Lady Motorist Is Righteously Angry About the Manners of Motoring Men

Recent Experiences in Which She Has Suffered First From Their Cars and Then From Their Tongues

WHY, even if you just jostle people in the growd," exclaimed the ate motorist, "you apologize or come ck to see if you have hurt them or sything. But in a car people don't en slow up!"

She has had two experiences recently hat have made her more than usually emphatic on the subject of motoring manners of which she is now convinced here are none. Both times she was close to the curb and going slowly in her car, sive, though not vital, damage, The other car did stop and the driver and is still suffering.

The streets were muddy and as she Rand instructions for the old streets were muddy and as she Rand instructions for the old streets.

ictures. But if no one happens in about them, you can lend the Children's Hospital, where them to the Children's Hospital, where they are pasted together, a picture on such side of a thick card, so that the children can easily look at them and play with them. And won't you send your name and address, please, so that I can have it to give to any one who writes, or so that I can send the ad-dresses to you. It is very good of you to make this offer through the column.

Helping With an Argument

MRS. A. NEWLYWED.

You have the correct idea about what to use on your satin dress. The carbon (strachloride solution will not harm the material, and you can buy it quite cheaply at any drugstore.

I don't know which side you have a taking in this discussion, but there cally one thing to say in the case you sation, and that is two shovelfuls, as the is just one shovel being used.

Is rule applies to the other methods measuring, too. MRS. A. NEWLYWED.

For the New Baby

cutest little shoes are made of te pique, with straps that fasten and that fat ankle. But the tricky, by "chie" part is the top, made trately of a separate piece of the, which turns back toward the arately of a separate piece of ac, which turns back toward the top and is finished with a row of oping. Even the funciest strap

Things You'll Love to Make

A child's EASY SLIP-ON APRON is not only easy to put on, but easy to make. Cut a pattern, the half of which is shown at the right of the illustration. Men like girls with home-loving One time a big car slithered past make. Cut a pattern, the hand the shaded part talents, but they also like one who is (Diagram A). Cut out the shaded part willing to go about a little. top point. Hem or buttonhole all edges motoring Manners!

This Judy was a different woman from the one of that morning. This Judy what do you think of the action of his wife? Do you not agree with me her cheeks were faintly flushed. She had here's another instance of them was amiable too, because the food she had prepared was not to be wasted. This Judy was a different woman from the one of that morning. This Judy what do you think of the action of his wife? Do you not agree with me that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she may consider that now) that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she may consider that now) that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she may consider that now) that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she may consider that now) that after giving her and her child the protection of his man (however worthless she would have stuck to him at all osses.)

This Judy was a different woman from the one of that morning. This Judy what do you think of the action of his wife? Do you not agree with me that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she should have stuck to him at all osses.)

This Judy was a different woman from the one of that morning. This Judy what do you think of the action of his wife? Do you not agree with me that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she may consider that now) that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she should have stuck to him at all osses.)

This Judy was a different woman from the one of that morning. The one of that morning. The study was a different woman from the one of the morning. The open consideration of his wife? Do you not agree with me that after giving her and her child the protection of his name (however worthless she may consider that now) that after giving her and her child the protection of his wife? Do you It was a woman pedestrian who suf- she clung to him for a moment.

In her frantic haste to get out of its demurred when she had seen its magnificence, but Rand had his way, and afterward, he suggested that they go shopping. looked the Lake Shore Drive. Judy had

Who Wants Picture Postals?

The Butter of Woman's Page:

Dear Madam—May I ask if any of your readers, invalids or societies of any kind could use picture postal cards?

I have hundreds picked up all ever this country. Canada. Mexico and Europe. They are all scenery. I shall watch your paper, and if any one will send an address through your column I shall be very glad to send the cards there.

Thank you very much for this kind offer. I am sure some one will be glad to have the postals, perhaps for scrapbooks or to frame or to use as educational pictures. But if no one happens disappeared as Judy met her eyes in the glass, but because of that smile. Judy did not dare find any fault with the dress. She would have taken it if it had cost twice what it did, in her engerness to get out of the shop, but Rand's enthusiastic remarks about it when she finally appeared before him, fell on deaf ears.

"Perhaps madaine would like to see something in lingerie." the saleswoman suggested when the dress had been removed and Rand had ordered it sent to moved and Rand had ordered it sent to the hotel. Judy hastened to interpose but Rand forestalled her, and Judy with burning cheeks was forced to look through piles of silk and lace underwear, and to make Helping With an Argument the Editor of Woman's Page:

Dear Madam—While wearing an livery white dress of satin I got against some imitation mahogany furniture which had recently been oiled with furniture polish. Will carbon tetrachloride remove the spot? Is it expensive?

Can you help settle an argument by telling me which is correct: "I used two shovelfuls of coal," or "I used two shovel

Tomorrow—I Won't Be Made Over!"

opyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Company

Please Tell Me What to Do

To "X. X." Consult the Legal Aid Society, at City Hall, Cynthia cannot understand your letter fully. There you will get legal advice, and if you cannot pay a fee you will not be charged.

Some Legal Questions

Some Legal Questions

Dear Cynthia—Kindly teil me how long does a father send support for a child. My daughter is seventeen, and I heard people say that he will send support a year or so and then will stop. Is that possible? Can I get a divorce from my husband? If I do get a divorce, can I get money also? He is in Michigan, Will they (the court) have to bring him to Philadelphia for a divorce? What is best for a girl of seventeen? To stay at home or run to dances and other amusements? Does not a fellow think more of a homely girl than a run-around?

MRS. HOPEFUL.

MRS. HOPEFUL.

girls with home-loving

A Trying Situation

to the car did stop and the driver did come back.

To investigate? To apologize? To hope that the lady wasn't hur? Not be!

To talk in loud tones about. "Well, why don't you get out of the wasn't be whole street!"

To talk in loud tones about. "Well, why don't you get out of the wasn't be whole street!"

To talk in loud tones about. "Well, why don't you get out of the wasn't be whole street!"

To course, there was nothing wrong about him; oh, no, he was a model little driver, and if a traffic man happened to be within hearing distance he would hear all about it.

The second time the lady Motorist I was going slowly because it was misty and hard to see.

A car went past, and, in turning around her, skidded and swung about, striking her car with a nasty bump. Of course, that wasn't he driver's fault, and, of course, as he didn't blame him for a second.

But, with solicitated for her car, she spend the door to look out and see just what had happened.

But, with solicitated for her car, she spend the door to look out and see just what had happened.

Before she had more than unlatched fit the harsh voice of the other driver disturbed her rudely—very rudely. "It's all your fault!" he shouted "why don't you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you would have not been on speaking terms and the ruse of chiefken and lettuce sand, and the province of the case which idea had been Rand's had you cover friends. How you go on, insteal of creeping along and keeping coverybody back." If you cover from the cover had you

A. G. McD. But the next day in Chicago, the old and is still suffering.

The streets were muddy and as she curried acrossing a car came carried across a crossing a car came the side street without even so much a a toot of warning.

But the next day in Chicago, the old Judy returned.

Rand insisted upon going to one of the best hotels, and their room, with its have known of this happening before her marriage. There is not much protection if it is spoken of to any one.

a toe of a variation, get out of its leader Lake Shore Driver's, July had slipped and fell back against densured when had som its magnifer and the standard of the standard of

They Harmonize Perfectly

Ever since the hat and scarf to match have come into prominence, they have been inventing new ways of fashioning them so that Mabel's will be different from Jane's, and so on. Well, if Jane really does want hers original looking, she will do no better than to copy a certain new set, for a quainter thing cannot be imagined. The hat is of brown straw with the usual roll, brim, and the soft Canton creps scart is the same shade.

But they aren't content with matching in color. They must needs wear the same flowers embroidered upon them. These are wool black-eyed Susans, which cluster between green leaves in a most realistic manner.

Plain stationery of firm texture is always in good taste. Those who prefer more individual correspondence paper use monograms or "personages" who have undertied authentic coats of arms do not make common use of the family device, which in a democratic country, is looked upon as more or less of an affectation of superiority. Yet there are people who make themselves objects of ridicule by "adopting" crests to which they have not title whatever.

Monogram dies may be had in all styles of lettering, engraved to order. The heavier types may be embossed without coloring, but the more intributed in the same flowers embroidered upon them. These are wool black-eyed susans, which cluster between green individual correspondence paper use monograms, or, more rarely, crests.

Even persons or "personages" who have under the famore individual correspondence paper use monograms, or, more rarely, crests.

Even persons or "personages" who have under the themore individual correspondence paper use monograms, or, more rarely, crests.

Even persons or "personages" who have under the themore individual correspondence paper use monograms or more rarely, crests.

Even persons or "personages" who have under the superiod not individual correspondence paper in more rarely, crests.

Even persons or "personages" who have under the superiod not individual correspondence paper in more rarely Plain stationery of firm texture is al

ARTISTIC LINES AND COLORS By JEAN NEWTON

generated a current of pyrotechnical snicker, the chief looks at us as though we were crazy, and you can hear some smart Alec wonder where we mislaid cur trousers. What's the way out?"

The way out is—the happy medium. Certainly, a business office is no place for diaphanous blouses and the like, and the girl who sports them there lays herself open to the accusation of poor taste, to say the least.

But neither is it the place for masquerading. And that is how the "mannish" woman impresses men. In the first place, it takes an extremely pretty girl to survive such clothes at all. But even she, so attired, is likely to be looked upon as a freak. She irritates men—or, rather, the mannish clothes do. Men seem to resent mannish clothes—on a woman.

A charming ten gown with a maroon background upon which harmonious colors are laid in a batik design. We don't mind a long skirt in something that is almost a negligee and in this costume with its flowing slashed sleeves the long line gives a medieval effect that

Paul and Virginia By HELENA HOYT GRANT

An Academic Discussion "DAUL, honey, what does veal come nbly.

"Ve a 1? Why.
darlin', it comes from what are we going to the butcher shop. deesn't it?"
"Don't be an idiot, Paul." The reproof in her voice was genuine; there was a ties, but here is a case in which they

In a previous article it was snown

The small capital letter, plainly made, indicates exactly the reverse. It is one of those unconscious evidences which are the result of the person's fundamental character working out.

Such capitals, you will find, nearly siways indicate a large degree of innate refinement, modesty and simplicity, and while they should by no means be considered a mark of genius, yet it is be considered a mark of genius, yet it is true that many men of genius do write this way. It is simply because the man who is really big is usually above petty vanities.

By plain capitals we mean princtpally those capital letters which are made just alike, or almost like the small letters, differing from them principally in size, or those which are simple imi-tations of printed letters. The larger these are made, however, the less strong s the indication.

Tomorrow—Varying Your Method the Profile

Have You Learned Yet How to throw a bubble? If you haven't send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the editor of the woman's page for your little lesson book. It has lots of other helpful little bits of information in it, too. For instance, how to write invitations to a "Bubble Party" for St. Patrick's Day, how to decorate for that party and how to do some other good stunts with bubblesincluding eating them! Would you like to give this party?

silly thing to say. How would you like to be sacrificed like that?" Paul eyed her with a flicker of fun in his smile, but he abruptly sobered he was puzzled; and under her stern accusing haze.

eat, if we have no more ment?" She broke into a sunny smile, quite like her old self.

own lip. It is a habit the animal uses preliminary to a fight. When we sneer at any one we do exactly what the that the person who makes his (or her) dog does when he snarls. The exprescapital letters of undue size and makes sion of "sneering" in man, whether them rather fancy is pretty sure to be egotistical and self-satisfied in some one particular thing, if not in all our half-civilized ancestors, who spent much time in fighting, uncovered their presence of an inferior or an enemy.

There is a trace of this same sneer side of his head facing his antagonist. When we sneer or show defiance through facial expression, we do exactm principally as the dog. The angle or corner of the mouth is drawn slightly backward, and at the same time a muscle near the nose draws up the upper lip and ex-poses the canine tooth. We sneer in defying another in either action or The ordinary smile is expressed on both sides of the face at once, while the smile of derision is shown on but one side of the face—that side being turned toward the object of our de-

> Tomorrow-Why Do We Frown? Copyright, 1982, by Public Ledger Company

The New Suits

Little change is evidenced in the frocks and capes. You are offered now, just as you were several months ago, a choice of short sleeves or long, wide ones or tightish. Suits, however, display more versatility both in trimming and in line. Quite a great many of these new ones show jackets which are regular slip-ons. And not a few of them are belted into a right band about the hips just as are the Renee blouses.

Through a

The Happy Medium for the Business Girl

"How should the girl in business dress to escape being criticized?" This was the question which flared up the other day in a large office and which discussion.

"If we wear becoming, girlish things, we are accused of being frivolous—
"Fluffy Ruffles'—of trying to capitalize our sex," exploded one of the force.
"And if we come in with a mannish suit with a tailored shirt and collar and the we cause a buby riot. The clerks tie, we cause a buby riot. The clerks snicker, the chief looks at us as though

do. Men seem to resent mannish clothes on a woman.

Also, such a costume makes a girl conspicuous. And that is the one thing the girl in business should try to avoid. For it calls attention to her sex no less than the fluffiest ruffles. The fact is that there is no more reason for the girl in business to try to camouflage her sex than to emphasize it. The idea is to keep it inconspicuous and identify herself with her job only.

I remember an amusing instance of a brilliant and ambitious young woman. She had been told so much about how pretty she was that she became obsessed pretty she was that she became obsessed with the idea of eliminating her appearance, her personality, her youth and being "strictly business." So, when she was placed at the head of a large

Very soon, a kindly woman, the head of another department, "discovered" her and told her to stop the nonsense and be herself. She did.

However, she did not wear lace gowns or Spanish combs to the office. Neither did she masquerade in a man's collar and tie. She wore plain though smart tailored woman's clothes that were becoming as well as appropriate. She coming, as well as appropriate. She was never flirtatious, nor did she ob-trude her sex. But she had sense enough to put no damper on her personality. She was "strictly business" at the same time that she remained a very attrac-tive young woman. And she made good. And that is the happy medium which any girl ought to and can observe.

orrespondence department she tied her pretty hair into a tight knot on top of her head, wore disfiguring tortoise shell glasses and was almost afraid to smile.

Adventures With a Purse

TAVE you ever watched anybody H smoke a cigarette in a holder Down, down burns that glowing end the smoker almost always unmindful until getting the burnt end out of the holder seems a hopeless task. Generally you are asked to come to the rescue with a hairpin. But there are holders you know, rather new, I understand, that have a spring in them. One might also call it a plunger. When the cigarette is finished, one merely pushes the end of the holder that goes in the mouth and the burnt end is forcibly and satisfactorily ejected. Isn't that a good idea? These holders come in white with colored ends. Then there was one very striking black one with silver decora-The price of the holders are $

Suggestion No. 2

from the Ice Box "Don't take a chance-take ICE. Changing temperatures quickly spoil food. My temperature is 40 degrees and I will keep your foods pure and wholesome until used. But you must keep me filled with ICE."

> Yours for health, R. E. Frigerator

$1.25 a pound A brand new package of old favorites which have been found to be most in demand in the Huyler stores. Honey Nougat Asstd. Caramels Burnt Almonds Spiced Strings Cream Pepps Jordan Almonds Assorted Chocolates

1320 Chestnut Street

Special this week: Caramels

Woman's Eyes Do you drink

OR JUST TEA?

There's a distinct difference in favor of "Salada"

ASCO

Lowest Egg Prices in Years! A Total Reduction of Seventeen Cents

ASCO

GoldSealEggs

per Dozen in Eleven Days!

Big and full—the very finest of the new-laid eggs.

Fresh Eggs

Guaranteed positively fresh. Asco Stores Are Headquarters for

Quality Butter and Eggs

Asco Stores are located all over Philadelphia, and throughout Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland.

ASCO

A special message to the women of Philadelphia

TF YOU could spend a day going around among our farmers, receiving stations and city dairies, you would be amazed at the precaution we take to insure the healthfulness of Abbotts "A" Milk.

When the milk reaches our country receiving stations we carefully test it in our laboratory to make sure that it meets the Abbotts "A" standard. This is really the "silent test" of healthfulness. For unless the farmer has taken every precau-

But Abbotts Laboratory Control does not stop there. The milk is rushed into our large city dairies where every act of pasteurizing, clarifying and bottling is under the personal direction of our tion it will not pass the severe tests we give it.

own bacteriologist. Our Laboratory Control starts right at the farm and ends when the milk is delirared to your doorstep in the morning.

A 'phone call to Baring 0205 will Ling a bottle to your house tomorrow morning. ABBOTTS ALDERNEY DAIRIES, INC.

"Milk suppliers to critical buyers" Philadelphia Atlantic City Ocean City Pleasantville Wildwood

