to the All-Saints-Protestant Episcopal Church, Summit avenue.

Here the Rev. C. A. Reichecker was awaiting the bridegroom in accordance with the well-laid plans of the younger Mr. Murphy. The ceremony proceeded at once, the bridegroom's father being too surprised to utter a word.

It was not until the groom went to give a hearty, if feeble, blessing.

VICE RAIDERS NAME POLICE
Sergeant and Two Patrolmen Seen Entering Place in Uniform

Three policemen, one of them a street sergeant, were mentioned today in the report of Vice Squad raiders who arrested thirty-six men and women in a cabaret at Eighth and Bainbridge streets early yesterday morning. It was asserted that in the investigation preceding the raid the policemen were seen going in and out of the place, while in uniform.

When the prisoners were arraigned again in the Central Police Court today three still were missing. The absentees, all girls, were arrested while dancing the "Chicago," which is said to out-do in indecency all other dances of the sort.

Rocco and John D. Nubie, two of the three brothers operating the cabaret, were held by Magistrate Renshaw under $1500 bail each for trial. The third brother, Nicholas D. Nubie, was held under $2000 bail. The other prisoners were each fined $12.50 or will spend thirty days in the workhouse.

FREED IN DEATH CASE
State Cannot Find Witnesses to Fatal Shooting

Joseph Rizzio, of 1822 Indiana avenue, and Giovanni Livornati, of 2650 North 1st street, were acquitted before Judge Terry today of causing the death of Antonio Giuseppe Mangini, of 2123 Cambria street, who died in the Samaritan Hospital on August 29, 1919, as the result of a gunshot wound received two nights before in a shooting affray on Indiana avenue near Nineteenth street.

Two of the principals have since fled to Italy, and the victim refused to make any statement before he died. The Commonwealth was without convincing evidence against the defendants.
