League's activities.

Criticizing our Junior League. They week in Carlisle with her daughter, when York's league is wonderful; it's always doing something. The league here is simply dying."

That's not true at all, you know, simply because our girls do not dress themselves up as "lamp shades" and "tops" and other weird things, and do not give same great his annual on. "tops" and other weird things, and do not give some great big annual entertainment is no proof that we are not active here. The Junior League was started primarily to interest girls of the younger set in good works. Every girl who joins the league is supposed to do social service work of one kind or another, and let me tell you our Junior Leaguers are as busy as they can be doing good work.

I met one member recently, who told me with enthusiasm that they were me with enthusiasm that they were going to paint one of the rooms in a nurse's home attached to one of the hospitals with their own hands. Another was driving visiting nurses to distant cases in her own car several times a many lates of the sight are Girl South Lots of the girls are Girl Scout captains, and a great many work for the Seamen's Institute. It's a very active organization, but it does not advertise itself very much here.

THE children have been taught to be THE children have been taught to be polite and when introduced to others to speak nicely to any lady or gentleman who happens it, for tea and wishes to talk to them. The other day Tommy and Polly, who is only three and very shy, were in the drawing room with mother, when Mrs. C—— came in. Mother called Tommy to speak to the lady, and he bowed very prettily and said: "How do you do, Mrs. C——." Then it was Polly's tayn, and mother said: "Come, Polly, dear, and speak to Mrs. C——." Polly flushed, and then came slowly over to mother's side. then came slowly over to mother's side.

Mother took her hand and said: "Polly,
this is mother's friend, Mrs. C."."

And Polly gulped and said, "Is it?" NANCY WYNNE.
