

WIFE ILL, HUSBAND REPORTED KILLED

News of Supposed Death of Albert Kinoh Withheld From Her

HAD BEEN DIVORCED

Mrs. Marion Kinoh, of 2122 South 10th street, the mother of three children, lies ill at home ignorant of the fact that death may have terminated an unhappy marriage which was to have been dissolved in the divorce courts.

Word came last night from Jersey City that a man believed to be her husband, Albert Ernest Kinoh, had been killed by a train late Sunday. The news has been withheld from her by her father, Frederick Beckershoff, with whom she and her children live. Mr. Beckershoff does not believe the report, and says he will not add to his daughter's worries by telling her something that may turn out to be untrue.

Kinoh was to have appeared yesterday at Newark, before Vice Chancellor Beckes, to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt for failure to pay the fine. The first report that Kinoh had thrown himself under the train rather than face the Vice Chancellor.

The Jersey City police reported today they did not believe the man was Kinoh, or that his death was a suicide.

With another man, according to the police report, he had left a train at the wrong station in Jersey City, and the two were walking back along the tracks when the victim was struck by a train approaching from the rear. The fatal accident occurred on the tracks of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, at Holliday street.

At the morgue a card was found in the victim's clothing which gave his name as Albert Kinoh, of New Brunswick, Pa. Some people with whom he lived, at 158 Randolph avenue, Jersey City, identified and claimed the body. They said he had no relatives so far as they knew. He is to be buried this afternoon or tomorrow.

The man killed is described as thirty-five or forty years old, five feet six inches tall, weighing about 135 pounds and of unhealthily appearance. He has sandy hair and mustache.

Mr. Beckershoff, Mrs. Kinoh's father, said Kinoh was not the kind of man to kill himself. A telephone call was received from him Sunday saying he would trouble his wife and children no more, but this was not the first time he had sent such a message, according to Mr. Beckershoff.

DEFENDS THOMPSON WILL

Executor in Capitalist's Estate Says No Undue Influence Was Exerted

John Scott, Jr., testified in Orphan's Court today that as executor of the will of William Thompson, deceased capitalist, he had not exercised undue influence or failed in any respect to execute the full terms of the latter's will, as charged by William T. Stevens and other relatives of the testator, who are trying to have the will set aside.

Mr. Thompson, who lived in this city and Alexandria, Pa., died a year ago at the age of ninety-seven, leaving an estate valued at $800,000, $700,000 of which was left to religious and charitable institutions, the remainder being held largely in trust for relatives and friends. The complainants charge that he was of unsound mind at the time of making the will.

A mass of detailed evidence was introduced by Mr. Scott in testimony to prove that the testator was in full possession of all his mental faculties up to the time of his death, and that the power of attorney which the witness has held for Mr. Thompson was assumed with his full consent.

NEW TRAFFIC MEASURE BEFORE COUNCIL TODAY

Expected That Amendments Will Be Made to Meet Objections

The new traffic ordinance drafted by Councilman Von Tagen will be introduced into City Council this afternoon. The bill will be referred to the Public Safety Committee and public hearings on it will be held at dates to be announced later.

Although the details of the new bill were announced only a few days ago, its provisions have aroused considerable opposition. Superintendent Mills, of the Bureau of Police, has declared that the police would have a "mess" on their hands if the Von Tagen ordinance were enforced. Elwood B. Chapman, president of the Chestnut Street Business Men's Association, and the team owners have also expressed opposition to the bill.

It is believed that the bill will be amended to meet the objections before it is passed.

BIG BOSS FOR FAIR IS PLEA OF ROBINS

Chairman of New Commission Says Individual, Responsible Head is Needed

ORGANIZE BODY AT LUNCH

An individual, responsible head for the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition was advocated today by Thomas Robins, chairman of the Independence Celebration Commission, a subdivision of the State Sesqui-Centennial Commission, which held its organizational meeting at noon in the Bellevue-Stratford.

"Every organization needs such a head," said Mr. Robins. "If this is not true, then all of our organizations, beginning with the Government of the United States, are defective."

"But this does not mean that one man can do it all. This great enterprise is an intricate job.

"Any attempt to limit the management of this exhibition to Philadelphia would be a blunder, for it would immediately stamp as local that which should belong to the Commonwealth, the nation and the world."

Goal Should Be Quality

Quality instead of quantity, education instead of diversion, should be the goal of the exhibition, said Mr. Robins, in discussing the forms and character of the Sesqui-Centennial.

"Will the Sesqui-Centennial celebration be a mere repetition of former expositions, or will the changed conditions under which it is to be held induce a novel type, in which diversion will be subordinated to education?"

"There is good reason to believe that those promoting this project have in mind an interesting experiment. Merit size will not be their goal.

"Quality and arrangement will be substituted for quantity. An exhibit will be created by its intrinsic interest and the theme that it will illustrate will be the art of living during the century and a half since 1776."

MAN RUN OVER BY AUTO DIES IN THE HOSPITAL

Driver of Motorcar Gives Himself Up to Police

Thomas Gaffney, fifty-six years old, of 2833 South Holbrook street, died at 2:15 A. M. today in the Methodist Hospital, after having been run over late last night by an automobile driven by David Davis, twenty-one years old, of 2227 South Fourth-street.

Gaffney, who was an employe of the Atlantic Refining Company, was returning home at 11:45 P. M. by way of the Passunk avenue bridge. At the western end of the bridge, as he was crossing the street, he was struck by Davis' machine.

Davis took Gaffney to the Methodist Hospital, where he was found to have a fractured skull and serious contusions. Then Davis gave himself up to the police.

P. R. R. Engineer Maintains Tacony Child Was Struck

Despite the failure of searchers to find a boy's body on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks near Tacony, Charles Stickle, engineer of a New York express train, is still convinced his locomotive struck and killed a boy last Sunday afternoon.

"It was no hallucination; we killed the boy," said the engineer in Jersey City today. "Although we searched half an hour for the body, and it has not yet been found, I am still positive of what I say."

Hundreds of persons have joined in the search at Tacony, canvassing homes and looking along the tracks. Stickle admitted he has no solution to the mystery, but insisted time will prove the truth of his statements.

SEEK CRAZY WOMAN IN KIDNAPPING CASE

Detectives Believe She May Have Carried Off Ida Kramer

MISS TANNENBAUM FREE

Detectives engaged in the search for seven-year-old Ida Kramer, who has been missing from Woodbury, N. J., since last Saturday, are seeking today a slightly demented woman who, it is thought, may have carried off the child. This turn came when the liberation of Esther Tannenbaum from the Woodbury jail last night took her out of the case.

Acting Prosecutor Joseph Lannegan ordered the release of Miss Tannenbaum, convinced that she knows nothing about the disappearance of the Kramer child.

The woman who is now being sought does not live in Woodbury, but for a long time had been in the habit of visiting that town several times a week, one would call often at the store of Isadore Kramer, father of Ida, and would give the child candy and show other indications of interest. On one of her visits she told of having lost a little girl last night, who would have been about Ida's age.

The new theory advanced is that this woman may have taken the child to fill the place of the one who died.

Mr. Lannegan is convinced that Ida Kramer is still alive, and that she is being well treated. He believes that the child will be found soon and near Woodbury. This belief is based upon reports made by the detectives engaged upon the case.

Miss Tannenbaum was reported today to be almost in a state of collapse at her home in Camden.

On her arrival at her home after her release from the Woodbury jail, her condition became so serious that a physician was called. He found that she was suffering from fever and ordered her to bed. Mr. Lannegan thinks that a mistake was made by those who identified Miss Tannenbaum as the woman who was seen riding in a trolley car with a child.

Because Kramer described the woman as having the appearance of a gypsy, a story was circulated today that the child was probably being carried away by a wandering band.

Kramer said the woman was about thirty-five years old and wore a shawl over her shoulders. She was tall, more than usually muscular for a woman and had black hair and eyes. Her general appearance indicated that she was accustomed to spending much time out of doors.

He said that the woman called at his store two days before the kidnapping and manifested much interest in his little daughter.

She was not seen about the store or in Woodbury on Saturday, when the child disappeared.

ON USING GOOD PAPER

THE use of paper for business stationery that confers a certain distinction upon the letters written on it is fortunately becoming more general. It is a part of the newer idea of advertising, that everything about a business that reaches its customers makes some impression. The impression may be bad, good, or merely neutral.

For some time many business houses have found that Crane's Bond expresses the message they want their letters to deliver. They are influenced, no doubt, by the history of Crane's Bond, by its use for so long for so many valuable securities, stock certificates and bonds, but even more they are impressed by its appearance.
