

200 LBS. IS HURT

Light Sleepers Imperiled by Flames Over North Marshall Street Restaurant

SIX CHILDREN ARE RESCUED

A 200-pound woman was seriously injured when she leaped from a second-story window at 979 North Marshall street, at 10:20 o'clock last night, when she feared she had become trapped by fire. Her husband was on the leg trying to save her, and six children were rescued from their beds on the second floor.

Isadore Katz, proprietor of the Continental Restaurant on the first floor, was the building. The fire started on the second floor, and Katz's children were asleep there. Mr. and Mrs. John Ganshorn had gone to bed on the third floor.

Calling for help and followed by six men, Katz rushed upstairs and the six children were saved.

Mr. and Mrs. Ganshorn appeared at the window and some one in the street urged them to jump. Some one else gave the contrary order.

Ganshorn pulled his wife away from the open window and an instant later she threw herself against a closed door and went through, striking the cornice of the adjoining house. Two men in the street attempted to catch the woman, who weighs more than 200 pounds, and managed to break her fall. She went to Roosevelt Hospital with cut and bruises and possible internal injuries.

Then the firemen arrived, raised a ladder and carried Ganshorn down. He was overcome by smoke.

The six Katz children are Rose, four; Zola, twelve; Hyman, eleven; Ben, seven; Herman, five, and Dorothy, four years old. Neuman Gold, 1257 North Tenth street, and David Spitzer, 902 West Thompson street, are the two men who are probably responsible for saving Mrs. Ganshorn's life in breaking her fall.

The building was damaged about $500.

SONS OF VETERANS HONOR LINCOLN AND PROGENITORS

Judge Bonniwell Stresses Emancipator's Love for Union

Celebrations in honor of Abraham Lincoln and the defenders of the Union were conducted, under the auspices of the Philadelphia camps and auxiliaries of the Sons of the American Revolution, in the South Broad Street Theatre. Following a musical program, Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell gave an address on the life of Lincoln, which he stressed particularly Lincoln's love for the Union. That, he said, was the ex-President's sole object in freeing the slaves. "Lincoln was not a fanatic on the question of slavery," was Judge Bonniwell's belief. "But many people failed to realize that."

The program consisted of music by an orchestra under the direction of Walter Oppenheim, chorus songs in which the audience joined, recitations by pupils from Mendelssohn and under the guidance of Miss Genie Maritz, who also accompanied them on the piano in several patriotic song selections, chorals from Mendelssohn and Handel by the Tins' Choral Society, accompanied by Miss Helen Kane and directed by James B. Hartzell. Miss Marie Wepler and John Nisport also contributed several solos. The invocation and benediction were made by the Rev. O. E. Ketels, division chaplain of the Sons of Veterans. A. E. Winston, chairman of the different committees, delivered the introductory address.

START WORK ON HOSPITAL

Ground to Be Broken Today for Presbyterian Group

Ground will be broken at noon today for the three new buildings to be added to the Presbyterian Hospital group on Powelton and Saunders avenues. Addresses will be delivered by Henry N. Paul, president of the Board of Trustees, and by Rev. John E. Klein, pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit, one of the new buildings to be a fire-story structure, with the first two stories of Indiana limestone and the three remaining stories of brick, trimmed with limestone. A north building will be two stories in height and of similar material, and the third will be of one story. The total cost will be about $300,000.

HOLDS WIVES' LIVES HARD

Minister Says Husbands Should Continue Blandishments

Man's wiles in capturing a wife should be continued after marriage, according to the Rev. Dr. Christian Koppell, pastor of the Church of the Holy Spirit, Eighteenth and Spruce streets, in an address last night on "Modern Husbands." Dr. Koppell said a man should well enough a woman's favorite flower or the candy she likes best during courtship days, but that after marriage he often forgets and does not always insist that he give his wife on her birthday, even when he remembers the day.

'GANG' REMEMBERS 'BILLY'

Dance Will Aid Crippled Member of 'Easy-Going Social'

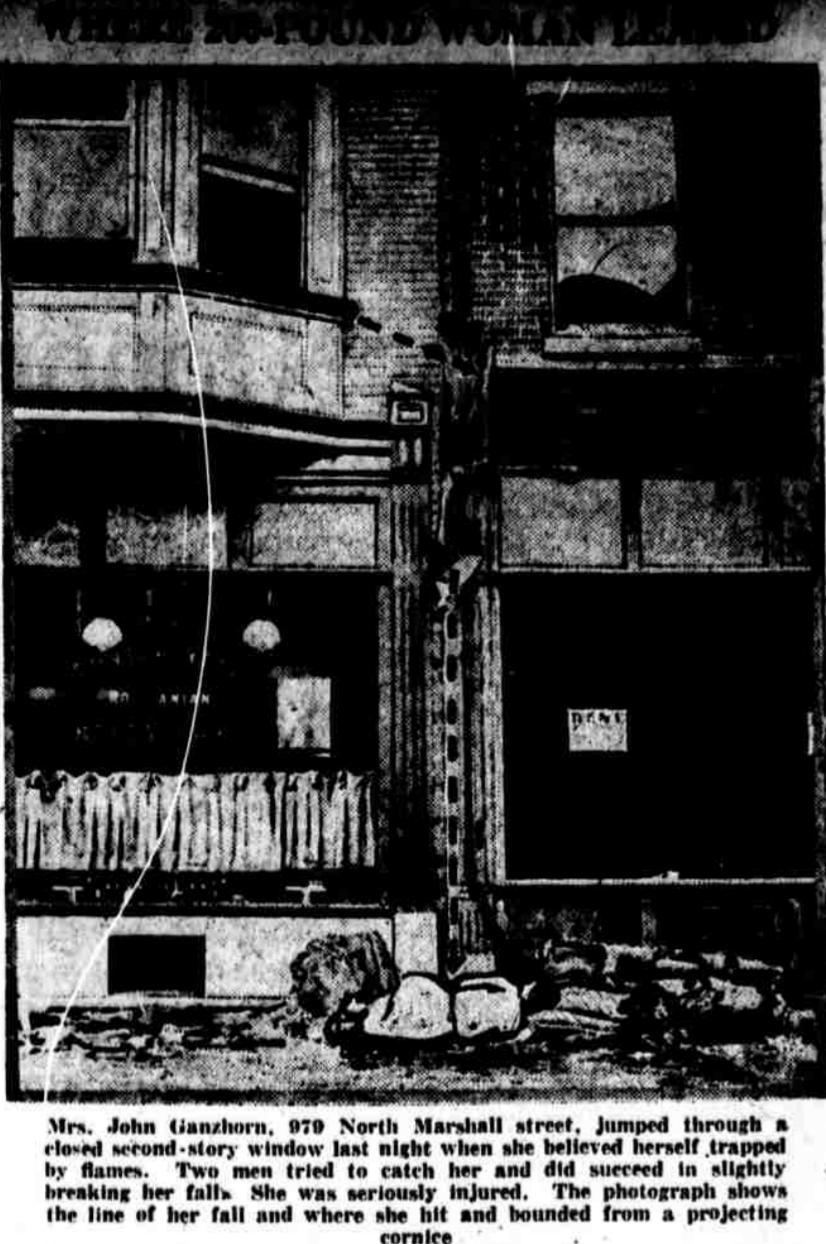

The "gang" is giving a benefit dance tonight for "Billy" Matthews in Lawrence Hall, Broad and Porter streets.

The "gang" is officially known as the "Easy-Going Society" and "Billy," a member in distress, has been in St. Agnes' Hospital since last November, when he was run down by a train and his legs so badly crushed that amputation was necessary. "Billy" had been out of work for some time and was seeking a job when the accident occurred. He is now helpless and penniless, but not friendless, because the gang has taken up his case.

A record attendance is expected at the dance tonight and the entire receipts are to go to "Billy," who is only twenty years old and the baby of the "gang."

Calls Trade Council Meeting Here

James A. Farrell, chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council and president of the United States Steel Corporation, today called the foreign sales of the whole country to meet in Philadelphia May 10, 11 and 12.

Mrs. John Ganshorn, 979 North Marshall street, jumped through a closed second-story window last night when she believed herself trapped by flames. Two men tried to catch her and did succeed in slightly breaking her fall. She was seriously injured. The photograph shows the line of her fall and where she hit and bounded from a projecting cornice.

HUSBAND SLAIN; WIFE COLLAPSES

Police Unable to Get to Bottom of Shooting of Polish Musician

John Bodalski, twenty-six years old, a Polish musician, was shot and killed in the kitchen of his home, 912 Newmarket street, early Sunday morning while conversing with several men. His young wife with her two children was asleep upstairs at the time.

As the case downstairs, attracted by the confusion incident to the investigation, the wife collapsed. Mrs. Bodalski was prostrated yesterday, fearing for the future of her children. Andri, two years old, and Florence, three months old. The family has been left virtually destitute as a result of the tragedy, according to relatives.

The police, mystified by events leading up to the fatal shooting, are trying to determine whether the killing occurred during the argument or was the result of an accident. One man, said to have been a member of the party in the kitchen at the time of the shooting, is being held by the police of the Front and Master streets station as a material witness. He gave his name as John Whelan, of Newmarket street.

According to the police, the orchestra of which Bodalski was a member was playing in a concert Saturday night at a hall at Fifth and Green streets. He and several other musicians left the hall shortly before midnight and arrived at the Bodalski home about 12:30 o'clock.

They had been sitting in the kitchen for a short time when the conversation centered on a revolver owned by one of the men. It is from this point that the police have been unable to obtain a clear story.

The first bullet fired entered Bodalski's abdomen and he plunged forward a second bullet crashed into a cupboard behind him, splintering the wood.

"We have been married three years," Mrs. Bodalski said. "My husband worked every day in a factory at Third and Willow streets, but he played a clarinet Saturday night in a dance hall at Fifth and Green streets."

"He came home about 12:30 Sunday morning. Some friends were with him. Then there was a shot. The bullet hit the wall over there behind the stove. My husband cried, 'Don't shoot again.'"

The next bullet hit him in the stomach. It went through him, and he fell. He lay on the floor a long time, and finally the doctors and police came. They told me my husband was dead.

"The children were sleeping when their father came home. They slept through it all."

DRUG PEDDLERS CURBED

1562 Police Arrests Since March 1, 1920, Mills Announces

A continued vigorous campaign against the so-called drug, or narcotic traffic, by the Philadelphia police has resulted in a virtual clean-up of the violators and a general reduction in the number of offenders, according to figures made public by the police.

The record of arrests, the police say, since prohibition went into effect, indicates that the situation demanded particular attention in recent years. Prior to March 1, 1920, arrests for violation of the use and sale of narcotics were so insignificant that they were merely listed under the classification of misdemeanors. Since that time police activity has resulted in a separated tabulation.

Superintendent of Police Mills announced yesterday that in 1920 259 persons were arrested for selling or having narcotic drugs in their possession, while 524 were apprehended for using drugs illegally. In 1921 the police rounded up 448 narcotic drug users, 111 persons on the charge of narcotic drug selling and 220 were arrested for having narcotic drugs in their possession. These numbers are for the year March 1, 1920, when the current classification went into effect, has reached a total of 1562.

PIUS XI ELEVATES FATHER WHITAKER

Raising Chancellor to Prelacy Held Signal Honor for Archdiocese

GETS TITLE OF MONSIGNOR

The Very Rev. Joseph A. Whitaker, Chancellor of the Catholic Archdiocese of Philadelphia, has been elevated by Pope Pius XI to rank of domestic prelate, with the title of "Right Reverend Monsignor."

Cable dispatches from Rome indicate he was elevated in a private audience with the Pope Saturday.

The elevation of Father Whitaker was one of the newly elected Pope's first official acts and was a signal honor for the archdiocese of Philadelphia. News of the elevation arrived by cable yesterday and was received at the arch-episcopal residence with gratification. Monsignor Whitaker, who was a chaplain in the army, was one of the most popular priests in this city. Cardinal Dougherty and his niece, Miss Dorothy McCormick, were present when the Pope elevated him to the prelate.

The appointment of Father Whitaker recalls a heroic rescue in which he took a prominent part last summer, when he and the Rev. George Caruana, then secretary to the Cardinal, plunged into the Schuylkill River and saved a nineteen-year-old girl from drowning. In the rescue the lives of both priests were endangered because of their becoming stuck waist-deep in mud as they dragged the girl to the shore.

Father Whitaker is the first clergyman in America to be thus honored by the new Pope. It is not likely that Monsignor Whitaker's investiture will take place in Rome, since he must await the promulgation of the papal bulls. In the event of it taking place in Rome, Dougherty's titular church, St. Andrew and Achilles.

Monsignor Whitaker was born in Shenandoah, April 10, 1877. After finishing studies at the primary school Borromeo, Overbrook, to begin studies for the priesthood. Later he studied at the American College, Rome. He was ordained in the seminary chapel, May 28, 1904, by Archbishop Ryan.

His first appointment was at the Church of St. Francis de Sales, this city, where he served as assistant for six years. On November 17, 1910, he became pastor of St. Stephen's, Port Carbon, and after serving in that parish for four years was named on the faculty of St. Charles' Seminary.

After the United States entered the World War Father Whitaker volunteered to serve as a chaplain and received his commission as first lieutenant December 22, 1917. He saw much service overseas, ministering to all the troops in and around Norway; he also acted as chaplain with the 302 M. R. S. and the Nineteenth Engineers. He was demobilized July 31, 1919, and a month later became secretary to Cardinal Dougherty, who was then Archbishop.

When Monsignor F. J. Fitzmaurice, the Chancellor, was appointed rector of the seminary, February 28, 1920, Father Whitaker was named Chancellor.

To men who are building houses to sell

A BUILDER in St. Louis put up a row of four family flats. He found them exceedingly difficult to rent.

Then he put an ARCOLA in each flat—individual hot-water heating for each family. Every flat was rented and the following Spring he sold them at a handsome profit.

It pays to install the kind of heating equipment that is an investment, not an expense.
