Chicago Club for the 1922 American League Competition Is Not a Healthy-Looking Outfit

CHISOX WILL PLAY ONLY A MINOR PART IN RACE THIS YEAR

Rough Journey Predicted for Kid Gleason's Club in the Coming American League Campaign. Training Season Has Not Been Successful

By ROBERT W. MAXWELL

Sports Editor Evening Public Ledger

Seguin, Tex., March 18. THE 1921 edition of the Chicago White Sox will be seen again in all American League cities in 1922. A few new names may appear in the cast of characters, but they procably will play miner roles. Kid Gleason will have on his hands the same club that finished seventh last year, but the scrappy, hard-working manager is not dismayed. He has hopes of boosting his team a couple of notches higher in the race. Hope is a great thing in

The training season down here has not been what one might call a howling success. Some of the athletes were holdouts, others were too sick to leave the homestead and a few were permitted to report late. Sheely and Red Mulligan were holdouts for some reason or other. Ernie Johnson was taken sick when it came time to leave for Seguin and, when infield practice was called, the only thing that interfered was the fact that there was no infield.

Strange as it may seem, there were but two rookie candidates for the infield jobs. Harold Bubser, of Cedar Rapids, was said to be a first baseman when shipped here, but failed to prove it. Ostergard, who played with Sioux City last year, is a fair third baseman, and that lets him out. This was the infield the first week, if it could be called such.

In other training camps we have visited thus far there has been an abundance of raw material. If one position was vacant, a dozen men were out every day trying to win it. McGraw had a couple of dozen men fighting for one job. Robinson needs one pitcher and hauled fourteen to Jacksonville for Down here there are a dozen pitchers, including the regulars of last year. three rookie outfielders and two catchers, Schalk and Yaryan. There were three at the start, but Graham, who was with Sioux City last year, broke his thumb soon after he arrived, and the receiving had to be done by the veteran-.

THIS is not a healthy-looking outfit, and good ball players either are very hard to get or Comiskey is working on a big deal which will bring some stars to the White Sor. Those are the only reasons we

Dick Kerr Is a Holdout

THE pitching department is considered most important, and the veterans of last year are expected to kick in with some very good work. If they don't, it won't be their fault, for they did everything possible during the winter to help them in their chosen profession.

Urban Faber, the moist heaver from Cascade, Iown, went into a hospital and had his knee operated upon. Wilkinson, who is starting his third year with the Sox, had his tonsils removed and Prof. Hodge is minus his appendix. In addition to this, Dick Kerr decided to improve his financial condition and became a holdout. Thus four of the old stand-bys have been doing the best

Faber won twenty-five games last year, which was a wonderful per formance with that ball club. He was out the last six weeks of the season or his record probably would have reached thirty. Red looks good this year, and Gleason says he has more stuff than ever before. Hodge, Wilkinson and McWeeney are due this season, and Gleason believes they will show a great im-

Jose Acosta, the Cubanola curver, is down here, having been taken from Connie Mack at the waiver price. Jose is a good pitcher. He has a great fast ball, a very good curve and excellent control. Nobody can explain why Connie let him go. Acosta will win a lot of ball games. Of the new hurlers, John Russell has all the earmarks of a vegular. John is a southpaw and joined the Sox last August. He pitched in the winter league in California and won five and lost one. He has taken off about twenty pounds, and as a result is a better athlete. He is booked for first-string Leverette comes from Fort Smith, Ark., and made a bit in the early practice. He is tall and thin, has had little experience and it is doubtful if will linger. He has a nice fast ball, but no curve.

Davenport, the lanky left-hander, has lots of stuff, but no control. If he ever learns where to throw the ball, he will be a valuable asset. Dudley Thompson, another southpaw, shows promise, and Elmer Cox, who purchased his release from the Richmond club so he could join the Sox, is likely to stick.

THAT'S all there is: there isn't any more—worth mentioning.

Outfield Regulars All Are Stars THE outfield will consist of Hooper, Strunk, Falk and Johnny Most, ▲ There is no chance to lift any member of this quartet out of the line-up unless the player is sold or traded. Hooper and Strunk have been here more than a week and are in championship form right now. Elmer Leifer, of Moose Jaw, is a candidate, which means nothing. Eddie Rafferty, a semi-pro from Chicago, is a hard worker, but needs more experience. Ralph Bermele, one of Chicago's bravest firemen, has shown quite a little natural ability and may develop into a high-class outfielder after year or so in the brush.

Sheeley will be back at first base, and Gleason believes he is one of the best in the business. "You never see a ball go past him." said the Kid. "and his fielding always is good. He hits all kinds of pitching and is not the slowest man in the league. I'm glad we have him."

Eddie Collins will do the second-basing in his usual high-class manner and Ernie Johnson will take care of the short field. Red Mulligan and Harvey McClellan will battle again for the third base job. Unless some more catchers are captured. Ray Schalk will have to do moof the catching, with Yaryan as his first and only assistant.

THE White Sox do not look very formidable this year. Other clair apparently have been strengthened, and Gleason and his aide Johnny Evers, are slated for a rough journey. Copyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Company

By SANDY MeNIBLICK DRINCETON'S golf prospects are about the most promising it's pos-sible to dig up around the campuses for the coming season.

The Tigers will lose the valuable services of J. Simpson Dean, the curlyheaded Dixie divoteer, but the team this year falls heir from the freshman class to Rudy Knepper, who ranks in the first ten American amateurs and is surely the strongest lead-off man any Eastern college will be able to provide Knepper was runner-up to Evans in the Western amateur last summer, after being the medalist. With three years ahead on the links for Princeton, Knepper is expected to mow them all down. Princeton also will have three veterans of last year's star team. Captain Bob Wintringer will very likely play No. 2 to Knepper, with Ed Carruth and Bill Sparks next in line.

Cresswell Up

A Philadelphia boy has better than an even chance to land on the varsity. Which brings forward Donald Cresswell. He learned his golf here at Huntingdon Valley under Davie Cuth-bert and enters local events from the Noble Club. In 1920 he won his first tournament, the St. Martins cup event, and last year went to the finals.

He was medalist with a 73 or something at Philmont in the local junior championship last year. Cresswell captained the freshman team at Princeton last year. He may appear here soon wearing the Orange and Black, as it were, for the Princeton team is due for a tilt with Merion on the east course in the early part of the senson.
