Nancy Wynne Tells of Colonial Dames Meeting at Chapter Rooms—She Sees Smart Clothes on Chestnut Street—Concert for Legion's Unemployed

A VERY interesting conference of the Colonial Dames of America, Chapter 2, Philadelphia, was held in the chapter rooms at 400 Locust street yesterday afternoon. Visiting Dames from New York, Baltimore and Washington were there and Mrs. William Savage gave a luncheon for them before the conference. Mrs. Cheesemen, president of the parent society in New York, presided at the meeting. Tea was served later in the afternoon.

I SAW Mary Glendinning and Pauline Arey Rollins on Chestnut street yesterday. They were not together, but it happens I saw them both on my way down the street. Mary wore a very good-looking suit of gray tweed and a squirrel scarf. Her stockings were gray silk and her shoes were gray suede with a band of black across the instep. Her hat was a small model of black silk.

Mrs. Rollins wore a coat of moleskin and her hat was a perfectly huge one of black, the brim about ten inches wide and the crown had a wide band of black velvet, with a large bow on the brim, which has long ends hanging down to the waist. Pauline Rollins is awfully pretty with fair hair and bright color. I expect she will be having a part in "Why Not 1022." She was in the famous bathing suit chorus last year and in the Quaker maids in "The Marriage Tax" too. She dances beautifully and has a lot of pep.

I HEAR the Robert C. Leaming Montgomerys are coming back to this country in May. They have been in Italy since November and have had a perfectly beautiful time. I understand they will be in Paris for some weeks before coming back and I feel sure that Helen Hope will be fitted out with a wonderful lot of lovely French frocks for her debut next year.

The John Newbolds are sailing this month. They have been in Rome most of the winter, too, and have had a glorious time. There are so many people over there that they know, some relatives among them. Their daughter, Virginia, is with them and Mrs. Newbold's mother, Mrs. Mason Campbell. I suppose both the Newbolds and Montgomerys attended the coronation ceremonies at the Vatican. It was quite a wonderful time to be spending the winter in Rome, was it not?

I WAS rather interested the other day to hear of the concert which is to be given in the Bellevue-Stratford ballroom on March 29 for the benefit of the Committee on Unemployment. That is for that committee of the American Legion's work. The concert will also mark the debut of little Sally Caskin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Langdon Caskin in the concert world. The child is only twelve and has been studying music for six years. And her program will include Bach, Mozart, Chopin, MacDowell, Borodine, Liadow and Debussy. Sounds like some prodigy!

Among those who have boxes for the performance are Mr. Coleman du Pont, Mrs. Thomas G. Ashton, Miss Elizabeth Latta, Mr. Morris Wood and Hans Kindler.

SMALL Emily was walking with mother in the early evening recently when down the street on the edge of the horizon could be seen the outline of the rising full moon already shining bright and wonderful. "Isn't the moon beautiful," sa'd mother, to her three-year-old daughter, who replied enthusiastically: "Awful boodful and they hasn't sliced it yet, either."

NANCY WYNNE.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

At the marriage of Miss Edith Nelson Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wurts Page, of 1019 Clinton street, and Dr. Isaac Starr, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Starr, of Stenton avenue, Chestnut Hill, which will take place on Saturday afternoon, April 22, at 4 o'clock, at old St. Peter's Church, Third and Pine streets, Miss Evelyn Byrd Page, sister of the bride, will be the maid of honor, and Mrs. John O.
