Unsightly eruptions on face—fresh yeast rids you of them

It is well known that blackheads, blackheads (acne) and boils are often caused by errors of diet.

Fleischmann's Yeast is now being recommended for these embarrassing and painful skin troubles because fresh yeast corrects the errors of diet which cause them.

The surgeon of one important New York hospital states: "I have used yeast extensively and found it invaluable in curing boils." When 17 cases of skin blemishes were treated with Fleischmann's Yeast at the hospital in New York and Philadelphia the results were remarkable. A typical case was a young man who had suffered from skin disorders for three years. He ate three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast daily. In five weeks the eruptions had cleared completely.

If you are troubled with eruptions or boils, begin at once to correct them by using 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's fresh yeast daily before or between meals. Secure it at Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar white ball package with the yellow label.

DEBES CONGRESS AND HARDING CLASH

Mondell, Republican House Leader, Declares Relations Are Harmonious

ATTACKS 'CERTAIN WRITERS'

By the Associated Press
 Washington, March 30.—Congress and President Harding are not at loggerheads, despite the impression created by "certain writers and certain newspapers," Representative Mondell, Wyoming, Republican leader, declared today in a statement which he said he had prepared for delivery as an address in the House.

"The fact is that instead of the President and Congress being at loggerheads, as these writers and journals would have the country believe," stated Mr. Mondell, "there never has been a time in my quarter of a century of existence in Congress when the relations between the President and Congress, particularly the House of Representatives, were more pleasant, cordial, sympathetic and harmonious than at the present time."

Recommendations Adopted
 "Any one who will take the trouble to read the recommendations of President Harding to this Congress from time to time and to examine the record of Congress will find that practically all these recommendations have either been written into law or are in process of enactment, and this applies particularly to the record of the House."

The Republican leader said he invited comparison with any period of American history and challenged any one to find a record of "finer relations or more harmonious relations between the President and Congress. There has been a general and substantial record, he added, not only on matters of primary importance, but in the consideration of many questions of policy and detail.

Denies Friction Exists

Declaring that there seemed to be a "systematic attempt" on the part of various newspapers and writers to create the impression that there was friction between the Executive and Republican congressional leaders, Mr. Mondell asserted that "the anti-bonus campaign of certain metropolitan newspapers has given us the most excellent example we have yet had as to the length to which some people are willing to go in a campaign of misrepresentation. Mr. Efforts are also being made, Mr. Mondell declared, to make it appear that there is a wide rift between the President and Republican leaders in Congress over legislation affecting the army and navy.

The Story of Socrates' Horse

"I WAS going to tell you," continued Socrates Horse, "how I came to have a vacation once. As you know, I used to be an Educated Horse in the circus.

"Yes!" cried all the horses, including Mr. and Mrs. George Horse. "You have told us about it enough times, in all conscience.

"I have a right to be proud of the fact," said Socrates Horse with a lofty air. "I have done something more worthy of mention than building cabbages and lima beans around all day for some comical grocery man—put that in your nosebag and chew it.

"And Socrates Horse looked around the assembly as he said to say he'd like to hear them interrupt him again with any side remarks.

"ONE day," continued Socrates Horse, "our circus was playing in Sedalia, Mo. All the little Sedalias as well as the big ones came to watch us perform. They paid more attention to me than to any one else, naturally."

"Corrected wretch," whispered Mrs. George Horse to her husband, who nodded.

"Yes, they watched me during the afternoon performance and I heard them say they were coming back that night to see me again. But just about dusk an enormous windstorm came up and blew our tent flat and all the animals escaped, including the royal Bengal, the man-eating tiger, named All, the giraffe, named Oscar, and myself. Of course, they didn't have nearly so much intelligence as I had, and besides it was somewhat more difficult for them to locate themselves, they were

TO BRING DIER CASE BEFORE GRAND JURY

Broker Seeks to Block Criminal Action by Appeal on Denied Writ

ATTORNEYS CLASH IN N. Y.

Criminal action against the bankrupt brokerage house of E. D. Dier & Co. of this city and New York, whose failure was one of the most sensational of many in the last few months, is promised in New York City within a few days.

District Attorney Joab B. Banton, New York, announced today he will take the matter of the Dier failure up with the new Grand Jury, probably next Tuesday.

E. D. Dier, head of the firm, has endeavored to block this move by bringing suit in United States District Court of New York to prevent the District Attorney from obtaining or the receiver from giving access to the books of the brokerage house.

To that end Dier sought a restraining writ from Judge Learned Hand. The judge refused to grant the petition, and it is expected the rule will be filed today, which would give the District Attorney immediate access to the books.

Might Win Stay
 The only thing that would prevent the District Attorney searching the books for evidence that might be presented to the Grand Jury would be granting of an appeal for review, which would act as a stay until the appeal is decided.

Dier served notice on the District Attorney that he would appeal, and asked Mr. Banton to agree to a stay pending argument. The District Attorney refused.

Manfred Ehrlich, receiver, and Arthur G. Hays, his attorney, both of New York, clashed last night with creditors at a meeting of more than 100 persons who have claims against the Dier company in New York.

Mr. Hays addressed the creditors and told them he is tired of their insinuations that he is not doing all in his power to get their money back.

"We didn't find fifty thousand dollars' worth of assets when we first went into this case," said Mr. Hays, "and all the information that you have read and heard about E. D. Dier & Co. since that time has been dug out by me."

No Legal Claim on Stoneham
 Mr. Hays demanded that confidence be shown in him and the receiver.

"We have no legal hold on Charles A. Stoneham," he said.

"Ob, yes, you have," interrupted O. P. Carpenter, attorney for most of the creditors. There was a brief clash between them.

Mr. Stoneham, named as a sort of "silent associate" of the Dier company, offered to put in $200,000 as his share for the assets for distribution.

"We could dissipate the assets in litigation," continued Mr. Hays. "And if you want to do that I can make a lot of money out of it, but I have a professional reputation to maintain. Personally, I think Dier and his bunch broke every law on the books. All the receivers in the world can't keep people out of jail. We have nothing to do with that. We're simply interested in getting all the money for you that we can, and you would be better off if these lawyers of yours would co-operate with us instead of doing all they can to embarrass us."

Statement Cheered

Despite the fact that most of those at the meeting went ostensibly to prepare for litigation outside of the efforts of the receiver, Mr. Hays' statement was cheered. Mr. Carpenter interrupted him again to ask how much he thought E. D. Dier owed him.

"Not a cent," replied Mr. Hays. "I think he was fool enough to raise all he could to keep the company on its feet in the last few months before it went down."

"How about getting more than the $200,000 out of Stoneham?" asked Mr. Carpenter.

"I have told you we have no hold on Stoneham and Mr. Hays. As for how, my attorneys have told me that he gave the $200,000 to avoid litigation and publicity—and he has got the publicity. And here is something else I want you to keep in mind. I'm going after those stock exchange firms that dealt with Dier."

Mr. Hays' speech was occasioned by the statement of the chairman of the meeting, Edward Parkinson, and the secretary, George A. Williams, that the list of creditors had been denied to them. They said they wanted the list in order to circulate the other creditors with a view of forming a larger and stronger organization.

Mr. Ehrlich, who was in the back of the room with Mr. Hays during the first part of the meeting, asked permission to make a statement. He said the list of creditors was in the hands of the referee, Seaman Miller, and that if Miller wanted to turn the list over to them he would be glad to do so. He refused, however, to "use his influence with the referee." When Mr. Ehrlich was urged further, Mr. Hays came forward with his statement.

STEINWAY PIANOS

The wonderful musical qualities of Steinway Style M Grand (5 ft. 7 in. length) and the harmony of its structural detail conclusively demonstrate the necessity for length in a grand piano, and the utter futility of attempting to get grand piano results from the short strings and small soundboard of less length. Before buying, make critical comparison of the small "grands" with this Steinway masterpiece. Note carefully the tone depth and richness of Style M; its astonishing carrying power; its marvelous singing quality; its secure and delicate touch. Then, as critically compare price by measurement. Style M is the largest small grand of quality ever made to sell at $1375—yet it is a Steinway, the world's standard piano.
