LARGEST OLD BOOKSTORE IN AMERICA

If it's written in a Book you'll almost certainly find what you're searching for at Leary's. Many a treasured First Edition has found its way into appreciative hands from off our shelves; many an "ancient volume of forgotten lore" has come of light among the thousands of books that pass through our quaint "book clearing-house." But we do not specialize on books of old dates—we specialize on all books to fill all wants.

Stop in when you are in bookish mood. No need to buy—you are welcome to visit.

FIREMEN OVERCOME IN WASTE MILL FIRE

Quaker City Works Destroyed at Pacific and Richmond Streets
LOSS IS SET AT $50,000

Several firemen were overcome in a fire that destroyed the Quaker City Waste Works, Pacific and Richmond streets, this morning and caused a loss of more than $50,000.

All the firemen overcome were revived by physicians on the scene.

Hampered by dense clouds of smoke from the burning waste, the fire fighters battled strenuously for more than seven hours before the flames were subdued.

Shortly before 10 o'clock last night a patrolman saw smoke seeping through the windows of the factory and turned in an alarm. When the firemen arrived they were compelled to break windows in all parts of the building.

More than a score of the fire fighters got inside the building by squeezing themselves through the windows. Many of the men were badly cut. The men removed large holes of waste piled close to the windows, in order to get at the fire.

With much difficulty the men succeeded in getting direct streams on the blaze. During the difficult task many were tipped over. Fellow workers carried them to the street.

Houses in the neighborhood were showered with pieces of burning waste and many streams of water were directed on them.

Firemen said it was one of the worst fires they had tackled in years. More than a score of employees are thrown out of work by the fire.

"FROZEN BILL" DIES

Old-Time Hotelman Passes Away in Home

William P. Corney, an old-time Philadelphia hotelman, died yesterday at the Masonic Home, Broad and Ontario streets, at the age of seventy-nine.

Years ago he was known by almost every one in Philadelphia as "Frozen Bill." This was because he kept oysters on ice through the year in the restaurant of his hotel. He started this a long time ago, when the idea was a striking novelty, if not entirely original with Mr. Corney.

He retired from the hotel business some years ago and had been for five years in the Masonic Home. He is survived by two brothers, Frank Corney, of Philadelphia, and Harry Corney, of Wildwood, N. J. He was uncle of the late Frank M. Wolf, who was long connected with Andrew J. Blair & Son.

The funeral will take place from the Rair mortuary chapel, Arch and Nineteenth streets, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Charles Quinn, of St. Clement's Episcopal Church.

SEES RECORD CROPS

Penn Botany Professor Returns From Survey of Jersey

Prof. John M. MacFarlane, of the botany department, University of Pennsylvania, and an authority on crop conditions in this territory, forecasts record-breaking fruit and wheat crops and a season of unusually high farm productivity.

Prof. MacFarlane returned yesterday from an inspection trip through Southern New Jersey and previously had made a survey in Pennsylvania and Delaware.

He said that this year the plant life had advanced very far ahead of the season and it is now impossible for frost to cause any serious harm as it did last year. Peaches, pears, apples, cherries and plums will show a remarkable yield, according to Prof. MacFarlane, as will all berry and root crops. "I have never seen winter wheat as fine as it is this spring," he said.

PIANOS FOR BURGLARS!

Influence Fine, Agrees McKenty, Though Favoring Hand-Organs

Robert McKenty, organ of the Eastern Post, says he heartily approves the idea to install pianos in burglars' homes. Nor did he smile when he said it.

He realizes the soothing qualities of music and the chances for education which it offers.

"But hand-organs would be better," he insists, "for then every one would be able to play them."

The plan whereby pianos would be placed in the homes of all burglars was suggested by Mayor Hylan, of New York, yesterday and was received with favor. One of the reasons advanced for placing the piano in the burglar's home is the desire to get away from the dullness of life, and it is hoped that music will remedy it to some extent.

But first of all, find your burglar's home!

FOUR HURT IN CRASH

Autos in Collision at Fifty-ninth Street and Osgae Avenue

Four men, escaped with slight injuries from an automobile collision, which wrecked two cars at Fifty-ninth street and Osgae avenue last night. The injured are Meirin Hauffmann, of Stratford, George Oplake, J. H. Cathcart and F. W. Cole, all of Berwyn.

The machine, driven by Hauffmann, going east on Osgae avenue, struck a car driven north on Fifty-ninth street by Morris Schandelman, 6227 Christian street, at the intersection. The blow turned Hauffmann's automobile over twice.

The four injured were taken to Mt. Meridian Hospital.

TRIFLE FUNERAL HELD

Victims of Murder and Suicide Buried at Laurel Springs

A triple funeral was held at Laurel Springs, N. J., today, when Joseph Spinks, a retired farmer, and his daughter, Mrs. Edna Torbert, and her child, Marian, ten months old, were buried from a local undertaking establishment. Spinks shot and killed the mother and child, then committed suicide at their home last Saturday night.

Hundreds of residents of the town and neighboring villages viewed the bodies. The services today were conducted at the graves in Sharpstown by the Rev. F. R. Jewett, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Laurel Springs.

Pulled Fire Alarm to See 'Em Run

A small boy with a desire to see the fire engines pulled an alarm box at the corner of Allegheny avenue and A street today. He was not disappointed. Three hook-and-ladder outfits, six engines and two insurance patrols arrived post haste. The lad was found standing by the box.

"The Thorofare of Bargains"
43 N. 8th Street and 726 Arch Street
Open Thursday Until 9 o'Clock

A big idea has made this the fastest-growing store in Philadelphia. We aimed to win and hold, and have won and held, the entire patronage of more complete families than any other store in this city.

The story of our growth reads like a romance. Read every word of it—it will save you money.

"The Thorofare of Bargains"

is a well-deserved name that can be applied to R. Levy & Sons, and to no other store in Philadelphia.

"The Thorofare of Bargains" is a big idea, as well as a wonderful clearing house of reliable low-priced merchandise. The "idea" is and when they needed the things most. Then came the crowds more and more—until we simply had to take over the big, roomy building at 43 N. 8th St. Thus, when we broke down the separating wall, came

"The Thorofare of Bargains"

Philadelphia's newest miniature department store, of which we feel proud.

We can't describe this wonderful new bargain center, and it is really new, as we've made so many improvements and refinements. Therefore, we ask you to call and look around, if only out of curiosity. You'll get the surprise of your life. You will find the most tempting bargains and at a plan of future payment that will cause you to buy everything you need without the usual red tape that makes future-payment buying elsewhere objectionable, as well as disappointing. Come in today.

"The Thorofare of Bargains"

—a service in outfitting father, mother and the kiddies with all that's dependable in smart, long-wearing clothing—a service in equipping a home with everything, from carpets and rugs to a piano or Victrola.

The big idea was born nearly forty years ago at 726 Arch Street. To win entire families, we had to have everything a whole family needed. We set prices so low and offered a plan of gradual future payments for entire families in any circumstances to obtain all that they needed
