

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTE BOOK
By Les Pape

Pop was thinking and I was doing my lesson against my will and the fellow started to waltz for me outside and I sed, Sherry, my lesson are all done, can I go out for about 15 minutes or a hour, pop?

You say your lesson are done? sed Pop?

You sir, I sed, and pop sed, But are they well done?

Yes sir, perfectly, I sed, and pop sed, I'm glad to hear it but sorry to doubt it; hand me your list of history questions.

Me thinking, Aw heck. And I handed my homework book with the questions rote in and pop started to hear my history, saying, Wat did Balboa do, and wen?

He was a Spaniard, I sed.

Well, we went back that against him, and pop sed, Well, well, wat did he do and wen?

Do you mean wen did he do it? I sed.

I dont mean a thing, wat did he do and wen, the name of the gentleman under discussion is Balboa, in case you have forgotten that minor detail, sed Pop.

He discovered something, I sed.

Ah, the safety razor, perhaps, sed pop, and I sed, No sir, and he didnt discover America, either, Columbus discovered America in 1492, thata wat Columbus did and wen.

Yes, and it was quite sporty of him too, but speaking of Balboa, how about him, and wen? sed pop.

Aw G, pop, thata the very question I didnt know, I sed.

Id never of guessed it, do your lesson, sed pop. And he threw the book back to me and I didnt say anything more about going out, and neither did pop.

LEAVES SUMS TO CHARITY

Mary Callahan Will Enriches Two Catholic Institutions

The Catholic Home and the House of the Good Shepherd will receive $1000 each under the terms of the will of Mary Callahan, 1514 North Fifteenth street, whose will was probated today. She leaves an estate valued at $11,000 and the residue will go to relatives.

Other wills probated are those of Catherine Dietz, 1124 Venango street, $46,000, and Ida E. Kaiser, 1704 Wallace street, $25,500. An inventory in the personal estate of Stanley B. Hadcock, Jr., valued at $62,221.50, was filed.

Business Men to Organize

The South Philadelphia Business Association, an organization long quiet, will be revived at a meeting tonight at 7700th street and Market avenue. Officers will be elected and an effort begun to re-cast the old membership of some 700 merchants.

THE CHARACTER OF THE CAR MAY BE READ IN THE LINES

There is something in the mere appearance of the Pierce-Arrow that inspires your confidence and admiration. In it one sees the uncommon car, just as one reads character in the face of a forceful and resourceful man. Such power and elasticity could not be housed in the body of a car and not show through and reveal itself in lines and presence as well as in performance and responsiveness. The Pierce-Arrow looks the part it plays.

The Pick-up!

proves two things for ATLANTIC

The spurt! Those tense moments when you jam down the accelerator, grip the wheel and lean forward with an extra urge to your motor to pick up and go!

That's when you realize the importance of a gasoline having the quality for quick action plus the quality for sustained, road-conquering power. That's when you'll fully appreciate Atlantic. For Atlantic has both these qualities in definite and unmistakable measure.

Atlantic strikes a scientific balance between quick-acting volatility and power-producing stability unequalled for uniform accuracy and efficiency in any other gasoline you can buy.

The unceasing laboratory research behind it, the steady improvements in the methods by which it is refined, and the constant operating tests conducted with it, keep Atlantic moving with the progress in automotive construction and assure you a fuel for your motor that is unquestionably RIGHT.
