

BAUMGARTNER NOW IN GREAT FETTLE

Orthopedic Treatment Responsible for Recovery of South-paw's Hurling Arm

CONTROL SEEMS PERFECT

By EDWIN J. POLLOCK. During last training season, various managers of the Phillies have wondered if Stanwood Baumgartner was good enough to carry throughout the championship campaign.

At week's ago Baumgartner was complaining of a sore arm, and Wilhelm was gambling half aloud that pitchers down here a month almost should be in condition.

It looked like the final test against Dayton on Saturday. Baumgartner's answer to the examination was four innings of splendid throwing.

His control seemed perfect, although he was in opposition with a book. The batter didn't go after the curve, and the only pass of the four frames resulted in a walk.

Left-hand hitters were being pitched to, but there were only four balls hit beyond the infield. Two were flies, another was a grounder that took a bad hop past Rupp for a single and the fourth was a clean hit.

But his work in the box didn't carry him over there that his words did after the game. "My arm never felt better in my life," he told Wilhelm. "A week ago I couldn't lift it after warming up, but now, after pitching four innings, I haven't a bit of pain."

Orthopedic treatments administered by Dr. William B. Brandt, who has been with the Phillies for the last two weeks, have been responsible for the recovery of Baumgartner's arm. Previous to Dr. Brandt's arrival the south-paw had been having his shoulder rubbed daily and various kinds of liniment applied, but no improvement was noted.

Baumgartner's trouble was not in his arm or shoulder, said Dr. Brandt, "although that is where he felt the pain and the muscular numbness. Interference with the nerves emanating from the spinal cord at the base of the neck constituted the real cause of his difficulties. The trouble was with his spine, and correction of this spinal condition naturally made his arm as good as new."

The original trouble was probably a strain at the base of his neck as a result of exposure following a hard winter. Or perhaps the muscles of his neck were weakened by the result of the immobilization or locking of three or four joints.

This condition prevented the nerves and spinal cord from getting normal nourishment or drainage. The nerves were literally starving and being pinched at the same time. Naturally, the region supplied by those nerves was hampered in its motion and seemed to be at a standstill since those nerves supplied his arm, which was more strained than any other part of his body.

BOTH MACK TEAMS WIN BY BIG SCORES

First Team Shuts Out San Antonio, 15-0—Rookies Cop by 9-to-1 Count

Special Dispatch to Evening Public Ledger. Galveston, Tex., March 27.—Connie Mack and his first string club, headed by the veteran, Danny Murphy, pulled into this city today, slated with its work of Sunday against the San Antonio club and fully confident of slipping the same dose to the St. Louis Cardinals here this afternoon.

While Team No. 1 of the House of Mack was slambanging the San Antonio pitchers, all over the lot to the tune of 15 to 0, the second stringers were showing winning form in the get-away game at Eagle Pass, 9 to 1.

Ed Rommel and Rollie Naylor did the shut-out hurling in the San Antonio game, and Eckert and O'Neill were the brilliant boxmen for the rookies. As in the contest with the border town aggregation, Tilly Walker slammed the pellet for the first team, while Bing Miller biffed the ball for Team No. 2.

On Saturday San Antonio held the Mackmen to an extra inning tie. Yesterday there was nothing to it. Walker's slugging was the big feature. He came up over the top and, once, hit four clean singles and wound up on his last appearance with a homer over the left field fence, bringing in two runners ahead of him. In all, he knocked in four runs and scored four himself.

Welch was responsible for two runs besides the three he scored himself, so that he and Walker did about as well as they could. Welch also poked a homer.

It was easy for the Athletics from the start. Rommel put the screws on in the second, the only innings the Bears threatened, by striking out the last man after the first two up had hit. He was back at the end of his four-inning shift.

Naylor was even stinger with hits, not allowing a safe ball until two outs in the ninth, when two Bears singled. Both fanned for the last out. Naylor walked three in the next, but pulled out nicely.

3 POUNDS AT BIRTH, NOW WATER STAR

Dorothy Hucknall, Thirteen Years of Age, Most Promising of Mermaids

WATER PITCHER A CRADLE

When little Dorothy Hucknall first saw the light of day she weighed but three pounds, and was carried to her mother in a cut-glass pitcher, her eyes barely peeping over the top. Thus it can be seen that "Dorothy" did not have a very good start in this world.

At the time of Dorothy's birth the doctor on the case shook his head and doubted the possibility of rearing the child. But she was reared and, with set aid of her mother, stands a sure bet to become a champion swimmer.

Dorothy Hucknall is a local mermaid, living in Germantown, but when swimming she wears the colors of the Ambassador Swimming Club, of Atlantic City. The pitcher which was her first cradle stands as a shelf in her parents' home at 4656 Morris street, and along with it are several medals and other trophies which she has won in the swimming pool.

Also Fancy Diver. Her career as a water sprite started less than four years ago, but today at the age of thirteen she is successfully competing against much older opponents, and swims the crawl, breast and back strokes, and Atlantic City.

She won her first medal in a sixty-yard dash for girls under twelve. At this meet she also won the fancy-diving competition.

Miss Hucknall continued to enter meets in this city and brought home several trophies, sometimes a medal and other times a cup, until coaches began to think of her as a future champion.

She won honors in the Germantown Cricket Club, Kensington Y. W. C. A., Germantown Y. W. C. A., and the Columbia Pool.

Later Dorothy introduced herself to Atlantic City when the life guards held an exhibition there. In a forty-yard scratch race she led her first opponent, to be beaten only by Doris Welton.

Later she won honors in the Ambassador and Hygea pools. Beatie Ryan's Protege. Miss Hucknall is a protegee of Beatie Ryan, also a local swimmer, who wears the colors of the Atlantic City Club.

GIVES VETERANS A RUN AFTER TREMAINE AGAIN. JOE O'DONNELL IS AS GRITTY A GLOVEMAN AS HIS CAREER EVER HAS KNOWN.

JOE O'DONNELL IS AS GRITTY A GLOVEMAN AS HIS CAREER EVER HAS KNOWN. Early in his career, after the Gloucester fighter had scored half a dozen knockouts in a row and then was sent against top-notch talent.

Then last summer Joseph suffered a broken arm during a match with Danny Kramer at Atlantic City. After this accident, Joe himself decided that he would curtail his boxing career.

However, while recuperating at Pleasantville, N. J., the Gloucester glove man's arm for the Boston fight was made him take the count, and he went back at slinging his fists.

What was expected to be a set-up for Joe Welch at the National on Saturday night, even though he did knock out Jack La Belle, in the eighth round, La Belle stepped in at the eleventh hour as a substitute for Hymie Gold, who the doctor would not pass, owing to illness.

It was tough to get at the shots sometimes, but a couple of buttons of his pants and got a few kickings for crawling onto the table with his cue. "But pretty soon he began to show some class."

Strong Baseball Team is Ready for Season, Which Starts April 7

TO HOLD TRACK SPORTS

By PAUL PREP. WILMINGTON HIGH SCHOOL will have a veteran baseball team this season. With one exception, every member of this year's nine played last season.

Coach Ashton has been holding practices every day weather has permitted. And it is safe to say that he is going to have a winning nine this year. Besides the number of veterans, a wealth of new material has reported, and every one will have to step fast to keep his position.

However, it is doubtful if any one of the members of last year's team will be ousted from his position. All of the veterans are good players and will be kept in the line-up.

A large schedule has been arranged and many stiff games are on the card. The season will open April 7 and will close June 9. The schedule follows:

April 7, Fenwick High, home; 14, Villanova, away; 15, Golden College, home; 16, Woodbury High, home; 17, Ridley Park High, away; 18, Coatesville High, away; 19, Chester High, home; 20, Williamstown High, home; 21, Haddon Heights High, home; 22, Temple University, away; 23, Chester High, away; 24, West Chester High, away; 25, Haverhill High, away; 26, Haverhill High, away; 27, West Chester High, home; 28, Chester High, home.

Assistant Coach Brown is going to make an attempt to revive track sports at Wilmington this season through inter-class games.

Many College Nines To Open This Week. The Eastern collegiate baseball season will get off to a grand start during the coming week, and by next Saturday approximately twenty nines will have begun their 1922 campaigns.

Three Penn Relays. The feature attraction of the week should be the contest between the Fordham and Penn here on Saturday. Fordham scored victories over such nines as Georgetown, Yale and Boston College last year and the team is practically the same as last season.

DON HEAD BETTER MAY RACE ABROAD

Penn Relay Coach Rudies That Runner is Recovering Rapidly From Boil Operation

PENN CHANCES DISCUSSED

Don Head, the Penn relay runner, at sea, who was operated on for blood poisoning from a boil, is recovering rapidly and may be able to run in the English relays in London next month.

This is the information in an interpretation of a radiogram received today by E. R. Bushnell, graduate manager of athletics at the University of Pennsylvania.

The radiogram was sent from the steamship Aquitania, on which the Penn relay team sailed, and was signed by Lawrence Robertson, the coach. It said: "Don Head's condition satisfactory; recovering rapidly. L. R."

A boil which caused much swelling on his leg was giving him a great deal of trouble when Head boarded the ship with the rest of the team. On Wednesday blood poisoning developed, but the only word received here was that an operation was performed. The radiogram dated yesterday is interpreted by Bushnell to mean that the operation performed by the ship's surgeon was merely the lancing of the boil on Head's leg.

Bushnell figures that Head's condition on Sunday shows that he will be able to run in England. He is none too optimistic about Penn's chances.

From Cambridge's showing at Oxford Saturday, Penn will have to be in the pink of condition to win," said Bushnell today. "They will have to run in American form despite the difference in climatic and other conditions over there."
