Crang intend to go with his insane jealousy? How far would Crang dare to go? The man wasn't doped tonight. Perhaps he was even the more danger-ous on that account. Instead of mouth-ing threats, there was something omi-nous now, it seemed, in the man's silence. John Bruce's lips drew together. He remembered Claire's insistence that Crang had meant what he said literally --and Claire had repeated that warning over the telephone. Well, if she were right, it meant--murder. From under his half-closed lids, John HE LOOKED around him. There seemed to be something hollow to-

An augry purple clouded the pallor of his face. "More of that have stuff, sh? Well, by God, here's the end of it! I'll teach you with your damned sanc-timonious airs to fool around the girl I'm going to marry! You sniveling hypocrite, you didn't tell her who you were, did you?" John Bruce stared blankly. Mrs. Margaret Farmer, 6046 Mag-nolia avenue, suffering from injuries received from a fall in which she frac-tured her skull, died today in the Ger-mantown Hospital, where she was taken on the night of February 26 by two unidentified young men. They told phy-sicians that they found her lying un-conscious on the pavement.

John Bruce did not wait for more. John Bruce did not wait for more. It was Veniza probably—a turn for the worse. He nodded, and passed hur-riedly along the hall to where, near the door, a poorly dressed man, hat in hand and apparently somewhat ill at ease in his luxurious surroundings, stood waiting. "Wait! Don't piny the tool." "Wait! Don't piny the tool." of what he took to be common sense whispered to him. The car began to go slower. It swerved twice as though making sharp turns; and then, running still more showly, began to bump over rough round. "Wait! Don't piny the tool." slowly, began to bump over rough ground. Crang spoke again. "You can make all the noise you want to, if you think it will do you any good." he said victously; "but if you make a more you are not told to make you'll be carried the rest of the way! Understand?" John Bruce turned abruptly, secured his coat and hat, motioned the man to lead the way, and followed the other out of the house and down the steps to the sidewalk.

to the sidewalk. The traveling pawn-shop was at the curb. The man opened the door, and John Bruce stepped inside—and was instantly flung violently down upon a seat. The door closed. The car started forward. And in a sudden glare of light John Bruce stared into the muzzle of a revolver, and, behind the revolver. of a revolver, and, behind the revolver, of a bruised and battered face, which was the face of Doctor Craug.

oes Down: Quality Stays Up

You now can buy the Overland for $550. An Overland complete with every accessory: starter; speedometer; electric horn; lights; tire carrier, etc.-all for $550.

The comfortable riding qualities of the Overland can be compared only with those of higher priced cars, for its spring base is 130 inches long-longer than the wheel base of most large heavy cars.

This same long spring base that guards your body and nerves from jolts and jars, also protects the motor and chassis.

And remember this, please. Its 27horsepower motor drives the Overland farther on a gallon of gas than any other car. Owners report 25 miles average.

Touring $550, Roadster $550, Coupe $850, Sedan $895; f.o.b. Toledo.
