...Firm's Assets Dwindle to $15,000—Upstate Clients Hardest Hit

...RUN AND 'SCARE' BLAMED

The liabilities of Samuel N. Hall & Co., latest brokerage house to fail, may be more than $150,000, it was learned today by those investigating the firm's affairs.

The assets, at first estimated at about $20,000, have dwindled to about $15,000, according to Henry Wessel, Jr., counsel for the receivers of the defunct firm.

Mr. Wessel has appointed Hevlevic & Hatz, accountants, to examine the books of the concern and make a preliminary report. From this report it will be determined whether or not a permanent receivership will be asked.

Scores of residents of Altoona, Allegheny and other Western Pennsylvania districts were among the clients of Hall & Co., and their loss is expected to run into many thousands.

The failure of two other brokerage houses started the run on Hall & Co., according to Bryan A. Hermes, attorney for the firm. The educators had offices in some of the towns in which Dier & Co. and Kohn & Co., both of which failed recently for large sums, also maintained offices.

Petition for the appointment of a receiver was filed by Mr. Wessel before Judge Dickinson in Federal Court yesterday. Elmer D. Simon was named temporary receiver, with a bond of $10,000.

In the petition it was set forth that customers of the firm were demanding their collateral and it was feared a run would be started. Later employees said that in an effort to stave off the failure the partnership had paid out more than $70,000 in the last month.

The members of the firm are Samuel N. Hall and Sempel R. Kirkpatrick. Both saw that a collapse was inevitable last Saturday night, but on consultation with their attorneys they made another effort to prevent the bankruptcy. New York men were called to look over the books, but without avail.

MASTER BARBERS OPEN WAR AGAINST SUNDAY SHAVING

"Better by Far Go Unshaven Than Have Face Mussed Up"

War against Sunday shaving, or at any rate against barbers who open their shops Sunday, has been declared by the Master Barbers' Association.

Joseph De Silvis, secretary, has called for public support.

"Because," says Mr. De Silvis, "a barber who will so far forget his occupational dignity as to work on Sunday, will make you look worse if he shaves you than you could possibly look if you shaven over Sunday without shaving at all."

Barbers, he says, are plentiful and jobs are scarce, therefore some bosses say to applicants: "Will you work Sunday?"

There are some applicants who are weak and some who are conscientious. Mr. De Silvis declares, and "the conscientious which forgets to get shaved on Saturday night might as well be the property of these unregenerate barbers."

PARK FAIR SITE BOOMED

Permanent benefits which would result from locating the Sequoi-Centennial Exposition on the Parkway Fairmount Park site were discussed today in an editorial in the Pennsylvaniaian, a reprint of an article by Ralph Morgan in the Pennsylvania Gazette. Both publications are affiliated with the University of Pennsylvania.

The city should recognize the importance of location and adopt the Fairmount Park site known as the Great Plan is discussed in Editorial in Pennsylvaniaian.

DIDN'T MISS DAY OF SCHOOL

P. E. T. Gutenkunst, Northeast High Graduate, Also Never Tardy

P. E. T. Gutenkunst, seventeen years old, holds all records for attendance in the class that graduated from the Northeast High School last night.

In the four-year course he did not miss a day, nor was he tardy. His record was commended by Dr. George F. Strindling, principal, when he addressed the class at the commencement exercises.

Not only was Gutenkunst punctual, but he also was high in scholarship. He was awarded the Alumni Association Medal for having the highest average of the class.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gutenkunst, 4821 North 15th street. He was vice-president of his class and manager of the Northeast soccer team.

FORMALLY ACCEPT FIRE TUG

Mayor and Cabinet Attend Ceremony on J. Hampton Moore

Mayor Moore and his Cabinet went to the Merchant Shipbuilding Corporation yards at Chester today and formally accepted the new police fireboat, the J. Hampton Moore.

The new fireboat has been subjected to all the tests, and the results were accepted by officials of the Department of Public Safety.

The new fireboat is equipped with four nozzles, capable of throwing 12,000 gallons of water a minute, and the streams may be shot more than 100 feet into the air or 300 feet out from the boat.

PATROLMAN WOUNDED

Own Gun Accidentally Discharged in Station House

Raymond J. Carey, Negro patrolman of the Thirty-ninth street and Lancaster avenue station, was wounded accidentally at the station house this morning when his revolver fell from his pocket.

He was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, where his physicians said that the wound in his left foot was not serious.

Carey said that he had just shifted his revolver from one pocket to another when it slipped down the leg of his trousers and was discharged.

Boy Shoots Himself While III

Reading, Pa., Feb. 28.—Irvin Hassler, seventeen years old, of Blainesport, was brought to a hospital with a serious bullet wound in his chest. It was stated that the boy, while ill with measles, went to the barn and shot himself.

G. O. P. LEADERS HERE SEE CHANCE FOR HARMONY

Hope Factions Will Unite in Choice of Man for Governor

Strong tendencies toward harmony in the Republican Party to prevent factional fights at the gubernatorial primaries were reported today by political leaders from various parts of the State who are at the Bellevue-Stratford.

Among those at the hotel are T. Larry Eyre, organization leader in Chester County, and Senator Frank E. Baldwin of Potter county. Both expressed hope that all factions would agree on one man for Governor, thus saving a costly and shattering factional primary war.

Senator Baldwin discussed a movement which has been started to slate him for Lieutenant Governor.

The State political leaders were much interested in the platform announced by Harry A. Mackey, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, in connection with his candidacy for nomination for Governor. Mr. Mackey has sharply challenged the Beideman candidacy.

"We know of no one we would rather have run against Mr. Beideman than Mr. Mackey," he said.

MRS. STOKOWSKI ATTENDS ORCHESTRA IN NEW YORK

Wife of Conductor Hears Concert, but Daughter Stays Home

Mrs. Leopold Stokowski, happy mother of Sonia Maria Noel Stokowski, of the Philadelphia Orchestra, played and saw her husband conduct for the first time in ten months when she attended the concert in Carnegie Hall, New York, last night. To say that Mrs. Stokowski was the happiest person in the large and crowded auditorium would be putting it mildly. She fairly beamed with joy.

"I was here when I came home last Friday, but I really did not know what it was to be home until I heard our own beautiful orchestra play again tonight. I have heard a great many fine things abroad, but truly and without personal prejudice, I have heard nothing like this."

Mrs. Stokowski heard the concert from a box occupied by some of the Stokowski's New York friends. Little Miss Sonia did not attend. Mrs. Stokowski said, however, Miss Sonia was in perfect health and high spirits, and expressed keen regret at not being taken to Carnegie Hall.

She is expected to return to this city within a few days.

FILE JACKEL PETITION

Ask for Striking Out of Death Sentence

A petition was filed with Judge Rogers today asking him to strike from the record the sentence of death he imposed on George Jackel, convicted of first-degree murder.

Jackel was a companion of Harry Lester, nineteen, also under sentence of death, who shot and killed Isadore Rabinowitz during a hold-up in South Philadelphia. Jackel did not fire a shot, but under the law he was held to be equally guilty of the murder.

Judges Patterson and Davis, dissenting from the ruling of Judge Rogers, their associate, who refused to grant a new trial to Jackel. Judge Rogers today said the petition will be disposed of Friday.

WOUND AROUSES SUSPICION

Police Hold Youth Who Asked Aid of Hospital

Charles Reilly, twenty-three, who gives an address on Mr. Vernon street near Thirty-seventh, is being held by the police until they have determined how he came by a bullet wound in his left hand.

Reilly, with a companion, entered the accident ward of the Children's Homeopathic Hospital early today and showed the surgeons a bullet that had lodged in his index finger. After the bullet was extracted the hospital authorities asked Reilly how he had been shot. He was unable to tell anything except it had happened near Germantown avenue and Market street.

The companion mentioned had disappeared. Police say Reilly and his friend, known only as "Duly," were drunk and went to a garage, 4111 Germantown avenue, where they found a revolver. What happened afterward they have not learned.

GARLAND BACK IN BOSTON

Reason for Trip Here With Wife Is Still Mystery

Charles Garland, North Carver, Mass., exponent of the soul-mate idea, who, with his wife, spent several hours in this city yesterday on a somewhat mysterious visit, arrived in Boston early today.

It was believed that Garland came here to see the father of Lillian Conrad, 1728 North Sydenham street. Love for Miss Conrad caused Garland to temporarily leave his wife. He lived with the Philadelphia girl for some time in Massachusetts. She left him recently and was placed in a school near Boston. Parents of Miss Conrad declined to discuss Garland or the purpose of his visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland left the Reading Terminal for New York at 4 o'clock yesterday. From there they went to Boston.

WOMAN HURT IN TAXI CRASH

Driver Surrenders and Says Faulty Mechanism Caused Accident

A woman passenger was injured this morning when a taxicab driven by Thomas J. Davis, 2414 North Opus street, crashed into a telegraph pole at the intersection of Girard avenue and Sixteenth street, 616 North Eighteenth street.

Davis surrendered to the police and said the accident was due to a faulty mechanism in the motor. Mrs. Smith was removed to her home from St. Mary's Hospital. She appeared later at the hearing and declared the accident was unavoidable. Davis was discharged by Magistrate Whinnock.

BOY SCOUTS CELEBRATING 12TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Veteran Corps Will Have Special Meeting This Evening

Today is the twelfth anniversary of the American Boy Scout organization, and here in Philadelphia, as well as throughout the rest of the country, this occasion will be celebrated by the Scouts.

Tonight the veteran corps of the Philadelphia Council, the largest body of veteran Scouts in the United States, will hold its annual banquet at the Longacre. At the same time District No. 1, comprising troops of Wissahickon, Roxborough and Manayunk, will hold its annual inspection.

The celebration will be continued into tomorrow, when there will be an award of medals for life saving and "the ceremony of the golden book" will be repeated. There are four local scouts who have received this highest distinction of scoutcraft and the medals will be given at Room 645, City Hall.

GIRL'S ASSAILANT IS HELD

It Is Testified He Hit Her on Head With Pipe

Magistrate Dorn this morning held Thomas Farrell, nineteen years old, in $2000 bail for court, on the charge of having attacked Catharine McMenamin, a maid employed at the home of Mrs. James Dobson, Bella Vista, Falls of Schuylkill.

The young woman testified that late yesterday she was walking to the home of an uncle, who lives at Twenty-ninth and Cambria streets. She encountered Farrell at the Reading Railroad tracks and warned him, she says, to be careful of trains. He started a conversation and walked beside her.

"One of my rubbers stuck in the mud," said the young woman. "He said, 'Wait, I'll fix it for you.' Instead he hit me over the head with a piece of pipe he had in a piece of paper."

Screams from the young woman were heard by Leon Pott. He chased her assailant several blocks into the arms of a policeman. This morning he identified Farrell as the man he pursued.

Doctors from the Samaritan Hospital tested several stitches were needed to mend the wound in the young woman's head.

DROPS DEAD WHEN VISITING OLD CHUMS AT COLLEGE

New York Woman's Sister Also an Official at Swarthmore

Miss Elizabeth Yardley, of Larchmont, N. Y., died suddenly last evening while visiting at Swarthmore station to make train connections for New York. She was sixty-eight years old.

Miss Yardley, accompanied by her sister, Miss Rebecca Yardley, both former students at Swarthmore College, had been visiting their sister, Miss Hannah Yardley, an official at the college.

Afterward they called on Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mickle, 318 Yale avenue, and had started to the station when Miss Yardley fell to the sidewalk in front of the office of Dr. Cornelius D. Ingels, dentist. She was taken into his office and Dr. W. C. Kistler was called in, who said that Miss Yardley had died within two minutes of acute heart trouble.

VALENTINES MAKE SWAINS DOLOROUS

Flowers, Candy or Fancy Cards Will Attest Love on Glad Day

SOMETHING MUST BE SENT

There's somebody loves you. That somebody's me. My heart is in most gone. And it's going to thee.

Perhaps it is in spring when a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. The poets may be right, and what they are talking about.

But, according to Mr. Hoyle, or some other authority, St. Valentine's Day is the one day out of the 365 when the most timorous of swains may venture to tell the lady of his heart of the feeling which lies therein.

And the chubby little schoolboy goes vent to the smothering in his heart and buys one of the atrocious penny sheets which tells teacher just about where she gets off.

The first observance of the day goes back to the period which for the sake of brevity is known as "B. C." The ancient Romans knew the day as Lupercalia, and it was the day on which sweethearts for the year were chosen. Although chosen is not correctly used

The young men of a community held a meeting and the names of the young women were written on slips of paper. The slips were put into a helmet, or a brown derby, or whatever it is the Romans wore, and each man in turn drew forth a slip which he opened breathlessly.

And custom decreed that the fair damsel of the community submit to the attention of the young man.

The stores take on an air of festivity for St. Valentine's Day and the red of the heart, the gold of the arrow blaze forth in a riot of color. The timid young man who would express a deep affection for his ladylove has a very large field from which to choose.

The florist beseeches him to say it with flowers and decorates his windows with such attractive floral designs that it becomes a temptation to step in. Corsage bouquets of old-fashioned flowers, with heart shaped snowy white paper tied about with soft ribbons of pastel shades.
