

Washington Looks Like Third-Position Team, if Not Better, This Year, Says Bob Maxwell

SENATORS SHOULD BE IN RUNNING FOR FLAG; TEAM STRENGTHENED

Acquisition of Peckinpugh Balances Infield and Griff's Inner Works Look Like Class of the League. Woodward, Former Phillie, Looks Good

WASHINGTON'S entry in the American League will be among those present and voting on and after April 12, 1922. The ball club is going good down here and the players are deriving great benefit from the exhibition hits with the Boston Braves. Manager Clyde Milan and his boss, Clark Griffith, are lucky to have such competition so early in the year, as the Braves are as strong as any club in the National League and furnish real big-league opposition.

CLYDE MILAN

Joe Dugan, Frank O'Neil, Bing Miller and Joe Aros are used in the transaction, to say nothing of $50,000 cash in hand. Nobody knows who got the dough and nobody cares. Frazee, Connie Mack and Griffith were perfectly satisfied, or words to that effect.

But the acquisition of Peck just about made the ball club. The Senators have been weak at short for many years and did not seem to be able to land a star performer. Many were tried and found guilty before Pecklin.

Shanks form a stone-wall defense and they also can kick in with a strong attack. The quartet will average better than .300 in hitting.

To my mind, this is the best infield in the American League. In fact, there should be no argument about it. Judge, Harris, Peck and Shanks are not the equal of Collins and Fudge probably would be ranked below Everett Scott, but Shanks is about as good a third baseman as one will find in the league. No matter how they compare with stars on other clubs, the fact remains they are all on one club and form a well-balanced, effective infield.

The inner works will play such a defensive game that the pitchers will have more confidence in themselves and mediocre performers are likely to be as effective as stars. Give a hurler good support and he will improve at least 50 per cent. That is the logic of John McGraw, and it also applies here.

Clyde Milan has been working hard with his pitching staff. He has some ideas all his own about getting the men in shape and is trying them out, despite the presence of President Griffith. Griff is giving his manager a free rein and is not interfering.

Milan does not believe in allowing the veterans to get in condition slowly. He believes every man should be ready to take his turn in the box when the team leaves here and no exceptions have been made. Walter Johnson was able to take things easy, but that was because he contracted a mild case of the flu and did not recover until a week ago.

Johnson, who now is thirty-four years old, is expected to win a lot of games this year. His arm is strong again and his knowledge of American League batters will keep him in the front rank of premier hurlers. George Meigs, two years younger, has been stalling his southpaw slants across the plate in his old-time form and he, too, is expected to pitch winning ball.

OTHER veterans are Zachary, Erickson and Courtney. The latter looks better than ever before and shows a great improvement over last year's form.

Woodward to Star in Big Show

FRANK WOODWARD, who usually lands in New Haven after taking a trip into the fast set, is one of the most promising of the new hurlers. Frank started with Philadelphia in 1918, but couldn't linger. Two years later he was with the St. Louis Cards and failed to gain the decision. He went back to New Haven, his home town, and stayed there until a Washington scout discovered him.

Woodward is a good pitcher if he cares to be. He never has taken the game seriously, but Griff says he has reformed. If such is the case he will be a valuable man and strengthen the club.

Ray Francis is a southpaw who was with the club last year. He looks good down here and will be retained. Joe Gleason, a right hander from Shreveport, also will stay in the club. Tom Phillips, who holds in New Orleans last season, is considered good enough to keep on the payroll. This makes a total of nine pitchers for the varsity.

W. McGraw, who is a long, lanky right-hander and answers to the name of "Dangerous Dan," is going away and will be accompanied by Ed Digges and Benson Brillhart. Benson is the best of the bunch and is not being changed to the alfafe because he is short on ability. The kid is one of the best-looking left-handers Griffith has seen, but he needs some experience. Instead of having a string on him, Griff will use a rope.

The outfield will consist of Manager Milan, Sam Wood, Leon Goslin, Ed Goebel and Earl Smith. They are great fly chasers, good hitters and rank with the best suburban guardians. The only criticism is that only one bat from the left side of the plate. Goebel is the only right-handed hitter.

Just the same, the outfield will hit around the 300 mark. The infield also will do its share and Garzity, Picinich and Torres will help the cause along with their work behind the plate. And the pitching should be above the average.

WASHINGTON should not finish worse than third, and may come closer to the top.

Copyright, 1922, by Public Ledger Company

Second call on Jockey Earl Pool for the Kentucky season has been obtained by Montfort Jones through Trainer Earl Spence. The latter is making an effort to land Jockey Mack Garner under contract to J. C. Milan, in the same manner. Pool is under engagement to the Florissant Stables.

John E. Madden is spending more time than usual around his stable this spring, and it is rumored that he has secured important thoroughbred breeding. Trainer "Chuck" Walker has given all his charges ample opportunities to disclose their ability, and several have found their way back to the farm because of their failure to measure up to expectations. The Madden barn now numbers nearly forty horses, and all are ready to race.

Bob Smith, who is dividing his attention between Bowie and Havre de Grace, has begun to work the W. M. Morris horse. This stable has a Derby and Preakness eligible in Macdonald, a son of Metcalf and Stolen also, who only raced once as a two-year-old. There is little chance now for him in either of these stakes. Two runs and Routledge were on the farm last spring. Both look well.

Now my idea is to read the hand book by inquiring Philadelphia on subjects they know best. This is the first one of the series. It is a book, a book.

Read the hand book by inquiring Philadelphia on subjects they know best. This is the first one of the series. It is a book, a book.

Read the hand book by inquiring Philadelphia on subjects they know best. This is the first one of the series. It is a book, a book.

Read the hand book by inquiring Philadelphia on subjects they know best. This is the first one of the series. It is a book, a book.

Read the hand book by inquiring Philadelphia on subjects they know best. This is the first one of the series. It is a book, a book.

Read the hand book by inquiring Philadelphia on subjects they know best. This is the first one of the series. It is a book, a book.

Read the hand book by inquiring Philadelphia on subjects they know best. This is the first one of the series. It is a book, a book.

WONDER WHAT A FLAPPER THINKS ABOUT?

W. CHESTER HOPES FOR TRACK SUCCESS

Coach Sharron Intends Building Crack Team to Regain Old Laurels

BIG SCHEDULE ARRANGED

By PAUL PREP
WEST CHESTER HIGH SCHOOL is making preparations for a big track season. Coach Sharron intends to build up a team that will live up to the reputation made by the institution in former years, and says that he is confident his team will come through.

Since 1914 West Chester has not been able to win a trophy on the track. Before that, however, many cups and emblems were won.

Captain Bennett says that he will have a real aggregation of cinder-paths under him that will do some fast stepping. He has arranged a large schedule, and as he also manages the team, has had two assistant managers appointed to help him.

The season will be opened with the West Chester High Field Day, April 21. Several dual meets will take place, and the team will be entered in various interscholastic meets. The season will close June 3 at Norristown. The schedule follows:

April 21, West Chester High Field Day; 24th-26th, Penn. State, May 8, Swarthmore; May 12th, Glen Mills, away; 12th (A. C. C.), Chester County, Penn. Festival; 20th, West Chester Normal, home; June 3, Norristown High, away; triannual meet with Coatesville High and Downingtown High pending.

Good Nine at C. H. S.
Dr. Matthew C. O'Brien is confident that his baseball team is going to give the best nine in the Interscholastic League a run before the championship is captured this season. He thinks that he has one of the best teams in years, and everything points to a successful season.

The season was opened with a victory over Penn Charter last Tuesday, in ten innings, credit for the victory is due Fred Kilgman, of last year's Freshman team. He hit a home run in the Babe Ruth of the Freshman League, socking ten home runs.

Central's outfield looks to be as good as any in the league, with the possible exception of West Philadelphia. Although the fielding isn't as good as it might be, the hitting is a feature that can't be overlooked.

The infield is in the best shape possible. With the return of Bill Murphy, last season's third baseman, who covered short against Penn Charter, a gap was filled that was left open by the inability of Lumberg, Malis, Fitzgerald and Kilgman, other infielders.

Central's team played in the Oxford-Cambridge teams over here.

Coach Robertson put us through an intensive workout. There was a large crowd on hand, and we seemed to be the center of attraction. We made our first acquaintance with English slang.

"He's a roarer, y'know, old fruit," we'd hear one remark to another as we sped up and down the cinder path. We are calling each other "old bean" and so forth, finding it quite amusing.

Don Head is taking a cautious workout with us. The trouble from his coach seems to have disappeared, but Coach Robertson is bringing him along slowly. I think he will be able to run, but no forcing will be done to get him quickly up to the mark.

We all think by taking it easy Don will swing around all right for the big race.

Every one is most cordial over here to us. They are doing everything possible to make our visit enjoyable. There seems to be the greatest interest in the coming race, and we are all impressed with the high stage interest in international competition has reached.

We hear they have two special launches for us and that we are to follow the Oxford and Cambridge crews at the boat race next Saturday. They are also arranging trips for us.

We will visit Oxford, Cambridge, Eton and other places of interest next week. We expect to go to Paris later for the French championships.

Our trip would be a failure, it would seem, if we are not to see Paris. We will surely do so if everything can be arranged so that we will get back to Philadelphia in time for the relay carnival on April 23.

Not Fitzgerald, Australian lightweight champion, will meet Roche Roddy, a southpaw, Jack Perry and Billy Devine meet in a bantamweight battle, and Jimmy Gibbons and Willie Moore, rival welterweights, will decide fistie supremacy in the opener.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

A BIG GUY—AND HE'S AFTER JACK

PENN RUNNERS IN HARD WORKOUT

Invading Relayists Train at Queen's Club—Don Head Expected to 'Come Around'

BRITISH SLANG AMUSES

Has Six Players

THEY'RE going to put the "stand stretcher" on Haller Park, Thirteenth and Johnson streets, according to Manager Eddie Gottlieb, of the South Philadelphia Hebrew Association. The Sphas, as they are known, will open their new home on Monday, May 1, with Hilldale.

Workmen will soon go over the stands and make many new additions and the field will be put in shape for the big game. The Sphas will also make their headquarters on the same field.

The playing days of the Sphas will be Monday and Thursdays at twilight and every other Saturday at home. Games will be played away every Sunday. The players have been working out individually for several weeks, but Manager Gottlieb announces official practice on Saturday and Sunday of this week.

A number of star infielders are included. They include Dave "Buck" Shuster, outfielder, from Pleasantville; Goldberg, formerly of the Sphas. Manager Gottlieb has lined up for one of the best hurlers in this section, together with an infielder and a catcher, their identity will be made known in a few days.

Blackburne Free Agent
Russell Blackburne, the former White Sox infielder, whose home is in Palmyra, is at present out of a job. Blackburne managed the Toronto team at the close of last season, and is slightly peeved at the treatment he has been handed by the management.

He brought a club way down in the race well above the 500 mark, and his efforts were rewarded with nothing. Russell naturally has not been on any too good terms with the Toronto management, and the breach between them is not likely to be mended.

He has been offered contracts by Toledo, Milwaukee and the Red Sox. The latter want him as a substitute infielder, but he prefers to play and may consider the Toledo proposition. Blackburne would make a wonderful player for one of the local clubs.

TIGER OARSMEN WORK HARD

Princeton Varsity Eights Get Long Drill in Fundamentals
Princeton, N. J., March 30.—Princeton's two varsity crews, the Orange and the Black, favored by perfect weather conditions, went through one of the longest drills of the season yesterday under the guidance of Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, coach of the Tiger oarsmen.

Dr. Spaeth is still stressing the fundamentals and emphasizing on blade work rather than speed, making up for the lack of the latter by an extra long distance workout.

Every one is most cordial over here to us. They are doing everything possible to make our visit enjoyable. There seems to be the greatest interest in the coming race, and we are all impressed with the high stage interest in international competition has reached.

We hear they have two special launches for us and that we are to follow the Oxford and Cambridge crews at the boat race next Saturday. They are also arranging trips for us.

We will visit Oxford, Cambridge, Eton and other places of interest next week. We expect to go to Paris later for the French championships.

Our trip would be a failure, it would seem, if we are not to see Paris. We will surely do so if everything can be arranged so that we will get back to Philadelphia in time for the relay carnival on April 23.

Not Fitzgerald, Australian lightweight champion, will meet Roche Roddy, a southpaw, Jack Perry and Billy Devine meet in a bantamweight battle, and Jimmy Gibbons and Willie Moore, rival welterweights, will decide fistie supremacy in the opener.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

PASSON AND EVANS SIGNED BY SPHAS

Pair of Well-Known Local Pitchers Will Hurl for Down-towners

RUSSELL BLACKBURNE IS IDLE

THEY'RE going to put the "stand stretcher" on Haller Park, Thirteenth and Johnson streets, according to Manager Eddie Gottlieb, of the South Philadelphia Hebrew Association. The Sphas, as they are known, will open their new home on Monday, May 1, with Hilldale.

Workmen will soon go over the stands and make many new additions and the field will be put in shape for the big game. The Sphas will also make their headquarters on the same field.

The playing days of the Sphas will be Monday and Thursdays at twilight and every other Saturday at home. Games will be played away every Sunday. The players have been working out individually for several weeks, but Manager Gottlieb announces official practice on Saturday and Sunday of this week.

A number of star infielders are included. They include Dave "Buck" Shuster, outfielder, from Pleasantville; Goldberg, formerly of the Sphas. Manager Gottlieb has lined up for one of the best hurlers in this section, together with an infielder and a catcher, their identity will be made known in a few days.

Blackburne Free Agent
Russell Blackburne, the former White Sox infielder, whose home is in Palmyra, is at present out of a job. Blackburne managed the Toronto team at the close of last season, and is slightly peeved at the treatment he has been handed by the management.

He brought a club way down in the race well above the 500 mark, and his efforts were rewarded with nothing. Russell naturally has not been on any too good terms with the Toronto management, and the breach between them is not likely to be mended.

He has been offered contracts by Toledo, Milwaukee and the Red Sox. The latter want him as a substitute infielder, but he prefers to play and may consider the Toledo proposition. Blackburne would make a wonderful player for one of the local clubs.

TIGER OARSMEN WORK HARD

Princeton Varsity Eights Get Long Drill in Fundamentals
Princeton, N. J., March 30.—Princeton's two varsity crews, the Orange and the Black, favored by perfect weather conditions, went through one of the longest drills of the season yesterday under the guidance of Dr. J. Duncan Spaeth, coach of the Tiger oarsmen.

Dr. Spaeth is still stressing the fundamentals and emphasizing on blade work rather than speed, making up for the lack of the latter by an extra long distance workout.

Every one is most cordial over here to us. They are doing everything possible to make our visit enjoyable. There seems to be the greatest interest in the coming race, and we are all impressed with the high stage interest in international competition has reached.

We hear they have two special launches for us and that we are to follow the Oxford and Cambridge crews at the boat race next Saturday. They are also arranging trips for us.

We will visit Oxford, Cambridge, Eton and other places of interest next week. We expect to go to Paris later for the French championships.

Our trip would be a failure, it would seem, if we are not to see Paris. We will surely do so if everything can be arranged so that we will get back to Philadelphia in time for the relay carnival on April 23.

Not Fitzgerald, Australian lightweight champion, will meet Roche Roddy, a southpaw, Jack Perry and Billy Devine meet in a bantamweight battle, and Jimmy Gibbons and Willie Moore, rival welterweights, will decide fistie supremacy in the opener.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion, with George Lawrence, his importer and an ordinary sized man. Tracey was born at Kimberley, South Africa, twenty-four years ago. He not only is the title-holder of Australia, but also knocked all of the heavyweights for loops in New Zealand. Besides his tallness, Tracey weighs 200 pounds, and his bouts in England and Australia stamp him as a knockout puncher. Tracey has arrived in New York, coming across country from San Francisco, and he has gone into training preparatory to making his American debut in New York some time this summer.

Showing the comparison of Jim Tracey, Australia's 6 feet 3-inch heavy-weight champion