 Appleton and Morgan Are Named on Harvard First Eight
 Cambridge, Mass., April 6.—Dr. R. Heber Howe, director of rowing at Harvard, announced the make-up of the varsity crew for its race with Pennsylvania crew April 29 and in addition gave out the order of the second varsity with the exception of one position, which will be filled by the Philadelphia crew also meet on the same date.

 The doctor selected generously from the freshmen eight he coached last year, the freshmen being seated in the four of its members as follows: Barrie Henry three, Charlie Hubbard at five, Dick Storey at four and Walter Angry at stroke.

TRENTON HELD TO SINGLE FIELD GOAL
 Second-Half Rally by Celtics Gives Gothamites Eastern League Cage Honors
POTTERS SEEMED AFRAID

NEW YORK CELTICS, 1921-1922
 Champions of the Eastern Basketball League. The Gothamites lowered the colors of the Trenton Tigers in the Camden Armory, last evening when they played rings around the Jersey men in the second half and won, 27 to 22.
 Trenton scored one single solitary field goal. It came in the first minute of play and that about describes the aggressiveness of the Trenton outfit. In that one minute Tom went through and tallied, and after that the Potters were just among those present.
 The first half ended with Trenton ahead, 13 to 9. They gained this advantage by superior foul tossing, as each side made a single field goal. There was little basketball displayed in the first ten minutes and the game resembled more of a wrestling match.
 But the New Yorkers recovered their bearings in the final frame and played rings around their opponents. In this period they missed four field goals, two by Beckie and one each by Holman and George Haggerty, who made his only points of the series when he caged a long try that was worthy of the applause heaped upon it.
 The score was tied on five occasions in the first half and four times in the second period, but once the Gothamites went ahead on a one-handed field toss by Beckie, he made the count 20 to 19, the Potters went to pieces for a minute; later Beckman registered a sleeper.
 The outstanding stars were Beckman and Holman, who were in the limelight by their scoring, the former making 16 points, while Holman contributed 8. Leonard made one foul and Dehnert two, while Haggerty added a double.
 Beckman must be given credit for the wonderful game he played. He was not handled in any kid-glove manner by Tom Barlow and took many hard knocks, on one occasion receiving a nasty cut on his arm. He proved conclusively that in cutting for the basket, he is the fastest man in the game.
 The Potters can attribute their defeat to the fact that they were afraid to take chances. They had few shots at the net and Bernie Dunn, who is usually good for three or four goals, only had a couple of chances to register. The defensive work of Dehnert and Leonard could not be excused in any way.
 Meschan at center has the best of Haggerty. He outjumped his opponent, but all this advantage went for naught, as the Potters took few shots at the basket, and it looked as if they were playing it safe under instructions.
 This policy went all right until the Celts got the range of the basket and managed to drop in four two-pointers in the final period.

CARL MAY'S THREATS TO QUIT IF FINED $200
 Resents Being Ragged by Manager Huggins—Will See Colonel Bristol, Tenn., April 6.—The feud between Carl Mays, pitcher of the Yankees, and Miller Huggins, the manager, boiled over yesterday, when Huggins informed the right-hander that he had been fined $200 for "conduct unbecoming a gentleman on the field."
 The fine came as the result of Mays throwing the ball over the grandstand when he was removed in the thick of a Brooklyn assault in the fourth inning at Little Rock on Monday.
 Mays said last evening that he would wait until the first payday, April 15. "If that $200 fine is taken out of my pay I will turn my uniform and quit the club," declared the pitcher. "I'm tired of being ragged by Huggins. He has been after me all spring; he was after me last season. He knows that I told Colonel Huston that he is a bad nigger, and now he is trying to make it hot for me. He wants to make an ordinary pitcher out of me, and I will not stand for it."
 "It was not square to take me out in the middle of an inning. He has not done that with any other pitcher in our line."

Scraps About Scrappers
 Benny Bass has been one of the most consistent winners in local ham competition. The former champion is being groomed by Harry McGrath, himself an amateur boxer of Philadelphia. Bass facts don't bar any one in Philadelphia at 115 pounds.
 Jimmy Frazzetti, lightweight champion of New England, will be assisted in Philadelphia this week. Frazzetti has boxed most of the Eastern stars in bouts Down East.
 Pedro Campo, the Philadelphian, has made himself a favorite with local fans by his willing style. Saturday night at the National Club Pedro will take on Lew McParland in one of the Philadelphian's amateur bouts.
 Phil Salvador-Arcade Walker set-to: Young Joe Borzell vs. Pat Holton in the semi. Other numbers: Pat Bradley vs. Johnny Harz and Al Nelson vs. K. O. Leonard.
 Sergeant Ray Smith, who made a great showing against Jim Holland, only to lose on a questionable fight, has been offered a match with Herman Miller in Baltimore.
 Battling Murray is laying claim to the flyweight title of Philadelphia. Tomorrow night he will fight in a semi-final in a semi-final, Johnny Rocco will clash with Jimmy Blaine vs. Frankie Smith, Young Dencio vs. Ray Shauer and Young Crowley vs. Kid Goodman are other numbers.
 Tommy Loughran has been matched to meet Jimmy Darcy at Syracuse, N. Y., in a twelve-round bout to a judge's decision on April 28.
 Charlie Williams is representing Frankie Reble, 120, and Jackie Buskin, 112, both North in the management of Bobby North. In this city North is representing Williams' stable in New York.
 Steve Laito is laid up with a bad hand. He was forced to cancel matches with Billy Ryan at Cincinnati and Frankie Reble at Buffalo. It will be two weeks before Steve will be able to return.
 Tim Dwyer turned down offers from New Orleans, Galveston, Tex., and several promoters up State in order to go into serious training for his bout with Lew Tender at the Olympia April 17.
 Danny Rodgers, a junior lightweight, is in shape to meet any of the local boys his poundage. Rodgers hails from Manayunk and has been boxing well through the coal regions.

YOUNG FARRELL LAUDED AS LUMINOUS GOLF HOME-BRED
 Nosed Out in Last Round at Columbia Open by Hutchison, 295 to 299, but Experts See in Him a Serious Future Contender
TOURNEY A SUCCESS

By SANDY McNBLOCK
 "HERE today and gone tomorrow," is the motto of the morticians say. Only a one-round spell of bad putting cost young Johnny Farrell a chance to blaze his name in large letters over the professional golf field. For three rounds in the open tourney at Columbia, Farrell led the field that contained the American, British, United States professional match, and ex-Australian champions, as well as the winners of nine out of twelve big southern events this winter.
 He equaled the competitive record for the links in Chevy Chase with his sixty-nine in the first round, and otherwise created such excitement in the everyday man-jack of the large gallery was every man's "for him" to win.
 The Putt Goes
 Yesterday in the last round he was suddenly left bereft of his putting touch. That gone, his second shots began falling short and it was soon all over.
 The leaders the first day were paired the second and Farrell, as Youth, went away with Jack Hutchison, as Experience. All Farrell's hard-earned lead was gradually hacked away by Hutchison, who was hitting on all fours, and a couple of 2's for a seventy-two, and a grand total of 295. Farrell had 299 for second place.
 But though he slipped this time, the veteran fans and news were agreed in their verdict that Farrell is one of the most promising young home-breds since the start to fame of Walter Hagen.
 Farrell's shop is at Quaker Ridge, N. Y., from which club he won the Garden City open last season. He is of fair height and very compact. He smacks a grand ball off the tee and his long seconds are sure applause-getters when he scores a real hit.
 Yesterday afternoon his judgment of distance was faulty, not uncommon at Columbia, where nearly all the greens are banked against the shot, making them look closer than they are.
 Nifty-Mashie Nibble
 Farrell is a great little worker with his mashie nibble. He gave an impressive exhibition between rounds, dropping two dozen balls so close from fifty yards around his Ethiopian caddy that the latter scarcely moved to retrieve 'em.
 Mulling over the tourney afterwards, one of the officials at the Columbia Club had this to say:
 "Jim Barnes won the national here last year because he had the touch necessary to putt on the greens as they were then. Hutchison is returned the winner this time because he didn't spare a thing. His motto was 'better over than short' and it took the money."
 There wasn't much roll to be had on the ball as the approaches were
