Paul and Virginia

By HELENA HOYT GRANT-

The Artistic Urge

stopped abruptly upon the Well, what the _____ !" he ejact "he ejaculated. Virginia, curled up in a cozy corner of fireplace were small iron candlestick. white candles gleam- "Oh !" "Oh !" Then her eyes flew ing. A tall standard, loned of wrought iron, stood at the of the davenport; in its socket a fat, orange-colored tallow cano the Russian cande abrum on the mantel.

There were no other lights. "What's the matter—lights off, or ind the fuses blow out all over the source?"

Virginia laughed.

"Don't be silly. There's nothing the matter with the lights." "Well, then. what's the large iden of the candles?" "Great improvement over the old-fashioned Edisons," he went on Virginia pretended to be exasperated and she made a wry face. "Oh, darlin', you can be so stupid

... She indicated the new illumination going to-

"It's the latest thing. It's artistic!" Paul sat down and stared at the Russian brass candelabrum owlishly.

"Artistic, hey? Huh! Where'd you set the thing on the mantel?" "Thing! Why, Paul, that's a real "Thing: why, Faul, that a real Bussian—"" "The looks it," he cut in rudely. "Where'd you get it?" "Why I bought it at that wonderful little novelty shop down town. Really. dear, the idea of using candles is very dear, the idea of using candles is very dear. the idea of using candles is very "Well, that's what I call real artistic tatoes!" Paul grinned amiably. "Well, that's what I call real artistic ich the thing, and don't you think it's "Wilghtful? It's so much more beautiful stuff." delightful? than the awful glare of the electrics." Paul looked over at her solemnly.

The orange-colored candle flared up and then died smokily. . "You mean this is to be a permanent thing-the candles?"

Through a Woman's Eyes

honey?'

Do You Look at the Other Side of the Shield?

have all heard the story of the stand, to understand is to be nearer two knights who fought like Kilkenny to God. cats over whether a certain shield was blue or red. The fact was that it was t Did they feel foolish when they found to out? Rather, I suppose; but not more so than many of us must feel every day when we find ourselves guilty of the same kind of color blindness. Oh, yes, we are Wa fund to the the source of the source of the the source of the sou All parents love their children, but more so than many of us must feel every day when we find ourselves guilty of the same kind of color blindness. Oh, yes, we are. We fuss and fume and go into tantrums and wear our-selves out and hurt people we love and break friendships just because we know break the break friendships just because we know break the break friendships just because because we know break the break friendships just because we know break the break friendships just because because we know break friendships just because we know break friendships just because we know break friendships just because we know break friendship and go into tantrums and wear our-salves out and hurt people we love and break friendships just because we know we are right and there can't be any compromise or question about it; when compromise have been looking at only bushands and wives. They need not

Ged. The bigger and better of us have their relinquish without bitterness, as long as we know that another heart beats in tune with ours, that though the meledy may not be altogether joyous ef the shield. And to see is to under-The Woman's Exchange The Woman's Exchange The work of the self-styled 100 per cent Americans try to show a for-in tune with ours, that though the meledy may not be altogether joyous and understanding. The Woman's Exchange

To Clean Satin Slippers The Editor of Woman's Page: The Editor of Woman' names of fashion journals that are for children's clothes exclusively. Your clumm has been of great benefit to me, ind I appreciate it greatly. G. P. M. Clean the slippers with carbon tetra-taboride. If there are grease spots which remain, make a paste of chloro-form and French chalk or fuller's earth, spread it on the stains and leave until antirely dry. Then brush off the powder thoroughly. I cannot give the name of the magazine through the column, but

"Why not? I think they're awfully cheerful." "Blue Eyes" No, dear, it is not deep love; it's puppy love, probably. Don't let him kiss you. Wait till you are older. Paul's eyes were fixed on the carpet before the davenport. "That's artistic," in a cozy corner of the big davenport, laughed gayly. "How do you like it, honey?" From a seven-branched candelabrum which glittered on the mantel above the tiny Yes, Invite Him; It's Quite Proper

"Sure is artistic," said Paul softly.

Tomorrow-Dining Out

"Oh. Paul-don't tease."

Yes, Invite Him; It's Quite Proper Dear Cynthia—I am a new, very much interested reader of your column. May my first letter find a place there, as well as an answer from you? I am a student at a co-ed college. One of my male friends plays on our basketball team. They are going to play at a college near my home in the near future. I am planning to go home that week-end and expect my parents to go to the game with me. Would it be out of place for me to ask this young man to dine with us at a hotel before the grame if it is suitable to my par-ents? And, too, to dine at our home the next day on his way back to col-lege? He would probably stay at a hotel over night, as he could not get back to college that night. I, too, would be going back to college the next day. ANXIOUS, The same story. The hot tallow was dripping down upon the polished brick

Please Tell Me

By CYNT'IIA

「「日本市の」」の「「日本市」」の「「「日本市」」の「日本市」

What to Do

"Mickey" is Getting Bored

ANXIOUS,

fashioned Edisons," he went on thoughtfully. "Paul, you're mean." "I dou't see how we've managed to struggle along all these years with those wretched, weak little electric lights, I'm going to—"

up until a couple of weeks ago I had But she had escaped to the kitchen. The savor of the evening dinner stole through the living-room. "What have you for dinner tonight, been keeping steady company with a hoy, and now he has gone to Florida. I am beginning to find it very lonesome. I have lots of friends, especially boys of my own home town, and could have and do have several dates a week. But I an very unhappy and restless. I do how so to public dances and movies are She stood there upon the threshold, wonderfully beautiful in a gingham overall, and dimpled at him. not go to public dances and movies are very tiresome, so, therefore, I can find nothing to relieve the monotony. I am getting very restless and would appre-ciate some good advice to break the

I work in an office during the day. and feel as if I ought to have some pleasure at other times. Are there any correspondent clubs in Philadelphia—a place to find new ac-quaintances, etc.? MICKEY.

quaintances, etc.? MICKEY. Perhaps you have too many dates, Mickey. Sometimes that bores people just as much as staying home. Cynthia cannot recommend any correspondence clubs, but if you will go to Miss Gold-man, at 1505 Arch street, who has charge of the Girls' Service League Farm, surely she will be glud to invite you to one of the parties that the League gives so that you can meet some new friends.

Suggests Closing Discussion

compromise or question about it; when all along the other side told a story just as unquestionable and convincing, though entirely different!
That is the difference between narrowness and broadmindedness, between pettiness and bigness, between those who show the monkey strain and others who really reflect the image of God.
The bigger and better of us have their of the bigger and better of us have their or understanding is the great cry of humanity. We will sacrifice gladly, relinquish without bitterness, as long as we know that another heart beats

JUST JACK.

pay any of the expenses any more than I could understand a young lady "in-viting" a young man to tea and before he leaves presenting him with a bill of

About a week later they met on the

BLACK AND WHITE IN FURS

no matter what our type and no matter what the time of day. So today we are trying it out in furs, with the above charming result. A deep black collar is becoming to one style of beauty, while another prefers all white but gives it a touch of distinction with a narrow line of black at the edge of the collar

"The Marriage Gambler"

By HAZEL DEYO BATCHELOR Copyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Company

After having married Nick Tracy without loving him, in order to precent him from ruining his life through infatuation for Daisy Castleton, a chorus girl, Carol Tracy finds herself strongly attracted by Jervis Britton, who is used to having his own way with women. Britton and Carol are in the cast of a play to be given for charity, and are thrown constantly together. Britton is eager to bring things to a head, and on the day that the per-formance is to be given, Nick sud-denly leaves town. Carol is at first strangely depressed, but later her depression gives way to a reckless gayety, and she promises to let Brit-ton see her home that night.

CHAPTER XLIX

THE play had been followed by a wanted to see you alone tonight, I think you must have known all along, but you weren't conscious of it till tonight." His voice had sunk almost to a whis-per, every tone of it caressed her. Her eyes drooped and in the darkness his strong fingers closed suddenly around hers. "I love you, I love you," he said tensely, "And I've been patient. I wanted to make sure. Do you carc for me, Carol? Do you love me one-tenth as much as I love you?" Her heart was beating suffocatingly and her brain was 'in a whirl. She felt irresistibly drawn toward him. It was as though he had bewitched her, and yet now that the moment had ar-rived when he was telling her of his love she found it impossible to say whether or not she loved him. She tried desperately to analyze he feelings. This afternoon her heart had leaped at the thought of him, but some-

The Girl Who Is Negatively Nice unkind or hard. Unkind or hard. But at least those are positive, they show some character even if it is not an enviable one. It would really be botter, if we found ourselves being merely "very nice," to develop an unpleasant personality if we couldn't get anything else. After all, it could be toned down hater, and it would at least not make all our friends ache with its cloying sweete ness. Has Been Called "Terribly Harmless'

But She Has the Ability to Make You Suffer, for Your Jaw Always Aches From Smiling at Nothing After You Talk to Her

If her parents have never done any-thing to bring her out, her friends will have to do it in self-defense. Find out what she is really interested in-there must be something-and harp on it until she actually advances some ideas of her own on the subject. Search about for something that she doesn't like and draw her out until she flares up in critterian of it. "OH, DON'T let's ask her," objected one of the girls as they were getting ready for a party. "Why not? What's the matter with her?

"Oh, she's all right : there's nothing wrong with her, only she's so nice; she's so terribly harmless." To most girls and all boys the girl who is harmless is the most annoying of all the species.

She is so tiresome. The girl who is a cat is at least in-teresting, because she keeps your wits going all the time. You have to be careful all the time you are with her for fear you will say something that might be used against at least your anger. Even the stupid girl is interesting, for a little while, as a study in dull-

BUT the girl who is nice and harm-less has nothing to recommend her even as there is nothing for which to condemn her. She doesn't rouse your anger, your wits, your interest or your curiosity. She doesn't rouse anything. She merely lulls you to bored slumber, with your jaws aching from a smile that has no chance to wear off.

You smile and smile and smile at such person. "Yes, indeed, it certainly is," you say over and over again. There must be something to her somewhere; people aren't made with such a complete lack of personality as Somewhere within the mysteries of her brain there must be something that would establish her as a person in-stead of just a thing, if only it could be

She cannot bring it out alone with-out making an intensive study of her-

If she did that, she might make a mess of the whole thing, turning all her thoughts in instead of out.

No. IF she is to be given color and endowed with interest for others, those others will have to help her.

all that.

breught out.

you. The girl who is disagreeable rouse

Search about for something that she doesn't like and draw her out until she flares up in criticism of it. Or else, having found what she likes, talk against it until she is stirred to the point of defiance to show her loyalty. It would be troublesome, of course, but the result would be worth some bother. At least it would be a relief; it would prevent a number of persons from hav-ing that painful jaw-ache which always follows a conversation with one of these follows a conversation with one of these terribly harmless people.

For names of shops address Weman's Till Editor or phone Walnut 2000 or Main Tell between the hours of 9 and 5.

Adventures With a Purse

HE PLAYED it for me on the plano, and as I listened, I found myself thinking, "That's the sort of piece that when you hear it you immediately wonclea Franklin Cane Sugars are never touched by hands never exposed to dirt, dust or insects. They come to you clean weighed, packed and sealed by machine. In every food that needs sugar make sure of its cleanliness and purity remember there is

"A Franklin Cane Sugar for every use" Granulated, Dainty Lumps, Powdered, Confectioners, Brown Golden Syrup

5 reasons why mothers buy HICKORY waists and garters

- I. Tailored of high grade materials to insure long wear. Wash wonderfully.
 - 2. Each garment FITS PERFECTLY. Athletic cut arm holes eliminate bulging or binding. All sizes 2 to 14.
- 3. Scientifically constructed to supply the support,
- comfort and security growing children require.
- 4. Patent rust-proof pin-tube attachment prevents garter pin from slipping, bending or breaking.
- 5. Buttons are genuine unbreakable bone-stoudy taped on to endure endless tubbing.

50c and up with-75c and up with In the Notions, Boys or Infants Departments. If not, please write us. Complete satisfaction assured or your money back A. STEIN & COMPANY faken of PARIS GARTERS for Men CHICAGO NEW YORK

"I Love You"

the magazine through the column, but you can find one at the magazine coun-ters of any of the large department stores. There is only one that I have over heard of, and that is published in New York. I am so glad you enjoy the column. Another Address Wanted To the Editor of Woman's Page: Dear Madam-Readig through the Woman's Page I saw where some one worked me woldsase I are to be the source of the second source of your hair. That is no doubt the reason that you have not had satis-faction from your inquirles. Permanent waving will not mis the

Dear Madam-Reading through the woman's Page I saw where some one mether that has to move out. I have mether that have the work, so if you please to go to yet. I would be so giad if you will help me. I will look for an answer soon in the mether that have for an answer soon in the mether that have for an answer soon in the mound without getting anywhere. Not having your name or address of the person who wrote about you. Since you had written so long ago. I thought you have the view of dong a place to live by the time her fetter was published find to talk to you about it. I am pub-lishing this letter in the hope that she will see it and once more sould her name and address so that you can communt. Hous defense you have it. I know she will be riad to talk to you about it. I am pub-lishing this letter in the hope that she will see it and once more sould her name and address so that you can communt. woman's Page I saw where some one wanted my address. I am the young mother that has to move out. I have ustil the end of February to move, so if you please will you give the party my name and address, for I didn't get

WHAT'S WHAT By HELEN DECIE

A correspondent asks for suggestions hout the celebration of the second wed-ing anniversary. This is generally nown as the "cotton wedding." and it alls for gifts of cotton, which may take form of full-length or sash curtains nowered muslin, dotted swiss, lace plain scrim, cretonne draperies and abion covers, flowered Oriental towels, pittes and breakfast-cloths, mercerized mechades, Colonial rag-rugs, etc. In-lations to the "cotton wedding" may written in indelible ink on squares partice. A correspondent asks for suggestions mbrie. inner or supper is served, a cot-inner or supper is served, a cot-int is the logical centerpiece. At time of the year, an evergreen made in tufts of white cotton may be indexide. The tablecloth may be ad-white cotton, with napkins to Usually the hostess and guests a point of dressing in organdie, vole or other cotton material. Gyear bride may wear a wreath b colton roses. on roses.

Do you care if I suggest that you discontinue this controversy about for-eign and American wives? I thank you in advance, Cynthia, and wish your column and the EVENING PUBLIC LEDGER expenses.

........

more laurels than it already has Thank you for your good wishes, "Just Jack." Cynthia likes your letter and hopes you will write often.

A Fair and Square Club Dear Cynthia-Please may I have space in your most interesting column to answer a letter signed "Young Man

I, too, think he must know very strange American girls. And they surely must be very hard up for company to take them out not to feel insulted because he makes them pay half of the expenses. he makes them pay half of the expenses. He says he is making good money and so are the girls. I realize that a lot of the good, old-fashioned ways of enter-taining seem to have gone out of style. (1 mean such as spending evenings quiletly together, reading aloud or sing-ing or making candy.) In those ways a girl could return courtesies to fellows. But, even with those privileges taken away. I cannot understand how any fellow could "invite" a girl to be enter-tained by him and ever "allow" her to pay any of the expenses any more than I could understand a young lady "in-viting" a young man to tea and before

What official position is Miss May Hamilton Horton, of Bir-mingham, Ala., one of the few women in the United States to hold? 2. Describe a handmade handker-chief which is exquisitely simple and distinctive. How can several old sheets be what should be the weight of a boy sixty-eight inches tall? For a party dress of chiffon, what exquisitely smart shade could the material be?

he leaves presenting him with a bill of expenses. But, now here's a proposition that I wish all of you girls would figure out for young folks are trying it out and finding it very satisfactory. It is this: If you won't mind, I believe I can make it plainer by telling it by illustration. A girl friend of mine accepted an invi-tation and was entertained by a very nice young man. "He makes good money." His living expenses are a great deal more than hers, because she lives at home, while he does not. About a week later they met on the On a dull blue dress, with cape to match, describe the only trimming.

Yesterday's Answers

The British Society of Women Engineers is offering prizes for the best practical ideas in house improvement, especially such as will tend to make the work of the housewife easter. A paper cutter which is simple but different looking is made of polished wood, smoothly pointed.
 Fringe of alternately light and dark stippes in colors that har-monize makes a striking trimming for a hannshade.

for a latapshade, One hundred and thirty-four pounds is what a boy who is six-ty-seven inches tall should weigh. A sports skirt which almost any woman would want as soon as she saw it is made of a crinkly silken jade green material, with a wide white cross-bar design running through it.

If one is making a sweater of the gayly designed type, pale blue with dark blue design will give it softly dainty effect.

By the way, Cynthia, I notice that the head of your column reads, "Please tell me what to do," but by some of the letters that I've seen printed in it it doesn't lock as though any one wants any advice. They all seem to be will-ing to give it. Well, the Bible says "It's more blessed to give than to re-ceive."

The taxi drew up before the apart-ment house before Carol had answered.

Various Braids Trim

and Britton was conscious of a feeling of impatience which he carefully con-Many of the New Suits cealed.

He helped Carol out, paid the driver and turned to her eagerly." "May I come up?" She looked up into his eyes and again she forked up into his eyes and again she felt the strange fascination that he had for her. "Yes," she returned, almost in a whisper, and a moment later they were going up together in the elevator. The living room as they entered it was tilled with the fragrance of roses, lights were burning dimly under silk shades, the very intimacy of it drew them together, and, as Carol threw her evening cloak carelessly over a chair and turned toward Britton, he suddenly forgot to be cautious. He forgot everything but the fact that he loved her and that he did not intend to let her play a game with him any longer. In two strides he was across the room and had caught her in his arms.

Tomorrow-Consequences

Read Your Character

The Looped "t"

The conventional way to make the letter "t," according to the copybooks, is with a single straight stem, made by an up and a down stroke of the pen or pencil. In actual practice it varies from this often in many different ways. One variation, with which you are undoubtedly familiar, and which perhaps you use yourself, is to make the stem as a sort of narrow loop.

have the proof of the proof of

INGERIE

of snowy muslin or of shimmering silk or satin is safely washed in the silky suds of Colgate & Co.'s new washbowl flake-

These thin white flakes are always ready for use. If you happen to have no boiling water to dissolve them, Fab flakes will dissolve in tepid water and not form lumps of soap in the basin.

This is one thing which was brought out in the experiments made at Carnegie Institute of Technology. Fab was proved superior to ordinary soap flakes for "convenience washing" because Fab dissolves readily and makes a rich abundant suds in cold or hard water.

COLGATE & CO. Est. 1806 NEW YORK

a Stand Street, Top & Stand Street

SAFELY WASHES FINE FABRICS

By Digby Phillips

