Teachers' Meeting Is Told Incentive to Study Should Be Given

VOCABULARY HELPS URGED

The desire of the pupils in public schools to study is deadened by the routine of the classroom and teachers waste too much time in holding dull recitations, according to E. C. Wertsch, of the Lansdowne public schools, who addressed the meeting of the Delaward. dressed the meeting of the Delaware County Teachers' Association at Marple, Pa., today.

"Educators should be more conservative of time," said Mr. Wertsch. "Not enough time is spent in teaching the pupil how to study.

"The result is that the pupil graduates with plenty of information, but has no ability. The pupil should be filled with a desire to study and it is the duty of the teacher to arouse a curiosity which will result in his studying eagerly."

"If there is a strong motive placed back of it the child will have a desire to study," said Dr. S. C. Miller, assistant superintendent of the Chester schools. He said one of the chiet republic of teachers today is that they troubles of teachers today is that they do not keep in mind the differences in pupils and study their characters and

Park schools, characterized the recita-tion method as "old-fashioned." She said her pupils are allowed to prepare their own programs, and she finds in that way they take greater interest in

At the morning session the meeting was opened with a prayer by the Rev. Robert F. Sterling, of Broomal, after which a review of elementary grade teaching was participated in by Miss Lillian Howes, of Swarthmore; Miss Pauline Ramstine, of the Radnor Pub-lic School, and Miss Edna L. Rees, of the Ridley Park School.

A special luncheon hour was arranged by W. R. Douthett, of the Darby High School.

The address of welcome in the afternoon session was made by Dr. John B. Thomas, of Newtown Square, and the response was by Prof. Yeager, the president. The Rev. If women crave the sweet solace of tobacco to dispel the cares and disappointments of this weary world, they have just as much right to it as any man, says Dr. Russell H. Conwell, president of Temple University and pastor of the Baptist Temple.

"Why should men have this custom all to themselves?" he asked. "Don't deny tobacco to the women and allow it to the men. That isn't equality.

"But aside from that, I do not believe in smoking for either sex."

The most discussed natural phenomenon of the day—the flapper—next engaged the doctor's attention.

"The flapper is a passing phase and will lose public interest, to say nothing of existence as a genus, in due time," he said. "The flapper will have ber day in the public eye and vanish.

ber day in the public eye and vanish.

"The whole matter is based on the natural foolishness of youth. When those girls grow up they will acquire more sense. At present they are sucmore sense. At present they are succeeding in making a good deal of a joke themselves. Extreme dress, which is the most prominent characteristic of the flapper, is founded on a natural instinct of the race—to make itself attractive to the opposite sex.

"Short skirts, bobbed hair, personal exposure, and the other marks of the flapper have their counterpart in the efforts of the lower animals to render themselves attractive to the other sex by a gaudy bedizenment of their persons. While none the more excusable on this account, therefore, it is at least comprehensible.

"But there is one phase of the flapper's equipment which has no reason, no justification, no analogy on earth or sea, or air. That is the prevalent method of wearing those mon-strous things known as 'galoshes.'

"The spectacle of young women walking along the streets with those things flapping and waving about their ankles is positively the most foolish thing I over saw."
