Jocking, and have you seen the perterily stunning get-up she has this winter? I saw her one day this week wearing a top coat of black sealskin, made with a wide collar and cuffs of chinchills fur that was most becoming, and she had the darlingest hat. It was tark blue and was lined with a bright sed, and from either side of the brim bell bunches of bright red cherries.

THE John Platts are back from their I wedding trip and have moved into their country house at Paoli. You know Mr. Platt has a town house on De Lancey street, too, but I suppose as it is March already, they did not think it worth while to stay in town for just a month. Mrs. Platt was Mary Page and they were married on the fifteenth of last month. Mary is a sister of Edith Page who is to be married on the twenty-second of April to Jack Starr.

The little Platt boy, Mary's stepson, is the dearest thing, I quite lost my heart to him at the wedding. He had the cutest blue coat and leggings and cap all trimmed with squirrel fur. He was there with his nurse and he was so interested in all that was going on. He's a darling and very delighted over TUNIOR was sent to the store the other morning on an errand for mother, and came back with thirty-one cents in his small pocket, and for some reason mother forgot to ask for the change. On his way home from school (Junior is now six, you know, and goes to school), he stopped at the Nice Man's store at the corner and bought a bag of joily eggs, a wee box of checolates and was ordering ten cents worth of fudge, when the Nice Man said: "Junior, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. SYMPHONY IN COLORS

AYETY, sadness, longing, romance, adoration—all the changing moods of an artist's soul—are expressed in the blending of sound of the blending of sounds that make the great musical symphonies or in the colors piled on canvas to make masterpieces in painting.

Just as music affects our senses, so it is with colorseither can lull'and comfort or have the opposite effect. The great over-powering symphony would be too disquieting for daily hearing. The cheap, tinkling melody wearies us with repetitions.

Perhaps what to you is the sweetest music in the world is to another just music. What to you is a blending of colors exactly as you like them is to another just so many colors put together-not a symphony, Each of us has a preference.

And it is to suit these varied preferences that the garments of De MAY the couturier, the artist creator, are in a great variety of colors this year-coats, capes and wraps in exquisite harmonious chords of color, each blended into one definite color motif.
